UNION STRIKES HOSPITAL

Enough Supplies For 24 Hours

Forty-eight hours' strike notice was posted today at Nanaimo General Hospital by the International Union of Operating Engineers.

After Friday morning, the engineers will be legally able to strike this hospital, said union international representative Ed Callan.

A total of 21 hospitals are involved in the current dispute, including the six major hospitals where strike notice was served last month.

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — The International Union of Operating Engineers started a strike today against the Royal Columbian Hospital in support of wage demands, and threatened to spread the walkout to five other British Columbia hospitals.

Two union members picketed the hospital, near the area where trucks dump fuel to fire boilers used in heating the big hospital. The union provides the five men that man the boilers.

Hospital officials said supervisory personnel were maintaining the hospital's heating system, but if existing fuel supplies are used at a normal rate, it will be gone in about 24 hours.

There was no indication this morning from the union or the hospitals when strike action will start at Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's.

But a union spokesman warned there will be "quick action" unless there is a sign of settlement in New Westminster.

A spokesman said a lack of heating facilities could seriously impair hospital efficiency.

CANCEL OPERATIONS

Doctors at the Royal Columbian have been asked to cancel all elective surgery and to discharge as many patients as possible. Dr. R. G. Foulkes, the hospital's medical superintendent said not many of the 403 patients there when the strike started have been able to leave.

The warning that the strike will spread came from Henry Berger, business manager of the union Local 882, which represents about 50 stationary engineers at the six hospitals.

He said the strike will soon include Vancouver General, Burnaby General and St. Paul's hospitals on the lower mainland if wage demands are not met.

The union has served strike notice on all the hospitals involved, but no date has been set for walkouts at the others.

The union demands parity between third-class engineers rates at all six hospitals, and has rejected a conciliation board report recommending a $20 a month higher rate at the two Victoria hospitals.

The engineers seek rates of $630 a month now and $670 a month next July. The conciliation board recommended rates of $620 and $660 a month respectively at the two Victoria hospitals, and $600 and $640 a month at the others.

Rates now are $560 a month at Royal Jubilee and $540 at the others.

CRANE OPERATOR LIVES AFTER 10-STOREY FALL

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A giant crane toppled 10 storeys from the top of an unfinished building into the rush-hour traffic of a downtown Tampa street today.

Four persons were injured, including crane operator Floyd Masterson, who rode the 150-foot-high vehicle on its long fall. He was reported in fair condition.

NEW DESIGNS are rising in the background over Thunderbird Park's totem poles as workmen install exterior walls to decorate both sides of the Centennial Museum under construction at Belleville and Government. Twenty pre-cast white concrete columns, 37 feet high, are being erected on each side, bearing grey aggregate panels with white diamond-shaped centres as the wall portions for the upper and lower balconies on the east and west sides. Glass will be fitted between the columns and panels to enclose the balconies. Those on the west will be furnished as lounges and those on the east will be corridors linking huge exhibit rooms.

Soviet Policy Rapped By Radical Latin Reds

HAVANA (Reuters)—The Latin American Solidarity Organization of Revolutionary Forces meeting here today approved a controversial resolution condemning Soviet economic and technical policy in the Western Hemisphere.

Approval came after hours of acrimonious discussion in a crisis session of one of the working commissions despite threats by traditionalist Communists to walk out of the conference if the motion was approved.

But when the motion was approved 15 to 3 with nine abstentions, the traditionalists did not immediately carry out their threat.

Observers saw the resolution as underlining the split between the old line revolutionaries who look towards Havana and the orthodox Moscow-oriented Communist parties of the hemisphere.

Observers consider the traditionalists, though they did not walk out, now will leave the Latin American Solidarity Organization once they return home.

The crisis came Tuesday night after Cuba and other hardline revolutionaries sponsored a resolution denouncing the policy of certain socialist countries which gave credits and technical aid to "dictatorships" and "oligarchies" in the hemisphere.

RUSSIA INTENDED

This was an unmistakable reference to the Soviet Union, Poland and other Communist nations which recently signed agreements with Colombia, Brazil, Chile and other Latin American countries.

Main support for the motion was expounded in a two-hour speech by Armando Hart, organizing secretary of the Cuban Communist party.

Sources said Cuba and Venezuela led the voting in favor of the motion. Uruguay, Costa Rica and El Salvador voted against.

Chile, whose delegation is divided between hard-line socialists and Communists, abstained.

'Bomber' Pilot Killed Fighting Forest Fire

TRAIL (CP) — The pilot was killed when an Avenger water bomber crashed and burned Tuesday while fighting a forest fire near this eastern British Columbia city.

Witnesses said the single-seater aircraft and two other water bombers were attempting to douse a fire touched off by lightning at Kelly creek south of Fruitvale, 240 air miles east of Vancouver.

The plane was owned by Skyways Air Services of Abbotsford.

Officials later indentified the pilot as Donald Hill of White Rock, 20 miles south of Vancouver.

The fire is in the Nelson forest district, a 30,000-square-mile area hit hard by fires this summer.

A 12,000-acre blaze that had raged out of control for a week was being contained Tuesday night, but there still were 94 fires burning in the district Many were started by lightning on the weekend.

The water bomber crash was the second in B.C. in less than a month.

Pilot Alex Davidson and spotter R. T. Moore were killed July 17 when their bomber crashed while fighting a blaze on Skirt Mountain near Victoria.

Four men were killed in the crash of a Martin mars water bomber in 1961 near Parksville on Vancouver Island. Another pilot was killed in 1960 while fighting a fire near Kelowna, in the Okanagan.

'Step Up the Bombing' LBJ Urged by Senators

7,000 RED GUARDS ATTACK IN CANTON

HONG KONG (UPI) — The anti-Communist Hong Kong Times today quoted travellers as saying that 7,000 Red Guards clashed Monday afternoon in Canton and fought a 13-hour battle with knives, spears and guns that killed "many people." Canton is the largest city in southern China.

The published report said the battle raged until 4 a.m. Tuesday when Chinese troops moved in and sealed off an area near the Pearl Bridge in Canton's Honan district.

There was no confirmation of the reported bloodshed from official Chinese sources, but the British-owned South China Morning Post published here said its mainland contacts told of anarchy in Canton.

Bomb Rocks Ship Terminal

By JOHN KIRKWOOD
Times Asia Bureau

HONG KONG — A Communist terror bomb exploded today in Hong Kong's luxurious Ocean Terminal as it was crowded with tourists and local residents.

A young English woman was injured in the blast which rocked the building's main hall and sent scores of people dashing for safety.

This was the latest in a series of bomb outrages today which injured seven people as the Red terrorists mounted a hit and run campaign in the Kowloon Peninsula across the harbor from Hong Kong Island.

I was walking only about 20 yards away when the home-made bomb exploded at the information counter.

SHOPPING COMPLEX

The explosion was heard throughout the huge shopping and shipping complex, a cloud of smoke swirled through the main hall and the young English receptionist, identified as Jacqueline Turner, 21, working at the counter was hurled from her chair.

She was rushed to hospital suffering an injured leg and hand. Tourists and residents dining in an expensive restaurant on the terminal's upper deck scrambled from their tables to seek cover and others dashed from nearby shops to see what had happened.

IN CAMERA CASE

The bomb is believed to have been concealed in a camera case planted inside the counter. The blast ripped part of the counter away and debris was scattered across the floor.

Police immediately sealed off the area when another suspected bomb was found but British army ballistics experts found it was a fake.

The Ocean Terminal, one of the most modern in the world, is in the heart of Kowloon's Tsimshatsiu tourist and shopping area. A French passenger liner was tied up at the terminal when the bomb exploded.

MONGOLIAN DRAGGED AWAY

PRAGUE (Reuters)—Chinese teen-agers in Peking today set fire to the Mongolian ambassador's car, dragged the driver out and took him away, the Czechoslovak news agency Ceteka reported.

The driver, a Mongolian, was alone in the car which was parked outside a store for diplomats, the agency said.

After burning the vehicle, the teen-agers buried it under a heap of bricks.

'Riots Lack Support Of Peking'

HONG KONG (UPI)—A former Chinese Communist official who played a leading role in mapping anti-British riots sweeping the colony has defected to Nationalist China, it was disclosed today.

The former Red Chinese official, who suddenly popped up in Tapei, Formosa, told newsmen he believed the leftist riots on Hong Kong will gradually taper off because they do not have the full support of the Peking regime.

The disclosure of the defection came amid a new burst of terrorist bombings in the colony that injured at least seven persons, including the first European to be injured by a bomb since violence erupted three months ago in the aftermath of labor unrest.

Oil Workers 'Rebel' Against Pro-Maoists

TOKYO (Reuters)—Radio Moscow said today 13,000 Chinese workers led by high-ranking military leaders rebelled against Chairman Mao Tse-tung at Taching oilfield in Manchuria.

A Moscow broadcast monitored here said the workers launched an attack on Mao's followers on instructions from the Taching party leader.

The report did not say when the uprising began and gave no further details. It did not name the military leader of the rebellion.

Taching oilfield was discovered in 1960. The official Chinese press has boasted that it is one of the most advanced in the world, making China independent of foreign oil, but the site of the field has never been disclosed except that it is in the northeast.

Protest Targets Placed Off-Limit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John C. Stennis, D.—Miss., called today for "increased and expanded" bombing of North Vietnam to hasten the end of the war. House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said the attacks should be stepped up even at the risk of a wider war.

Opening Senate hearings on the effectiveness of the bombing as part of a broad, new Congressional debate over air war policy Stennis said either a bombing pause or restrictions on bombing could be "a tragic and perhaps fatal mistake."

Ford triggered a new flurry of controversy between "hawks" and "doves" with an attack on the administration for putting man targets off-limits. He was asked if he favored intensified bombing even if at the risk of bringing China or Russia into the war.

"Yes, I would," he replied. Rep. John J. Rhodes, R—Ariz., chairman of the house GOP policy committee, commented at a joint news conference with Ford, "there's always a risk involved in war."

Stennis appeared to side with Ford who said no more troops should be sent to Vietnam until restrictions are removed from the bombimg. Stennis declined to bracket himself formally with Ford when reporters questioned him, but he commented that he felt the air war "should be enlarged."

'NO CHOICE'

He said he felt President Johnson has "no choice but to step up the bombing" and asserted: "The question is, shall we send more troops into Vietnam if we are not going to enlarge the bombing. It's hard to see how we can commit more men to the ground war in South Vietnam without cutting off the supply lines flowing in from North Vietnam."

Stennis' Senate military preparedness subcommittee is conducting the air war hearings — with reporters barred.

Adm. Ulysses G. Grant Sharp, commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific, was quoted as saying

South Africa Takes Lead Over Canada

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Canada's golf team was doing the chasing this afternoon in the singles matches with unbeaten South Africa in the Commonwealth tournament at Victoria Golf Club.

The Canadians, who drew the first-round bye Tuesday, were beaten 2 and 1 by South Africa in this morning's Scotch foursomes.

That means Canada needs to win four of the afternoon's six singles to defeat the Springboks.

Australia, beaten convincingly by South Africa on Tuesday, rebounded to chalk up a 2-1 edge over Britain in the other foursomes this morning.

Winner of each daily match is decided by the total number of points gained in foursomes and singles.

LONE VICTORY

Canada's lone foursomes victory was scored by Gary Cowan of Ontario and Alberta's Keith Alexander, who defeated David Symons and Comrie du Toit.

Canadians Nick Weslock and John Johnston were nipped 2 and 1 by Derek Kemp and High Biaocchio while Wayne Vollmer and Doug Silverberg lost 3 and 2 to the South African pair of John Fourie and Rodney Mullan.

Results of the Australia-Great Britain foursomes (Australian players named first):

Kevin Donohoe and Kevin Hartley defeated Ronnie Shade and Sandy Sadler 6 and 5; Dennis Bell and Victor Bulgin defeated Gordon Cosh and Rodney Foster 4 and 3; Phil Billings and Bill Britten lost 5 and 4 to Mike Bonallack and Dudley Millenstead.

RARE ATTACK NEAR OKANAGAN LAKE

Black Bear Mauls Girl to Death

VERNON (CP) — A black bear Tuesday attacked and killed a 10-year-old girl on the west bank of Okanagan Lake 25 miles from here.

Dead is Susan Duckitt, who was holidaying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Duckitt, and her brother and sister. The family is from the Fraser Valley community of Haney.

Susan had been picnicking with another girl, nine-year-old Jennifer McHugh of North Vancouver when the bear attacked.

"We had walked back up into the hills," Jennifer said. "We sat down after walking for about half an hour. We were looking down over the lake when we first saw the bear standing on its hind feet.

"We both started to scream and run down the hill to home. Susan was right behind me.

"I heard a funny scream and looked around but I didn't see anything."

The bear was described as a four-year-old male, apparently in good health and well fed.

Wildlife authorities said they know of no other attack by a black bear where cubs were not involved.

Conservation officer Alan Frisby at first refused to believe the girl had been killed by the male and set out with tracking dogs to try and find a female with cubs. But an examination of the bear, after it had been shot, proved it was the killer.

Gordon Hogue, of Edmonton, and others went to look for the girl. Six shots were fired by the searchers but just one, by Mr. Hogue, was needed to kill the bear.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

We didn't believe it until we saw it ourselves, but Mrs. Sylvia Stibbard of Vancouver is right—the provincial government boobed on the huge bronze coat of arms in Centennial Garden.

A guest at Bel Isle Motel, Mrs. Stibbard recalled that the Union Jack is properly flown with the broad white band above the small white band in the top left corner. Otherwise, the flag is a sign of distress. And that's what public works officials will feel when they check the report for themselves.

Spare a prayer for junior officers aboard St. Croix this week. Thursday all officers serving in the destroyer escor will take turns bringing the ship alongside the jetty. The captain will mark each attempt.

Unless you have ever tried to manoeuver 2,366 tons of ship in a confined area without brakes, you have no idea how mcch of a thrill "jetty bashing" exercises can be.

Not quite two years ago the B.C. Ferry Authority launched the 50-car ferry Mayne Queen to provide an improved service for Gulf Islanders. Today, judging by Sunday's experience, the service is ready for a booster vessel.

After leaving Saturna Island on the home-bound trip Mayne Queen picked up passengers and cars at Mayne Island, Galiano Island and Pender Island. But the last two cars in the line up at Pender's Otter Bay barely got aboard. Only a valiant effort by crewmen, who bounced a couple of vehicles into spots they couldn't drive into, save the day.

Ferry officials say present service is adequate except in a few peak periods.

St. Joseph's Hospital bulletin gives the rules for raising a misfit. We pass them along in abbreviated form:

Don't have any rules for child behaviour or obedience. If you have rules, enforce them irregularly. Air domestic disputes before the children, preferably with a little name calling. Never give the child any regular duties. If he's disciplined at school go down and tear a strip off the teacher. If he has trouble with the police, bawl out the "dumb cop." Let the child observe you exceed speed limits. Let him hear you deny you were speeding when you get caught. If you chisel a few bucks on your income tax, brag about it in his presence. And finally, never check on his whereabouts. This is surefire.

Don't be unkind to Hippies. One of them might save your life one day. We understand from Toronto that when the Red Cross blood drive faltered there, Yorkville Hippies swarmed to the rescue. Now here's a field where Hippies can prove their love for us. One problem appeared though. Many of the Hippies were too undernourished and their corpuscle count too low for their blood to be acceptable. We suspect Victoria Hippies are made of better stuff. Why doesn't the Red Cross ask them?

Mayor Hugh Stephen hasn't announced it yet but there's a plan afoot at City Hall to create a Victoria Hall of Fame.

It was a natural outgrowth of the work undertaken for the centenary by archivist Ainslie Helmcken. His historical displays have been a point of interest in the main lobby of City Hall.

Under the new program Victorians will be asked to nominate local people who have served the city, province or nation in an outstanding manner. When a nomination is accepted, souvenirs and photographs will be sought out and displayed. First category may be sports. Pioneers and living residents may be nominated.

Cuba Claims Capture Of More CIA Invaders

HAVANA (Reuters)—Cuba today accused the United States Central Intelligence Agency of infiltrating a new group of counter-revolutionary saboteurs into the island last Sunday to carry out a special mission against the Castro regime.

The accusation came only three days after Cuba produced to the world press another group of alleged CIA agents who were accused of plotting the assassination of Premier Fidel Castro and other Cuban leaders.

A communique issued today said security forces intercepted a group of four CIA agents trying to infiltrate on the north coast of Pinar del Rio in western Cuba.

One of the four was shot in the arm and captured immediately.

The second was captured in the afternoon and the other two escaped by boat.

The communique said the armed group had direct orders from the CIA and added: "This is proof of the criminal policy of the U.S. government against Cuba."

EXHIBITION EXPECTED

The captured agents, together with their equipment and documents, were expected to be put on show to the Latin American Solidarity Conference delegates and the world press in an exhibition similar to that of three days ago.

The Associated Press quoted Havana radio as saying the two members who escaped abandoned equipment and documents.

The infiltrators displayed before the conference Sunday were described later in Miami by their leader, Maj. Armando Eleites, as part of an "irregular warfare" campaign to topple the Castro regime.

UAW Strike Call Against Ford

. . . BOMBING

the bombing should be continued and that more valuable military targets could be struck.

Sharp was the first witness and his views were described to newsmen by Stennis.

Some other members said Sharp's testimony reinforced their views that bombing restrictions should be eased.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D—Wash., for one said: "We can extend the bombing effort without enlarging the war. It can be done. It must be done."

MORE TARGETS

Referring to those who have urged a halt in the bombing, Stennis said Sharp's testimony showed not only that the bombing should be continued but that there are "additional targets—military targets of value to the enemy—that could be put on the target list."

Stennis' pre-hearing statement reflected concern among some senators over reports that President Johnson is reviewing the bombing and that a new halt in air raids may be in the offing.

"It would be a tragic and perhaps fatal mistake for us to suspend or restrict the bombing," Stennis said. "In my opinion this is no time to reduce or diminish the pressure or to throw away any military advantage."

Ford accused the administration of placing "nearly half the identified top-priority targets in North Vietnam officially off limits to air attack," including power plants, oil depots, air defense control centres, rail and canal points and some military bases.

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, who will testify before the Stennis group, charged that Ford had ignored the objectives of the bombing, which he said were to reduce communist infiltration without destroying North Vietnam. Ford said McNamara's response was "not adequate."

Weather Aids Crops

WINNIPEG (CP) — General rain in Manitoba during the weekend and cooler weather have combined to brighten the prospects for a good crop, the Manitoba department of agriculture reported today.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Extensive fog patches formed overnight under clear skies in the south coast and was associated with cloud and rain over the north coast. The interior was generally clear and some valley fog formed in the Cariboo.

No significant change is expected through Thursday as high pressure continues to dominate the southern half of the province. The low-pressure area in the Gulf of Alaska will continue to influence northern B.C., giving cloud and showers to that area.

INDUSTRY MAY TAKE OVER MONTREAL BOOKINGS

Logexpo Ready to Give Up in Hotel Hassle

MONTREAL (CP)—Robert F. Shaw, Expo's deputy commissioner-general, said today Expo 67 would be prepared to hand over its entire Logexpo operation to Montreal's hotel industry.

His statement came in the wake of an announcement by the Queen Elizabeth Hotel that it has started an emergency accommodation service for visitors to Expo and a charge by Premier Daniel Johnson that Logexpo apparently has not fulfilled its role.

Mr. Shaw said the 20-member Montreal Hotel Association had set up, at the start of Expo 67, a room co-ordination control bureau in the Sheraton Mount Royal Hotel which had been "most co-operative and helpful to Expo."

Expo hoped the new service of the Queen Elizabeth could be co-ordinated with the association's service and that "a large and experienced association of the type contemplated might be willing to take over the operations of Logexpo and broaden the scope to include the whole field of accommodation."

To this end, he said, "we would be prepared to hand over our staff of 110 persons together with our telephone and computer operations and would be quite willing to provide the funds remaining in our budget to cover the cost."

Logexpo has been under almost constant criticism because of complaints by many tourists concerning accommodation provided during their visit to the fair.

Donald M. Mumford, president of Hilton Canada Ltd. and managing director of the Queen Elizabeth Hotel, said "we are extremely disturbed by the damage being done to the reputation of our community and to the reputations of responsible members of the hotel, motel and lodging industry."

Mr. Johnson threatened Tuesday night that the provincial government "will have to intervene" if hotel associations and similar groups in the Montreal area do not try to solve the accommodation problems facing visitors to Expo.

Expo sources said some of the downtown hotels are having as many as 50 vacant rooms a night because persons making reservations in advance fail to show up at the hotels.

SPEECHES PUT ON TAPE BY FBI

'Black Power' Arrests Foiled by Constitution

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. justice department is hanging on every public word of Black Power advocates Stokely Carmichael and H. Rap Brown.

But a thicket of legal, political and evidence-related problems surrounds the department. Members of Congress and more than a thousand indignant, letter-writing citizens are asking about the applicability of various laws to the pair's activities.

No federal prosecution of either is in progress.

Last week, Attorney-General Ramsey Clark and his lawyers gathered around a tape recorder in Clark's office, attentive to a Washington harangue by Brown, the 23-year-old chairman of the Student Non-violent Co-ordinating Committee.

FBI agents often are on hand for public appearances by Brown and his SNCC predecessor, Carmichael, and their tape recorders are busy.

CARMICHAEL

BROWN

STUDY TRANSCRIPTS

Lawyers in the department's internal security division comb newspapers and magazines and study broadcast transcripts to look for possible violations of federal law.

Although department and FBI officials won't talk for the record about pending investigations, these are some of their problems:

Laws—Sedition is advocating overthrow of the government. Treason means levying war against the United States or aiding its enemies. A selective service law prohibits counselling persons to evade military service. The obstacles from a legal standpoint in each case are gigantic.

The courts—since a Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes opinion in 1919—have weighed the balance heavily in favor of the freedom of speech and press guaranteed by the first amendment to the U.S. constituion.

A clear and present danger must be proven; the danger must be grave and immediate. And specific, deliberate intent to provoke the forbidden acts also must be shown.

The constitution itself imposes the tightest restrictions on treason prosecutions. It says treason against the United States "shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court."

While Stokley Carmichael is on the record as having said "Hell, no, don't go" into the armed services and Vietnam, the justice department would be hard-put to find he specifically counselled an individual to evade military duty—or that anyone tried to evade it because of what Carmichael shouted to a cheering, shouting audience.

Evidence—Can the government prove a harangue led to anything? It is trying to produce witnesses to Carmichael's recent statements in Havana, in which he was quoted as urging guerrilla warfare in U.S. cities and made other derogatory remarks about the U.S. But Western journalists were barred—and newspaper accounts, while plentiful, are inadmissible as evidence.

Results—Some believe prosecution of a Negro militant for words alone might lead to greater trouble than anyone bargained for.

Another problem is that the department keeps coming up with discrepancies in reports of what a speaker said. Even tape recordings, with their backgrounds of chanting, shouting, and laughter often are of little use. And flimsy, unsure evidence is especially to be avoided in cases where the emotion-laden issue of freedom of speech is the defence.

'FULL EARTH' PICTURE COMING

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Lunar Orbiter V has snapped the first picture of the "full earth." Earthlings won't see it for several days.

Flight controllers at the jet propulsion laboratory here say the photograph, taken Tuesday, will be televised Friday to a tracking station at Madrid, Spain.

It may be several days after that before the picture is released by the U.S. space agency in Washington.

Previous Orbiters have taken pictures of earth in partial shadow. The globe was in full sunlight when the latest photograph was shot.

Scientists told news conference Tuesday that Lunar Orbiter V has taken 48 pectures, most of them of the backside of the moon. It can take about 200 more before it runs out of film Aug. 18. Most of these will be of areas of scientific interest on the moon's visible side.

Actresses Gouge Eyes In Fracas

MANILA (Reuters)—Philippine film star Lucita Soriano is in danger of losing the sight of one eye following an angry fight with another actress while on location.

Miss Soriano, 26, filed charges of slander and assault Tuesday against Stella Suarez, 22.

As well as the eye injury, Miss Soriano has cuts in her cheek, nose, and forehead.

The fight occurred Monday while the two actresses were shooting a film called Sexy Dolls at a beach resort here.

Miss Soriano says in her suit that Miss Suarez screamed insults and attacked her with a broken coffee cup after a dispute about Miss Suarez's late appearance on the set.

Miss Suarez said she would file a counter-suit for slander against the other star.

SPLIT IN RHODESIA

Smith Challenged By Right-Winger

SALISBURY (Reuters)—The threat of a deep split looms over Ian Smith's ruling Rhodesian Front because of the bid by a right-wing former South African to capture the party chairmanship.

The challenger is a former air force captain, L. P. J. Boshoff, 55, who came to Rhodesia in 1945 and now owns seven farms.

The president chairman, Lt.-Col. W. M. Knox, a strong supporter of Smith, has already been nominated for re-election at the annual congress next month. Observers here see Boshoff's candidacy as an indirect challenge to the Rhodesian premier.

Smith is regarded as a moderate in the party and there have long been rumors of strong discontent among the Rhodesian Front's right-wing faction, now believed to be backing Boshoff.

Extremist party members are said to have disapproved strongly of the latest exchanges between Smith and the British government. They feel further negotiations on Rhodeai's independence are unnecessary and irrelevant and the break-away colony should now go it alone.

The right wingers also want a republic established along South African lines.

APARTHEID COMING?

One apparent result of right-wing pressure was the announcement two months ago that the government is considering a new law enabling whites to evict colored and Asian families from white neighborhoods—a measure described as the thin end of the apartheid wedge.

If Smith were to lose a showdown over the leadership he might well be pushed upstairs as the first nonexecutive president of a republican Rhodesia, observers here suggested.

The country's leaders could then retain the benefit of his popularity while forcing him to discard his power.

VARNISH TOLL REACHES 53 AFTER PARTY

MADRAS, India (Reuters)—The death toll from a party at which varnish was drunk as liquor rose today to 53, including eight women.

Police said 47 persons still in hospital are responding to treatment, although two are still seriously ill.

They became ill Sunday after the party, part of a Hindu festival. The purchase and consumption of alcohol is banned in Madras state.

Police have arrested three persons, including the owner of the store where the varnish was bought.

'CAN'T WIN BOTH WARS'

HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP) — Senator J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the foreign relations committee of the U.S. Senate, said Tuesday the Vietnam war is "poisoning and brutalizing our domestic life," with the result that "the Great Society has become a sick society."

The Arkansas Democrat told the American Bar Association that the U.S. is fighting a two-front war: A war of "power politics" in the jungles of southeast Asia and a war "for America's soul" in the streets of Newark and Detroit.

It is winning neither, he said, and "each war feeds on the other."

Fulbright said the U.S. does not have the resources to win both in Vietnam and at home.

The Wrong Battlefield

THE PRESENT STRIKE OF stationary engineers at the Royal Columbian Hospital in New Westminster, and the possibility of similar labor action in other major hospitals in the province raises again the urgent question of guaranteeing essential community services. The situation may be compounded later this year if registered nurses prove adamant in their demand for a 50 per cent wage increase.

Obviously, labor must enjoy full bargaining powers, and normally these can be exercised in industrial disputes without curtailment of services on which the public depends for existence. The long-term effect of strikes, of course, is costly to all concerned; we are fortunate to live in an economy that is prosperous enough to survive them. But in certain fields the lives of individuals, or the ordinary existence of the community itself, may be jeopardized.

In many cases arrangements have been made with organized labor to avoid serious effects. It is widely accepted that police and fire services should be free of strike threats; water supplies for fire fighting and human consumption are largely safeguarded; few picket lines bar the provision of food or medical supplies.

There are limits beyond which strike action is not permitted to go by either side in a dispute, yet the workers involved in such services are not held to be at a disadvantage with other types of employees. Despite restraints on their striking powers they enjoy returns for their labor comparable with those in other fields.

Sooner or later both labor, and employers, whether private or government, will recognize that the losses caused by drawn-out labor stoppages are too costly for life in our era. In particular, immunity from strike action will be extended beyond the category of stark necessity to other areas in which services will be guaranteed while fair negotiation takes place.

Surely hospitals will be so recognized. The sick and injured should not be forced to suffer either anxiety or discomfort as the result of a labor dispute in which they can have no part in settlement. A shoe factory or an automobile plant may be shut down by strike action and the immediate concern is not that some persons will face threats to their health or lives. But hospital patients are at the mercy of events. A heating or freezing plant may operate for a time on emergency measures; the pumps and other vital equipment may be kept going for a while, but eventually a crisis can occur and serious hardship could result.

It is incumbent on hospital management to provide essential services, but that cannot mean acquiesence in every demand that labor may make. It is necessary that a better system of settlement be devised, to be extended to essential services of all kinds and then projected, for the benefit of both labor and management, to other areas of industrial conflict. The twentieth century has seen some startling changes in methods and processes. It is not appropriate that so vital a field as labor-management relationships should still be struggling with nineteenth-century procedures.

Dr. Bennett Prescribes

MR. BENNETT HAS EXpressed his ambition to send a "ginger group" of British Columbia Social Credit members to parliament to instruct the federal government in the intricacies of balanced budgets and sound financing. These advisers to the national capital which Mr. Bennett never wearies of attacking would have the task of "making Canada solvent" in the same manner that Mr. Bennett has made British Columbia solvent.

Excellent. There are, of course, one or two conditions which the federal government would have to establish before it could emulate British Columbia's example. To get rid of its national debt, for instance, it would have to distribute it among the provinces and subsidiary commissions, just as Mr. Bennett has "abolished" the province's debt by making highway authorities, school boards, hydro commissions and above all, municipalities, do the borrowing for it.

Having distributed the national debt among such reluctant partners, with a good portion of it going onto the books of the provinces—and we can imagine Mr. Bennett's reception of that — the federal government would need one more bit of mechanism in the process of staying solvent. It would have to have a senior government, just as the provinces have, to which it could go yelling for more money, and on which it could lay the responsibility of levying taxes from which grants would be forthcoming. With these two aids: grants from above and somebody below to do the borrowing, the federal government would be in a good position to follow Mr. Bennett's financial example.

Just wait till that ginger group gets down there and explains it all!

The Commonwealth Plays Golf

CENTENNIAL SPORTS INTEREST, focussed last week on Winnipeg for the Pan-American Games, centres now on Victoria, host to the fourth Commonwealth Golf Tournament. Here for the occasion are leading amateur players of Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, matching strokes with Canadians in what is probably the most important golfing event ever staged here.

The sports pages, here and elsewhere in the Commonwealth, are now discussing the results and calibre of play as this capital achieves a new prestige in the internationally popular sport. Victoria gains publicity from the occasion—tributes from players for the attractiveness of the links and for the general city environment. As the matches progress friendships are being forged in the freemasonry of the game and beyond it.

Congratulations go to those energetic Victorians who have made the competitions possible, and with them a warm welcome to the golfers from three other continents.

Municipal Party Government

PROF. ERIC BEECROFT, OF the University of Western Ontario political science department, is the most recent advocate of municipal government on a political party basis.

He believes that the party system would help municipalities in reaching decisions and he argues that municipal government today is the most obsolete part of our governmental structure.

Despite this, countries in which party politics are active in city councils have yet to prove their superiority over the ostensibly nonpartisan structure of municipal government throughout Canada.

The introduction of political antipathies between provincial and municipal governments of differing party beliefs would only add to problems which are already considerable. On the other hand the political compatibility of governments would not ensure the solution of problems in which economic and financial considerations emerge much more strongly than political. Municipalities face problems of a local nature in which the introduction of national or provincial politics could do much more harm than good.

Friendship Through Sport

May we thank the Esquimalt Minor Lacrosse Association and its members for the fine hospitality extended to our players and their parents July 22-23.

Lacrosse games were played in the Esquimalt Arena in Tyke, Novice, Pee Wee and Bantam divisions on Saturday. Our players were billeted with their counterparts and then participated in a fun-filled picnic and sports program at Gorge Park on Sunday.

We feel that weekends such as this develop minor sports to their highest level—where fun and friendships are of equal importance to the games themselves.—Frank Thompson, Burnaby Minor Lacrosse Association.

Page Boy—So What?

In the issues of August 2nd and 3rd, you have reported arrests and ensuing charges laid in connection with possession of marijuana, and in both cases your news coverage included a partial physical description of one Glen S. Warner. In the article on August 2nd, you stated "The youth, who had a beard and wore his hair in a long feminine page-boy style . . ." In the article on August 3rd, you stated, "Warner, who has long hair and a beard . . ."

I am bewildered as to the significance of the fact that the accused "has long hair and a beard," and why The Times feels this information is important, or warranted space in a newspaper. . . .

If The Times wishes to conduct an anti-hippie campaign, then why can this not be done on an honest, "pros and cons" basis, rather than through subtle means as mentioned in the case of Mr. Warner?—L.J.T.

Noise

A new disease has attacked motorists in Victoria—horn-blowers syndrome.

The symptoms are these: You are following a car, which is being driven at the prescribed speed, and this is tiresome, as you are in a hurry, so you give it a blast to hurry it on, and when the next lights turn green, and the driver accelerates quickly, but not enough to squeak his tires, nor roar his engine, this is infuriating so you give another blast. But your anger soon subsides, when you notice a friend on the sidewalk, and give him a friendly pip-pip in salutation. And so you arrive at the address at which you have arranged to pick up your wife, and give the agreed number of blasts, to tell her that you are waiting.

Finally, after that enjoyable party—perhaps about 2 a.m.—when you are all gathering in the street, you give several happy blasts of "good night," waking all the neighbors, so that they too may wish you all the restful sleep from which you have roused them.

But, seriously, there are very few occasions when the use of the horn is really necessary—rounding a blind bend on a narrow road, for example, when for some reason this warning is never used.—'Motorist."

FROM QUEBEC CITY

By STAN McDOWELL

A Language Smudge on the Tory Image

ONE aim of the Progressive Conservative policy conference at the nearby retreat of Montmorency House is to improve the party's image in Quebec.

McDowell

"Our party has never had the reputation of being Francophile, not to excess anyway," Roger Regimbald, MP for Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes and conference co-chairman, admitted at the opening session Monday morning.

Mr. Regimbald's hope that the conference would make a beginning toward changing that image ran into trouble from the start.

The idea of the conference is to mix intellectuals, practical politicians and "lay people" in equal proportions, put them in an atmosphere of free-wheeling, shirt-sleeves discussion, and hope that new creative ideas will emerge to help the party plan for the needs of "post-industrial society".

The immediate problem, as far as Quebec was concerned, was to find French-speaking intellectuals willing to attend a PC conference.

Of 42 invited, only four turned up. And one of those who did come, sociologist Hubert Guindon of Sir George Williams University, Montreal, said that just by being there he was in danger of being labelled a "Negro Republican".

'In a Bind'

It was Mr. Guindon again who defined the basic dilemma confronting the party, as seen by Quebec. As a member of the discussion group of most concern to Quebec and French Canada, that dealing with the constitutional issue, he said the PC party was "in a bind".

"If you advocate constitutional change on any other basis than that of restoring harmonious relations between the two peoples (French-speaking and English-speaking)" he said, "it will be defined by the people of Quebec as a good snow job."

But if the party moved toward restoring mutual trust and confidence between the French-speaking and English-speaking; in a manner that would be convincing to Quebec, he suggested, "it will find itself at odds with its own rank and file and the hard core of its supporters."

The 15 members of the constitutional group took that risk and groped toward agreement on the principle that French-Canadian minorities outside Quebec should have rights and privileges equal to those enjoyed by the English-speaking in Quebec. But their progress was slowed by the lack of equal rights for the French-speaking members of the discussion group itself.

Just as the academic thinkers and the politicians were on the point of coming to grips with the point of whether equal rights in education meant that there ought to be a French university in Saskatchewan, one member of the group caused a sensation by making his remarks in French, in this Dominican retreat house five miles from Quebec city.

Michael Doyon, a postgraduate student at Laval University, who was the first to try actually speaking French to a group that was unanimous in endorsing bilingualism, had to end up translating himself into English.

From then on Martial Asselin, MP for the Quebec riding of Charlevoix, followed the same procedure as he pleaded for a special status for Quebec. He spoke French for the principle involved and then put it into English for the sake of communication.

The constitutional discussion group agreed that French-speaking minorities outside Quebec should have equality with the English-speaking minority in Quebec but did not come to a conclusion on how wide that equality should be.

No agreement was reached on whether a special status for Quebec was necessary to guarantee the future of French civilization in Canada. Nor was there any agreement on whether a new constitutional court was needed to act as referee between Ottawa and the provinces.

Mr. Regimbald had warned at the outset that the building of an appealing Conservative image in Quebec "will not be done overnight."

FROM WASHINGTON

By RICHARD PURSER

'Heads We Win, Tails You Lose'

THE administration has, for the past year, placed much stress on the gains expected to flow from next month's presidential election in South Vietnam. The election, it was said hopefully, would give South Vietnam a government that the world would recognize as the people's choice. Such a development would make it much easier for the U.S. to "sell" its war policy.

Purser

There was evidence from the beginning that the supposed "free" election would be highly suspect. The evidence has been increasing sharply as voting time nears, and skepticism is being freely voiced in the United States. The administration's response is stoical: it ignores the disquieting developments in the apparent hope that they will go away.

On July 18, the day before State Secretary Dean Rusk's most recent press conference, the South Vietnamese authorities rejected seven of the 18 slates of presidential and vice-presidential candidates who had sought to run. These included the slates of exiled General Duong Van Minh, hero of the 1963 revolt against President Ngô Dinh Diem, and of Au Truong Thanh, the peace candidate.

Rusk Position

Mr. Rusk next day ignored the eliminated seven, noting only the approved 11. "They will have a wide choice," he said. He refused to comment on whether he thought there should be a military of civilian president. Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, running for vice-president with General Nguyen Van Thieu on the military ticket, a few days later gave his views on the subject. If any opponent were to win by "trickery" (this to be determined by himself), he would be overthrown in a military coup.

Mr. Rusk, in a television interview on July 30, would say only that he didn't want "to get into the business of criticizing or evaluating the rhetoric of a statement made informally to some newspapermen." On the ejection of the only candidate to raise the election's real underlying issue — peace — he said only: "I am not going to pass any judgment on whether a particular candidate should have been approved or disapproved."

Since then, the military junta has made plans to retain de facto power even in the miraculous event that its candidates lose the election.

Prominent newspapers have remarked with dismay on the situation. The New York Times spoke of the "heads we win, tails you lose" policy as a "travesty on democracy" conducted by a junta not content merely with combining the two most powerful generals on one slate and eliminating the most serious challengers from the ballot. The Washington Post spoke of the threat to the credibility of the election — which in turn threatens anew the credibility of U.S. foreign policy, banking as it is on the emergence of representative government in South Vietnam.

Strong Critics

Now strong congressional voices have joined the criticism. The most important statement came from Senator Edward Brooke (Republican, Massachusetts), a former skeptic toward U.S. policy who was recently converted to support of President Johnson. Following a tour of South Vietnam on August 3, official opening day of the presidential campaign, he called on the Saigon military authorities to pay heed to the tie between honest conduct of the election and a continuing American commitment to the war effort. "If the generals now in power are under the delusion that they can win additional American assistance merely by dressing up their regime in the trappings of a constitution and an election, then they are fatally mistaken."

Against Puppets

Mr. Brooke's views were strongly supported by Senators Ernest Gruening and Stephen Young, Democrats of Alaska and Ohio, but their opinions were more predictable as both are persistent critics of U.S. war policy. Representative Richard Ottinger (Democrat, New York) sounded a common insistence that the U.S. government impress upon the generals the need for a free election. "We should not be put into the position of supporting an unpopular and unrepresentative military puppet government."

Now, with the first weekend of campaigning in South Vietnam taking on the earmarks of a fiasco, and with a Republican research group issuing a report critical of U.S. policy on the Saigon election, concern is rising still further. The government is also concerned, but silent. It fears an outbreak of "what's the use" feeling if the election flops. Critics feel that the administration is preparing to conceal any such flop.

Stanfield Stature

Montreal Le Devoir

All Canadians who have had the advantage of knowing Robert Stanfield will rejoice to see him become a candidate for the national leadership of the Conservative party.

A man of remarkable simplicity and solid judgment capable of any test, Mr. Stanfield proved in Nova Scotia that he was capable not only of taking power under difficult circumstances, but also of using it intelligently and keeping it.

Without ever seeking to push his personal ambitions on the federal scene, he has demonstrated many times that he knew how to rise to a very high vision of the national interest.

With the entry of Mr. Stanfield into the scene, one can expect that the problems will be crystallized more and that discussions will centre around some truly fundamental questions. It is the characteristic of true leaders that they provoke this kind of crystalization around them.

But Mr. Stanfield is, on the other hand, a man in public life who is rather dull and grey.

Looking Back

From The Times, Aug. 9, 1907:

The Jubilee hospital soon will be thoroughly renovated with several much needed departments added, according to a directors' report issued recently.

Almost $30,000 is on hand with which to proceed with the work, half of it a government grant.

There are two major areas where the money will be used.

The most important is a maternity ward chiefly for country patients who live in out-of-the-way places where no physician is available.

ANSWERS IN THE ASHES

Ghetto Race War Peddled By Black Power 'Salesmen'

Author of "The Negro Revolt" and "The Reluctant African," Louis E. Lomax is one of the foremost Negro journalists in the U.S. When Detroit went up in flames last month, he went there to find out the "whys" behind the riot, how it started, and where it will end. This is the first of four articles.

Professional Rebels Led Way in Detroit

By LOUIS E. LOMAX

DETROIT—Three days before the Detroit riots, that city's summer task force, a civilian riot-control group, was assigned to control and end a simulated riot.

The explosion point was 12th and Clairmount, the corner where the riots erupted early the following Sunday morning.

The group attacked its assignment and failed—because it overlooked the fact that an organized group, largely from outside the Detroit area, had been operative in the city for more than a month.

And like the riot-control group, this second group had an assignment: burn and destroy.

This second group, a very real group, is highly organized and well trained and is not made up of thieves and arsonists in the ordinary sense of these words. They are, instead, causists—revolutionaries committed to the conclusion that the power structure does not have the moral fibre to repent for its socio-economic sins, that the only truly corrective measure is to leave the nation in ashes.

LOMAX

The principal U.S. cities have been chosen as the initial battleground simply because they afford the kind of co-operation by the innocent and uninformed that every such revolution needs.

"Operation Detroit" got underway several weeks ago when a small band of young Negro men fanned out in the ghetto posing as magazine salesmen. Once allowed in a home or an apartment, the "salesman" would say that he was from the south, that he had recently graduated from high school and was selling magazines in order to earn his college tuition.

The salesman offered the customer a wide range of Negro magazines. The price of the package was $18, of which $12 was to be given the salesman, and $6 to be sent to a legitimate magazine circulation service in New Jersey. The salesman represented the New Jersey company and provided the customers with a receipt along with a printed envelope to be used when the customer made his payment to the New Jersey firm.

But the "sale" did not stop there. The salesman went on to sell black power.

"I thought I was helping a worthy Negro boy get to college," one of the subscribers said. "I really couldn't afford the subscription but I sacrificed to help one of my own kind. Then he started talking to me about black power. He asked me "Why the hell we let Whitey, particularly the Jews, run the stores in our neighborhood.'

"Then he started asking questions about the community; who was who; who had guns; who owed big bills at local stores and might be interested in seeing the building burn down. I told the fellow I didn't know all that information. He left. But he went to the house next door. I later learned he had done the same thing all along our block. I also learned that other salesmen had called on friends I have many blocks away."

Within a week the salesmen had produced such concern along Euclid that several responsible citizens—a neighborhood association—decided something should be done. The leaders of the group were immediately threatened by young Negro men they had never seen before. Honestly frightened, they remained silent until after the riots.

The battle plan was simple: Remain as obscure as possible until police-ghetto dynamics provided the proper setting for "the revolution".

The uprising all but occurred a month before when a Negro was shot and killed while allegedly protecting his wife from three white men bent on rape. But the needed trigger in the street did not appear.

Two weeks later, a young Negro woman, an alleged prostitute, was killed by the police who said the woman had drawn a knife on them. Again the dynamics needed—milling angry Negroes—did not materialize. But early Sunday morning, July 23rd, the proper ingredients were mixed in the right proportions at 12th and Clairmount. Even then, the riot needed the "assistance" of the Detroit police.

'Blind Pig' Raided at Dawn

Just before dawn, the police raided a "blind pig," an after-hours joint neighborhood residents had been complaining about for six months. The police, however, had known about its existence for months. After all, 50 people at an all-night drinking and gambling party every night of the week without the knowledge of the policemen on the beat is stretching credulity a bit far.

The merrymakers and gamblers were given the usual searching and then herded into police cars. Then the dynamics began to congeal:

Negroes were milling along 12th Street. They congregated at the corner of Clairmount to watch the raid and the arrests.

"They called us niggers!" a woman who was in the blind pig said.

"I heard them calling people niggers," a bystander reiterated. "And I shouted that we ought to tear up the hunky town. Then somebody threw a bottle through a window! And, baby," he laughed, "that's when the fan got clogged!"

What happened immediately after the first window was broken is common fare in the poverty ridden Negro areas of our cities. More windows were broken, people started looting.

"I was standing on the street when the looting started," a Negro professor at Wayne University who also lives in the area said. "It was a normal breaking and looting scene. They happen all the time. Then the people became aware of the fact that the police, following orders, were not interfering with the looters."

At this point the professionals moved in. Acting with precision, one squad moved along 12th St. with hammers and crowbars, smashing windows.

"Come on baby," help yourself," they shouted to the milling and running Negroes along the street.

Another professional revolutionary squad raced along the street several blocks away, shouting "hey, man, the fuzz is letting the people take all they want. Get up to the corner of Clairmount."

"I split like hell to the corner," one looter said. "I got me a TV set."

The looter did not realize that he, like the others, was a pawn in the recolutionaries' game. The professionals wanted hundreds of people running, yelling and looting near the corner of 12th and Clairmount. Add to that the non-action by the police and you have a recipe for chaos and riots—perfect food for revolutionaries.

Within two hours, 12th St. was a human jungle. Dewey Shanks, who not only lives in the ghetto, but also is attached to the mayor's human relations committee under a poverty program grant, was at the corner. One of the agitators was hard at work smashing windows. He shouted to Shanks, "Hey baby, I haven't seen you since Newark!"

This is the title of a pamphlet circulated in Detroit before the recent riot by the Student Nonviolent Coordinated Committee calling for a revolution to upset a perpetual state of slavery.

Dewey Shanks was not at Newark. The revolutionary had been.

Sunday dawn broke over a Detroit that was already beginning to belch flames. It was as if God himself was on the side of the organized revolutionaries. Everything worked; twists of fate and human weaknesses gave agitators every advantage.

Methodically breaking store windows, the revolutionaries urged the milling Negro people to loot and steal. But—and at least a dozen observers confirmed this—the professionals did no looting of their own They are not thieves; they are men at war; revolutionaries bent of reducing the nation to ashes.

The looters unknowingly co-operated by having a happy time. The streets teemed with Whites and Negroes who stole with abandon and glee. People came in cars from miles away and hauled off freezers, sofas, television sets and clothing.

Meanwhile, the Detroit police instituted a manoeuvre that called for them to move in on the looters, chase them away, but not shoot. The result was a wild game during which the looters mocked the police for being stupid.

The police would move in on one set of looters; the looters would break and run across the street and enter yet another store, a store window a block away would crash and other looters moved in. The police would then take off down the streets, their lights blinking and sirens wailing. The first group of looters, openly laughing at the police, then resumed their stealing.

Woman Sets Fire to Store

Then the human element began to play into the hands of the revolutionaries.

A Negro woman on relief set fire to a furniture store because she felt she would never be able to pay the bill she owed there. Due to the interest rate she was being forced to pay $910.12 to satisfy an original debt of $285.

"Yes," she said. "I burned that damn Jew store down. That's one bill I will never have to pay. I made sure the office and all the records went up in flames first!"

Clifford Williams, a Negro, owned a combination drug and liquor store at 12th and Philadelphia. For more than a year civil rights organizations, notably C.O.R.E. (Congress of Racial Equality), had been urging Williams to cease his harsh treatment of Negroes. "He told us all niggers steal," a C.O.R.E. leader said.

"He would make Negro customers stand in the middle of the store, their hands at their side while he waited on them. He said they would steal from his shelves. He also once drew a gun on some Negro women who complained about his attitude."

A month ago C.O.R.E. put a picket line around Williams' store. Dewey Shanks headed the picket line.

"Williams came out and told us we could march until our feet fell off," Shanks said. "If you niggers don't like the way I treat you, if you don't like my prices, then dammit go buy in Grosse Point!'. he bellowed."

Williams' store was the first Negro store burned to the ground. The revolutionaries did not do it. ..They didn't have to.

At a time when they ordinarily would have been headed for their pulpits a group of Negro ministers were closeted with Ray Girardin, Detroit's police commissioner. They urged the commissioner to keep his men in check, that the looters not be fired upon.

Thier reasoning was that once the police opened fire hundreds of Negroes would be killed. This, they contended, would start a major riot. They further contended that if left alone the looting would simply run its course and end. The commissioner agreed.

They were all correct but for the fast that they did not know about the agitator element, hard at work stoking the uprising.

The pattern spread to Detroit's east side. Vignettes reveal what happened next:

A weary but happy arsonist approached a Negro school teacher on La Salle St. "We have Twelfth Street in flames," he said. "Linwood is next."

A half hour later Linwood Boulevard was aflame.

A Negro woman approached a Negro doctor on Euclid and bragged that she was getting paid to set fires.

Shuddered With Horror

An elderly Negro man who lives on La Salle went to buy groceries on Linwood. He watched in horror as six Negroes set fire to a supermarket. He drove over to Lindy's Market along Joy Road and had barely finished shopping when the same six men drove into the parking lot there. He fled home too quickly to see Lindy's Market go up in flames.

By late Sunday the uprising had spread to the fashionable, integrated Gold Coast near Seven Mile Road. Kenneth Mines, a distinguished Negro lawyer and his wife Shirley, a school teacher, shuddered with horror as a supermarket a block from their $50,000 home burst into flames.

Mines stationed himself at his front door in hopes of hosing down the house lest it catch fire also. "Halt or I'll shoot," a state policeman shouted. And Kenneth Mines, one of the most brilliant and promising young Negro lawyers in America, eased back inside.

The Mines family, one of the few Negro families in the area, stayed indoors wondering if their white neighbors would seek revenge against them for what was happening. After two hours they emerged to discover that their white neighbors held them blameless.

Some 10 miles away, along Lamothe St., a white neighbor pounded on the door of a Negro school teacher. "Please," the white man begged, "let us hide in your home!"

The Negro school teacher said "Yes".

Nor was that all. The wife of a Negro doctor was watering her lawn late Sunday when a car bearing five Negro men drove up.

"You black middle-class bitch" one of them shouted. "You rich niggers are next!"

The police radio crackled with reports that Negro men were making cross marks in front of several middle-class Negro homes. "The report is that these homes are marked for burning," the calls said.

The sun set that Sunday on a Detroit engulfed in flames, hate, doubt and racial suspicion among neighbors of many years standing And by moonlight, dedicated revolutionaries continued their mission of bringing down the nation's fifth largest city, both physically and spiritually.

'Blind Fear of the Israelis' Caused Arab Refugees to Run

By MARTHA GELLHORN
The Manchester Guardian

LONDON — Between Jericho and the unpleasant milky blue of the Dead Sea, close to the Allenby Bridge over the Jordan River, there are four Palestinian refugee camps. The valley is green with orange groves and fields; the hills behind are eroded grey limestone; now, in summer, ,the heat is a weight to carry.

Imagination leaps from the term "refugee camp" to the picture of little Belsen, hordes of hungry, idle people penned in by barbed wire.

The camps are nothing like that. They are simply poor Arab villages or small towns, all different, as the houses in them are all different.

If there is enough land for the refugees to plant trees and grow grape arbors and flowers, they look livable and cheerful; if cramped for space, they look like rural slums.

SECOND OF SERIES

But the residents have one great advantage; UNRWA (United Nations Relief and Works Agency) runs a welfare state for its charges, the Palestinian camp refugees. Native Arab poor enjoy no such special care.

The largest refugee camp in Jordan, Aquabat Jaber, near Jericho, covers 700 acres of ground. It is a well-organized small town, with nine schools, 323 shops, cafes, a post office, sports grounds, a clinic compound, mosques, and — most important — 232 taps for unlimited clean water.

As in all camps, the houses and their little walled patios are built of what UNRWA sorrowfully describes as "mud brick." Mud brick is adobe, the traditional building material of peasant and working class. For Arabs, Mexicans, Vietnamese and others who live in a hot climate adobe serves as natural air conditioning.

Aquabat Jaber, and the neighboring Jericho camps are now ghost towns, though probably most of the residents will filter back. No other mass exodus happened anywhere else in West Jordan, and it is fishy.

The lightning war was not heard even as a passing bang in this valley. The camp leader, himself a Palestinian refugee, is a fat man, a powerful UNWRA administrator, feared and obeyed by his people, as I remembered from a visit years ago.

Why didn't he prevent this panic flight? We insisted that there must have been some sort of trouble to drive the people away.

"No, no. The battle lasted an hour, far off," the camp leader said. "There was nothing here, no, no, the Israeli army did not come here at all; everything is all right; everything is correct. There are plenty of supplies. There is no trouble."

Since non-war had been followed by instant peace, why did the refugees run? "People talk," the camp leader said. "There were a lot of stories. Political party people spread rumors. They said all the young men would be killed. People heard on the radio that this is not the end only the beginning, so they think maybe it will be a long-war and they want to be in Jordan."

●

A group of sullen young men were sitting in a cafe; they turned into Radio Cairo as we passed. Perhaps Radio Cairo and all it stands for, Arab politics and propaganda, are the true reason for the first frantic rush of camp refugees into a second exile across the Jordan.

They were not escaping the danger of war, nor fleeing their shattered homes. There are 20 UNWRA refugee camps in West Jordan; not one of them was touched by the war; not one resident was killed. (Statement made by UNWRA's chief representative in West Jordan, during an interview on July 4 at Kalandia, which confirmed my own observations.)

By their location, I calculate that nine of the camps cannot have heard or seen the war In all cases, the war passed them by quickly on the roads whereupon the refugees set off for the Jordan River.

This second exile is doubly sad because so needless. Again they have left behind the homes they had built. the furniture and possessions they had collected, to live — we read — under tents, stupefied by glaring heat and dust, exhausted, once more self-uprooted.

●

I suggest that blind fear of the Israelis, not the dangers of war, was their driving emotion. Radio Cairo and its cohorts had promised destruction of the Jews; simple literal-minded people know that means killing and they were not unenthusiastic at the prospect. ("Or they might say I'll get one Jew for myself," another camp leader said. "They are innocent, stupid people. The Jordanian army would never let them.")

King Hussien's last broadcast before the cease-fire is memorable: "Kill the Jews wherever you find them. Kill them with your hands. With your nails and teeth." Now the Jews had won, so the Jews would kill them instead, they thought.

Certainly the refugeees who were enrolled in the Palestine Liberation Army would be in a wild hurry to avoid the Israelis. Ahmed Shukairy, founder of that army and the Palestinians' own demagogue, was the most vocally bloodthirsty of Arab leaders. Members of the terrorist sabotage organization, El Fatah, would also be desperate to reach asylum in Jordan.

These must have been the "political party people" in Aquabat Jaber camp who spread the rumor that all young men would be killed, and who believed it. Fear, as we know, is more catching than cholera.

The majority of Palestinian refugees do not live in camps. Any of these, like any other Arabs who were exposed to actual war, may have decided to escape immediately lest the fighting go on or start again and trap them in danger.

Perhaps some of the first wave of refugees had valid, personal reasons for leaving, like the later waves of stoical departing Arabs.

In the last few weeks, neither fear of war nor fear of reprisals nor family nor financial complications explain the smaller but steady flow of people plodding over the Allenby Bridge, no matter what the waiting hardships of exile.

"They don't feel secure," said an intelligent Palestinian woman on UNRWA's staff in Hebron. "They don't know what is going to happen next. They want to be among Arabs."

She surprised me by remarking that the local Israeli military commander had been "very kind to UNRWA, very gentle and helpful"; amazino, words for an Arab to use about a Jew.

The commander had provided a car for their work, and truck transport for refugee women, children and old people to the Allenby Bridge.

●

I surprised her by remarking that this truck transport, a gesture of decency in the white heat of summer, had been transmuted through propaganda into forced expulsion. If the Israeli army had tried at any moment to prevent the exodus, that would have been treated as forced detention.

Hopefully, the Jordanian and Israeli governments will be able to co-operate, without mutual paralyzing suspicion, on the return of all those refugees who choose to come back to West Jordan. UNRWA's "educated guess" is that 100,000 of its West Jordan refugees are now on the east bank, including those who were working in Trans-Jordan before the war.

It would be wise and restful not to harass Israel for an overnight solution of the 19-year-old Palestine refugee problem. With time, work, and money, the Israelis will manage simply by treating their acquired Palestine refugee population as people, not as political pawns.

(Next: How the political leaning of the refugee-governing UNRWA helps perpetuate the Palestine refugee problem, and a proposed new deal for refugees.)

THEN KILLED HIM

Police 'Forced Youth to Run'

DETROIT (UPI) — Police are investigating the death of a young Negro who was shot and killed during the Detroit riot, it was disclosed today, after witnesses said policemen forced him to run and shot him down despite his pleas for mercy.

Meantime, two policemen charged with murder in the shotgun slayings of two Negro youths in a motel during the riot were free on $5,000 bond despite objections that their release was unconstitutional.

The new investigation concerned the death of William N. Dalton, 19, a job corps trainee and milk truck helper, who was shot to death in a west side parking lot before dawn July 26.

Four persons told The Detroit News they saw police shoot Dalton. Four others said they witnessed his arrest, presumably as a curfew violator.

About 20 policemen and National Guardsmen saw the slaying, the alleged witnesses said.

Charles Hall, 25, a Ford Motor Co., worker, said he watched from his apartment window as police held Dalton. Hall said he could not hear what the policemen said but heard Dalton say," "I know you could do that to me, mister. Please, mister, don't do that to me."

Dalton was one of 41 persons who died in the riot.

Phillip Hyde, 23, said officers pushed Dalton against a tree and searched him.

"Then they tried to make him run, but he said he wasn't going to do that," Hyde was quoted as saying.

"One guy said 'when I count to 10 you had better run,' and the boy said, 'no,'" according to Willia Arnold, 26, another alleged witness.

Mrs. Alberta Jones said police accused Dalton of setting fires but he protested, "I didn't set no fire. You don't see no fire."

A policeman "pushed him against a wall," Mrs. Jones said.

Mrs. Jones and three other witnesses said the officer ordered Dalton to run. He fled along the building, vaulted over the hood of a car, and was felled by a shotgun blast by the same officer who had ordered him to run, they said.

Spy Suspects Nabbed

BONN (Reuters)—A number of Germans have been arrested in the industrial area of the Ruhr on suspicion of spying for the Communists, a West German government spokesman said Monday.

ELECTED western national vice-president of the Union of National Defence Employees last weekend was Herb Holland, 333 Simcoe. He works at Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt.

Victims Named In Hotel Blaze

SALMON ARM (CP) — The remains of two bodies found in the ashes of the Montebello Hotel, razed by fire early last Wednesday, have been tentatively identified as H. G. Bert Slape, 83, of this Okanagan Valley community, and Mrs. Amy Topping of Oliver. RCMP said other persons reported missing in the fire are now accounted for and no longer missing.

Manxmen Steer Clear Of U.K. Fight

DOUGLAS, Isle-of-Man, (WP) — The Isle-of-Man's 1,037-year-old Parliament Tuesday steered safely round a situation that had all the makings of a nasty constitutional clash with the United Kingdom.

There was a general sigh of relief on the island Tuesday night when it became known that there would be no Manx unilateral declaration of independence and no resort to the United Nations over the contentious issue of legislation against pirate radio stations.

Instead, the Manx Parliament's lower chamber, the House of Keys, came up with the compromise of placing the issue before the British Commonwealth Secretariat, set up by the Commonwealth prime ministers in 1965.

The secretariat will now be asked to arbitrate on the question of whether the United Kingdom's Marine Broadcasting Offences Bill — designed to put the pirate stations off the air — should be applied to an unwilling Isle-of-Man.

B.C. FERRY RAMS DOCK AT LANGDALE

LANGDALE (CP)—The B.C. government ferry Queen of Sechelt rammed a dock here Tuesday, ripping out steel-plated timbers and delaying service for 45 minutes.

Witnesses said the vessel hit a guide wall, snapping off 10-inch-square pilings covered with steel plate. A portion of the wall fell on to the prow of the fully-loaded ferry. The vessel was freed by workmen with cutting torches.

MEMORIAL SERVICE PLANNED

'Little Too Adventuresome'

Funeral services were to be held in Austria today for Oak Bay youth Billy Wheaton who died in a mountain climbing accident Monday.

A memorial service is planned in Victoria at a date to be set.

And fellow students at Shawnigan Lake Boys School will hold a special service in his memory Sept. 17, after the start of the fall term.

The boy was 17, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Wheaton, 2724 Satellite, Oak Bay.

The family has been advised that Billy was climbing a mountain in the Austrian Alps with several companions of the Shawnigan rowing team. They has split into touring parties following competitions in England and West Germany.

Bill apparently found the pace too slow and went on ahead of his companions. The following morning, after a wide search, his body was found at the bottom of a 250-foot drop.

"He's done a lot of climbing before. I guess he got a little too adventuresome," said Mr. Wheaton. The boy had served as coxswain of the team's first eights.

The team had won many of the 15 regattas it entered and placed fourth in international games in Ratzburg, West Germany. Billy was also an accomplished singles sculler. He graduated from Shawingan this year and was to have attended University of B.C. next month.

The Wheaton family is well-known in Victoria. Mr. Wheaton is a past president of Chamber of Commerce and a YMCA director. Mrs. Wheaton is a former president of the Y auxiliary.

An older brother, Bob 25, excelled in amateur sport. Billy is also survived by a sister Jane, 24 and another brother, John 19.

BOX CARS, TRAILERS

Double Deck On New Ferry

A new freight ferry being built by Victoria Machinery Depot will enable some 28 additional drop trailers per trip to be carried between Vancouver Island and Vancouver.

The ship — as yet unnamed — is being built at an undisclosed price for the Vancouver towing firm of F. M. Yorke and Son Ltd., but it will be on nightly charter, seven days a week, to the CPR for carrying box cars on the Vancouver-Nanaimo run. The vessel has two special features aimed at reducing maintenance cost and improving its carrying capacity.

Its hull and main deck are identical to the Greg Yorke, now serving Nanaimo-Vancouver, and is of Robert Allan Ltd. design.

SECOND DECK

But above the main deck, where rail cars are carried, there will be a second deck abaft the superstructure where up to 28 drop trailers may be carried.

One of the unusual features is a huge hydraulically-operated elevator that will lift tractor-trailer units from the main deck for parking up top.

Tractors return to the dockside after trailers are parked, and the loading or unloading operation does not interfere with rail car loading.

Trailers could also be carried on the main deck when there are insufficient rail cars for a full load.

Capacity will be 62 drop trailers or 25 rail cars and 28 trailers, or any combination for a full load.

Company manager Lorne Yorke said the vessel likely would be sub-contracted to the CPR for its evening run, but during the daytime Yorke Towing will use the vessel to serve pulp mills from Port Mellon to Crofton.

TIE-UPS

"We don't intend to tie up for maintenance," he said.

There are four Caterpillar diesel engines for main propulsion—two on each shaft for a total 2,000 shaft horsepower.

Up to three would be used at one time, enabling one to be shut down completely for overhaul en route.

Only a compulsory docking for hull inspection every two years will interrupt the service, the company proposes.

There are two smaller diesel engines providing about 500 horsepower to drive the hydraulic system for elevating drop trailers.

When the ship is in service, hydraulic power is available from this system to drive a bow thruster to make docking easier.

SQUARE FRONT

Loading and unloading both will be done by way of the ship's square prow.

Superstructure will be placed forward, topped by twin, side-by-side stacks. There will be accommodation for a crew of nine.

When delivered in October or November, the ship will replace Greg Yorke which will then be chartered to Canadian National Railway for its Victoria; Fraser River service.

The CN service now is conducted by towed barges, which replaced the rail ferry Canora.

The new ship will have a service speed of 11 knots. It measures 325 feet by 56½ feet with a draught of 11 feet and a rated capacity of 200,000 tons.

WANTS 'FREEDOM'

Cuban Asks Asylum After Games End

WINNIPEG (CP) — Cuban Nestor Carbonell said today he is seeking sanctuary in Canada because freedom as he knows the word is not enjoyed by the people of his homeland.

A trainer with Cuba's Pan-American Games rowing team, Mr. Carbonell slipped away Friday on the eve of his team's final race and hid out in a hotel until all Cuban athletes and officials had left Winnipeg.

His stated reasons for staying behind were given today in a prepared statement distributed just before the start of a press conference in the office of his lawyer, Denis Hayes.

In the statement, the 25-year-old trainer said he loves the Cuban people and is proud of his homeland.

But he added:

"I am also a man and I wish, like all men, no matter where they live, to be free. Freedom, as I understand that word, is not enjoyed by the people of Cuba, so I decided some time ago to leave my country and to find a new home.

"I am very sorry that circumstances have compelled me to make this decision."

AVOIDS POLITICS

For personal reasons, Mr. Carbonell said, he does not wish at this time to comment on the current political situation in Castro Cuba.

Answering reporters' questions after distribution of the statement, Mr. Carbonell said he decided in 1964 to leave Cuba when a chance arose.

He is seeking a job as a rowing coach — "I want to be a coach here . . . that is the thing I know better," he said in English.

An interpreter was on hand but he was needed only on a couple of occasions when Mr. Carbonell didn't understand a question. He answered the questions on his own.

The Cuban said he hadn't discussed his decision with any of his teammates and although many of his associates had commented on the "nice country" of Canada and its people, none indicated a desire to stay.

The statement said that soon after he arrived with the Pan-Am rowing team, which scraped up one bronze medal in eight events, he made up his mind to ask the Canadian government to allow him to remain.

The defection, common gossip in rowing circles since the weekend, was confirmed Tuesday by the immigration department in Ottawa.

The Cuban rowing team was to have participated in an international rowing meet in St. Catharines, Ont., after the Pan-Am Games here but suddenly decided Saturday to pull out and go straight home.

Rail Lines Knocked Out?

HONG KONG (AP) — No freight trains have arrived from China since Monday, causing speculation that opponents of Mao Tse-tung may have knocked out the rail line from Canton to Hong Kong again.

Visitors from the Chinese mainland have told of repeated sabotage of rail traffic by anti-Maoists, but this is the first time the trains have been delayed for so long a period. A Hong Kong government spokesman said the colony is facing a meat shortage.

He said supplies are still arriving by road and sea, but they are not enough to make up for the rail stoppage.

1,700 People Die of Starvation

JAKARTA (AP) — More than 1,700 persons in a single central Java area have died from starvation in the first six months of this year, the official Indonesian news agency Antara said Tuesday. The agency cited the district health officers in the section as its source. Reports from the area a month ago said that while 5,000 were facing starvation, only 12 had died.

SEEK PARITY WITH COAST

Interior Workers Vote for Strike

VANCOUVER — Lumber workers in the interior of B.C. have voted more than 97 per cent in favor of strike action.

The result was announced by regional president Jack Moore after tabulation of voting by International Woodworkers of America members in the northern and southern interior.

About 8,000 workers are seeking wage parity with IWA coast workers, which means a pay hike of 50 cents an hour.

Mr. Moore said the result is "the most decisive vote in the history of the interior lumber industry." Many operations voted 100 per cent in favor of strike action, failing a satisfactory settlement.

Existing contracts run out Aug. 31.

Dies on Plane

KELOWNA (CP) — A man severely burned in an industrial accident a week ago died suddenly Tuesday while an RCAF plane was on its way to move him to Vancouver. The RCAF Dakota had left Comox air base at 1 p.m. PDT but was ordered to turn back 20 minutes later when Edward Arthur Lange, 21, died as a result of burns to 75 per cent of his body.

'BYPASS PROVINCES'

Planner Urges 'City States'

TORONTO (CP)—A report prepared at the invitation of the Toronto Municipal Research Bureau recommends the abolition of Canada's provinces and says the provincial governments "have little concern about the efficiency of local government or the effectiveness of federal grants spent at the local level."

The report, prepared by a group of Vancouver community leaders under the direction of Dr. Peter Oberlander, a nationally-known community planner, was submitted at a 10-day study and training program on world metropolitan government problems.

It bluntly suggests that provincial jurisdictions could be supplanted by increasing federal powers and creation of large city states.

UN CO-OPERATION

Dr. Oberlander, head of the University of British Columbia's school of planning, said the report was part of a study sponsored by the Toronto bureau in co-operation with the United Nations public administration branch.

The paper says present municipal relations with the two levels of senior government are "beset by friction, recrimination and interminable delays."

"Some of the group thought that as communications continue to improve, Canada might consider eliminating the provincial governments altogether.

"The federal government would then deal with all matters but those involving the major urban-centred regions, which then might become city states on their own.

"In the tug-of-war with the provinces, the federal government has found an ally in the cities.

"Not only the provinces apply the Machiavellian concept of divide and conquer—so does the federal government.

STILL SUFFER

"The municipalities may benefit—from the federal government—but they still suffer from the rural orientation of the majority of provincial legislators."

The report said local governments have little leeway in matters of raising and spending money to "meet the pressing social issues" of the day.

"Local government is caught between the forces of federal and provincial administration with no real room to act or initiate."

The paper was prepared by 20 Vancouver residents under Dr. Oberlander's direction. Vancouver is one of 40 cities represented at the Toronto conference.

COLOMBIA

Coalition Blocks Reforms

BOGOTA (AP) — President Carlos Lleras Restrepo of Colombia is having a hard time trying to put through his ambitious program of social and economic reforms, to accomplish what he promised would be a bloodless revolution to bring about a more equalitarian society.

Lleras has been mildly successful with some of his reforms, but most of his program, carefully detailed before he took over the presidency a year ago, is still in the making, delayed by opposition in Congress.

The opposition, a coalition of such dissimilar groups as the right-wing followers of former strongman Gustavo Rojas Pinilla, the extreme left-liberal revolutionary movement MRL, and a splinter conservative group, controls one-third of all congressional seats. It is able to block measures because the constitution stipulates that new legislation has to be enacted by a majority of two-thirds of Congress.

FISTIC DUELS

Recently in a wild brawl—revolvers were brandished by congressmen, and there were several fistic duels—the House of Representatives refused to pass a constitutional amendment giving the government special powers to deal with social and economic problems without having to seek congressional approval.

The president wanted to issue a series of decrees making it easier for the working and middle classes to acquire housing, to provide better medical services, to build more schools and train more teachers, and to give easy credit to farmers so as to increase agricultural production and lower prices of staple foods.

President Lleras was counting on these special powers to deal with many problems affecting the economy. An economic recession has been going on for the last two years. Unemployment is calculated at about 12 per cent of the labor force. And the country is short of hard currency to pay for necessary imports.

Final Concert Before Expo

The Irvin Lang Trio will appear in Centennial Square Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Vocalist Brian Anderson and comedian Reg Stoffer will also perform with them. The concert is sponsored by the Greater Victoria Centennial Society and the American Federation of Musicians.

On Friday at 8 p.m. the Thunderbird All Girls Drum Corps and singers Dinny Hicks and Jerry Pacquette will stage a performance in the Square.

This is one of the last performances of the drum corps before their appearance at Expo 67.

BUSINESS VIEWS

'Carter Report Has Flexibility'

By AB KENT
Business Editor

A misconception of the Carter report which puts that much-maligned work squarely on the razor's edge is the conclusion that it must be accepted on a package basis or not at all.

According to an analysis by Prof. David W. Slater, editor of The Canadian Banker, this was not the intent at all.

Kent

The Queen's University professor says the report hinges on a core or package consisting of major changes that depend heavily on one another. He finds it is true that the core must be turned down if any of its components are rejected.

But he also finds that the package structure may be varied, that there are different kinds of core which may be substituted.

This interpretation allows a good deal of flexibility in what would otherwise be a rigid proposal subject to failure without compromise.

The core as suggested by the report would include the comprehensive tax base, including capital gains or losses; reflecting ability to pay. It would include integrated personal and corporate income taxes, or credits, and it would include maximum level of taxation.

Such things as the estate tax, the family as a tax unit and the averaging-of-income system and the treatment of capital gains as realized or accrued, are secondary.

As secondary items they are closely related to the core items, in Prof. Slater's opinion.

* * *

Then there would be a third set of items that could be considered quite apart from the others, and the more important of these would be removal of special tax concessions in the mining and petroleum industries, small business and the business income of insurance companies; the position of mutual and co-operative organizations; bad-debt allowances for intermediaries; sales tax credits, and exemptions from the base of imputed rental income and special tax relief for registered retirement plans.

The professor believes that under Carter recommendations, corporations would fare generally well, except in the withdrawal of the main concessions mentioned in group three. In his words, "the over-all impact on corporations will not be large."

The over-riding priority in Carter proposals would be the one aimed at equal treatment before the tax collector. He adds that he can see a growing protest against the present system.

* * *

Next in importance is raising productivity through removal of the four concessions—to mining and the petroleum industry as a three-year tax exemption; to mining and petroleum as depletion allowances; low taxation on the first $35,000 of corporate taxable earnings, and low tax on life insurance business income.

Third priority deals with Canadian ownership, Carter views of which are apparently not shared by Prof. Slater. According to Carter, this would reduce foreign investment in Canada without loss of other foreign resources to the economy.

He finds it "rather startling" of the report to suggest there would be no loss of foreign technology, managerial skills, research and development and foreign markets if outside equity capital is replaced by foreign debt capital.

The report "appears to believe that for quite modest Canadian costs in higher interest rates, capital inflows may be maintained while direct investment is reduced," Prof. Slater said.

General Motors Strike Vote Set

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers Union announced Tuesday its 400,000 General Motors Corp. members will take a strike vote the week of Aug. 20.

Leonard Woodcock, UAW vice-president and head of the union's GM department, said the workers will be asked to sanction a strike in order "to bring the GM executives back into the world of reality."

The move was seen as the UAW's way of flexing its muscles by getting the strike approval so it can put more pressure on the giant of the auto industry. This is the fifth week of contract talks with GM, Ford and Chrysler.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther echoed the get-tough sentiment when he called upon his members Tuesday to be ready to fight if necessary this year for UAW demands.

At a regional meeting in St. Louis, Reuther said no serious bargaining with the auto companies was going on at the present. Stating that the attitude of the companies was "not a co-operative one, but antagonistic," Reuther said the solidarity and will of the union might be tested this fall as never before.

Strike votes will not be taken at Ford or Chrysler until the UAW receives those companies' economic offers, union spokesmen said.

MASSIVE bow structure of Britain's new luxury liner Q-44 towers over buildings in shipyard at Clydebank, Scotland, as she nears completion. The 58,000-ton ship is due to be launched September 20. The Q-44 will be the fastest and most powerful twin-screw passenger liner in world.

Ottawa Shows Interest

VANCOUVER (CP) — Any Soviet plan for joint oil and gas exploration in the Arctic would be given serious consideration by the federal government, says Northern Affairs Minister Laing.

"If such a proposal was put in an official form immediately, I wouldn't know what to say," he said in a telephone interview Monday from Ottawa.

"But we'd look at it and we'd be talking to them at once," he said.

Mr. Laing was commenting on a suggestion made in Vancouver to B.C. Trade Minister Loffmark by Soviet Trade Minister Nikolay Patolichev that the two countries co-operate on oil and natural gas exploration.

Mr. Loffmark said the Soviet minister told him Russia is particularly interested in two areas: offshore fields running from California through B.C. to Alaska, and the oil-bearing strata running through B.C., Alberta and the Northwest Territories.

Russia had not made an official proposal to Ottawa for joint exploration, but there have been exchanges of technical delegations on both sides.

"The Soviets have made a great number of approaches to the federal government on a 'let's study together' basis — now they are saying, 'let's work together'," said Mr. Laing.

Mr. Patolichev was on the west coast over the weekend as part of a 10-day tour of Canada.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Flax recorded moderate advances in relatively moderate advances in Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. The increases were prompted by the sharply decreased flax acreage planted this year and the current drought which has damaged flax crops.

Rapeseed was lower and reflected losses in Chicago soybeans.

Oats and barley trade was mostly domestic. The Canadian wheat board announced a reduction of ½ cent in the prices of 2-Feed barley and lower grades. Rye was easier reflecting recessions on the Chicago rye market.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and Domestic wheat all were down ⅛.

Speculative Mines Active

Active trading in speculative mines brought heavy afternoon volume today on the Toronto stock exchange.

Consolidated Negus and Cam Mines lost 5 cents each to 89 cents and 1.10. Negus traded 237,166 shares and Cam Mines 176,941. Consolidated Mogul gained 25 cents to 3.95 on 12,240 shares.

In other mining activity, Lake Dufault lost ¾ to 10¾ and Endako ¼ to 10¾. Hudson Bay Mining rose 2 to 63 and Cassiar ¼ to 17¼.

AT TORONTO Westcoast Transmission rose 1⅞ to 30½, International Utilities 1½ to 39¾ and Tamblyn 1 to 27.

Revenue Properties lost 1⅜ to 14¾ and Jefferson Lake ½ to 52½. Jefferson reported earnings of 82 cents a share for the six-month period ended June 30 compared with 68 cents a share for the same period last year.

Among western oils, Central Del Rio lost ½ to 19¼, Banff ⅜ to 17¾ and Canadian Superior Oil ¼ to 44¾. Scurry-Rainbow rose ½ to 46.

AT NEW YORK, after an uncertain start, blue chips gathered strength. Substantial gains were made by General Motors, International Nickel, Eastman Kodak and Johns-Manville.

Xerox had a bad sinking spell. Other high-priced glamor stocks, IBM among them, wear weak.

The market was higher at the start. Initially laggard, the high quality industrials gradually picked up a following.

It was the second of four abbreviated sessions scheduled by the New York and American stock exchanges so that brokerage houses could cope with a big backlog of paperwork.

AT MONTREAL the market moved narrowly higher in brisk trading.

Falconbridge Nickel advanced ⅞ to 94⅜ and International Nickel ¾ to 111. IAC won ½ to 24 and Steel of Canada ⅜ to 24⅞. Calgary Power and Provincial Bank were each up ¼ at 24¾ and 9⅝ respectively.

Denison was off ¾ at 73 and B.C. Forest ½ at 20½, the latter in light volume. CPR, Molson A and Walker Gooderham all dipped ⅜ to 73, 22 and 35⅝ respectively.

Peace River Mining was 25 cents better at $8.75 on the Canadian exchange.

AT LONDON a general lack of confidence prevailed again in equities on the stock market and, although there were not many sellers, buyers were even more rare.

Gilts were quiet again, although the tendency to give ground was more pronounced today.

Dollar stocks were usually lower with the premium which later came off the bottom without helping the market much.

Among Canadian issues, International Nickel, Cominco, Canadian Pacific, Massey-Ferguson, Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas and Noranda were soft spots.

AT VANCOUVER trade was mixed, with gains barely exceeding losses in pre-noon activity.

Coast Copper dropped $1 to $8.50, Craigmont climbed $1 to $12 and PCE Ex added .15 for a new high of $2.30.

Atlas fell .15 to $4.10, while Dynasty rose .15 to $7.90. Highmont was off .25 to $4, Silver Titan off .10 to $1.98 and Westland up .10 to $3.20.

In industrials, Westcoast rose $1.87 to $30.50.

Foreign Capital In Healthy Jump

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's gross liabilities to other countries rose to $32,800,000,000 at the end of 1964 from $30,400,000,000 a year earlier, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday.

The increase, nearly eight per cent, was greater than any year-to-year increase in the 1960s and resulted mainly from growth of foreign long-term direct investment in Canadian industry. Foreign capital invested in Canada totalled $27,354,000,000 at the end of 1964, up five per cent in the year.

U.S. investment accounted for most of the total, rising to $21,400,000,000 from $20,500,000,000 at the end of 1963. United Kingdom investment rose to $3,463,000,000 from $3,331,000,000.

The bureau also released Tuesday a breakdown of direct investment in Canada by countries other than the U.S. and U.K., for 1963. The breakdown is made only biennially. While much smaller in totals, some of the gains were large.

LARGEST

The Netherlands, Belgium, France, Switzerland and Germany are the largest of the other foreign investors in Canada, with The Netherlands showing a 59-per-cent jump in 1963 to $224,000,000 from $141,000,000 in 1961.

Investment by Belgium rose one per cent to $199,000,000 from $197,000,000 in the two years. France's direct investment in Canada was $146,000,000 in 1963, up two per cent from 1961.

Switzerland's investment rose 11 per cent to $142,000,000 from $128,000,000 and West Germany's increased 6.8 per cent to $109,000,000.

The largest parts of Dutch and Belgian investment were in the petroleum industry. French and Swiss investments tended to be in financial enterprises and real estate. German investments were mainly in manufacturing.

Direct investment in Canada by non-residents has increased almost sixfold in the post-war period, from $2,713,000,000 at the end of 1945 to $15,889,000,000 at the end of 1964.

IN U.S.

Mutual Funds Grow In Size, Influence

NEW YORK (AP)—To some investors, they've spelled financial comfort. To others, woe.

Stock prices dip or rise on their decisions.

Whatever their faults or virtues, the country's mutual funds—sitting atop $41,000,000,000 in assets—are rapidly growing in size and influence.

More than 4,000,000 Americans hold shares in almost 7,700,000 mutual fund accounts. In 1940, there were only 296,000 accounts.

With the money obtained by selling shares, the funds buy securities in a number of companies.

Rising stock prices boost the value of mutual fund shares just as falling prices lower their value. Shareholders receive the profits on stock sales. Operating costs, including management fees, are deducted from investment income, such as interest and dividends.

In pursuit of profits (and the avoidance of losses the so-called performance mutual funds and some large institutional investment groups move in and out of the stock market frequently. These operations have drawn some sharp criticism.

The Federal Reserve Board chairman, William McChesney Martin Jr., former New York Stock Exchange president, found in-and-out operations "disquieting."

CRITICISM UNJUST

Criticism of the rate at which funds buy and sell stock—portfolio turnover—is "basically unjust," said an official of a $2,000,000,000 fund. "It's our job to do the best possible job for our shareholders. We don't bomb the market."

Nonetheless, stock prices drop or climb when a large bloc hits the trading floor.

More than 25 per cent of the outstanding stock of Fairchild Camera, one of the electronics stocks, was traded in one day last year. The stock sank $19.62 to $106.75.

Market observers also cite cases in which late afternoon selling pressures by two mutual funds contributed to a decline in one stock from $134 to $119. Another example came when 100,000 shares of an office equipment maker sold, causing a monetary trading suspension and sending the stock down from $210 to 201.

There are cases where funds buy stock and the price jumps up. In one instance, a fund sought a stock selling at $91.50. It finally bought at $94.50 and sold later at well above $100.

Communication Corp. Profits Take Jump

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corp. announced Tuesday net profit of $3,549,713 for the year ended March 31, 1967, compared with $2,560,559 the previous year.

Income for the year was $21,212,533, up 18 per cent from $17,967,279 a year earlier.

CONSUMER PRICES

Canadian Index Outstrips U.S.

OTTAWA (CP) — The consumer price index in Canada has moved consistently ahead of the comparable United States index since the start of 1964, and now is almost 4 per cent higher.

The United States consumer price index for June, on the basis of 1957-59 prices equalling 100, was 116.

The Canadian index, which is compiled on the basis of 1949 prices equalling 100, was 148.8 in June and 150.2 in July.

Converted arithmetically to the 1957-59 base used in the United States, the Canadian index was 119.5 in June and 120.6 in July.

The July price index in the U.S. has not yet been announced, but compared with its June index, the consumer price index in Canada is 3.9 per cent higher.

LINE STREAM

Shown on a chart, the higher level of Canadian prices looks like a steadily widening stream.

Measured on the basis of the U.S. index, Canadian prices have most frequently declined, and stayed down for longer periods. But Canadian consumer prices have shown a greater tendency to spurt upwards at times.

Canadian prices, for instance, raced ahead of U.S. prices for consumer goods and services during the summer of 1964, and then declined while American prices almost caught up to them.

Canadian prices jumped ahead again in the winter and early summer of 1965, before dipping again. American prices rose more gradually, and were less affected by any setback.

But since late in the summer of 1965, Canadian prices have climbed steadily, showing greater strength in the last few months. Again, American prices rose more gradually.

Canadian prices in June were 3.4 per cent higher than a year earlier. U.S. prices rose 2.7 per cent between June last year and June this year.

The price index put out by the U.S. labor department was pushed up mainly by higher food prices, and by higher costs of consumer services. As in Canada, too, U.S. medical care service costs have risen markedly in recent years.

Higher provincial sales taxes in some provinces—notably Ontario and Manitoba—have contributed to the consumer price increase in Canada.

NEW CHAIRMAN of Economic Council of Canada is Arthur J. Smith, 41, soft-spoken academic economist, who was named to $30,000-a-year post Tuesday by Prime Minister Pearson. He succeeds John J. Deutsch, 56, who leaves Sept. 1 to become principal of Queen's University at Kingston.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two men charged with forgery involving the ghost-writing of stock salesmen's examinations were remanded ot Aug. 30 when they appeared in magistrate's court Tuesday.

Michael Ernest Joseph, 29, and Brian Edward McKean, 34, were remanded by Magistrate Bartman.

Bail was set at $1,000 for Joseph, who was arrested Friday. McKean was not required to post bail.

Cities 'Route To Betterment'

Federal-Provincial Wrangles Blasted at PC Thinkers' Meet

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Quebec Correspondent

QUEBEC CITY—Town planner Eric Beecroft urged provincial and federal governments Tuesday to drop their constitutional debates and tackle the problems of the cities.

He said the city was "the most important unit in which social conflicts may be resolved" and he made the essential route to improvement of Canadian economic, social and cultural life.

Dr. Beecroft, chairman of the department of political science at the University of Western Ontario and chairman of the Canadian Council on Urban and Regional Research, was a special speaker at the "Montmorency Conference" at which Progressive Conservative party members and intellecutuals are attempting to inject new ideas into the PC party platform.

The conference, at the Dominican Retreat, Montmorency House, on the outskirts of Quebec, opened Monday and continues through Thrusday.

Dr. Beecroft said the "war for good cities" was "in part a war on poverty, intolerance and obsolete habits of mind, and in part an effort to create a more stimulating and more efficient environment for all of us."

He said the people and the municipalities of the country had suffered while federal and provincial action to deal with urban problems was held up by constitutional wrangles.

"Is it not the time," he asked, "for municipalities to ask the leaders of senior governments to recognize that their responsibility is to produce programs, not constitutional formulas for dividing the indivisible?

Canadians Have Done Much Less

"Community-building is not constitutionally divisible."

Dr. Beecroft asid Canadian urban problems were essentially the same as those of the United States but that Canadians had done much less than Americans had done toward preparing their solution.

He proposed a threefold political program based on:

- Much more activity at every level of government;
- Much closer, continuous working relations between all levels of government, federal, provincial and municipal;
- Restructing of municipal government, including regional co-ordination and the entry of political parties into the municipal field to make city politics more coherent and effective.

Dr. Beecroft said the problems of the cities had been dealt with in an improvised, piecemeal fashion up to now.

He said that in Ottawa and the provincial capitals "the fragmented approach, department by department, has been a dismal, disgraceful failure."

A minister of urban affairs, whose reputation would stand or fall on the success of policies affecting the cities, was essential at both levels of government, he said.

To promote the grouping of municipalities into effective regional units capable of meeting the needs of the society of today and tomorrow, Dr. Beecroft proposed that provincial governments tie their municipal aid programs to regional development.

He said the provinces must clearly say to the municipalities: "Help we will give; but it must be help for integrated regional programs of development."

Help Given for Costly Programs

Dr. Beecroft proposed that this principle be applied to the most costly programs affecting the municipalities: schools, recreation, highways and public transit, water supply and pollution control.

He rejected as basically futile senior government programs to help economically backward areas simply by offering financial incentives to industry willing to locate there.

Industry, he said, would go to "ready-made" communities that offered all the facilities and amenities that healthy community life required.

If government efforts were put into building sound communities, he suggested, industry would follow.

Dr. Beecroft criticized unimaginative public housing policies that have prevailed up to now in Canada.

He said housing has been used by government simply as a make-work program to be used when the economy needed stimulation.

The result, he said, was housing that neglected the needs of more than 50 per cent of the population and that would quickly become obsolete.

He said public housing must be built into community planning from the start, to meet the needs of the future, and not tacked on as an afterthought that disrupted the community and created social friction.

BULGARIAN Penka Coneva told FBI she was offered $20,000 to kill New York Mayor John Lindsay. Coneva, who came to the U.S. three years ago, also said an East Harlem candy store owner, Robert Lacey, sold her the gun which she was to use. N.Y. authorities have shrugged off the reported plot as nonsense.

MONTREAL

Contaminated Water Closes Trailer Park

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said today a trailer park near suburban Laprairie was closed down by provincial health authorities Tuesday night because "drinking water was contaminated."

A provincial police spokesman said health officials had determined that drinking water for the campers was being drawn near the lot's septic tank.

He described the park as "very big." One estimate was that 3,000 campers were affected.

Some people had children. A number had paid up to a week in advance, the police spokesman added.

Officers were trying to find new accommodation for campers calling in for guidance.

TOLD TO LEAVE

Many who had been visiting Expo during the day were told to leave the trailer park for their own benefit, the Laprairie source said. Newly arriving campers were turned away from the site.

An employee of the trailer park said only about 100 campers were left late in the evening. A new water source would be found by this afternoon, he believed.

The employee, who described himself as a watchman, said police "told everybody to get out." He described the scene that followed as "awful" and that "everybody was yelling."

Former Envoy Dies

MUNICH (Reuters) — Hans Kroll, 69, former West German ambassador to the Soviet Union and one of the most controversial and colorful figures in international diplomacy, died in nearby Starnberg Tuesday of heart failure.

'Dishonest' Advertising Charged Against Motel

WASHINGTON (CP)—U.S. Post office officials have been instructed to seize letters addressed to the Canadiana 67 Motel in Montreal and return them marked "fraudulent," a spokesman said Tuesday night.

The spokesman said the motel has been fraudulently promising first-class accommodation and demanding advance deposits in full.

The official said this is the first such step taken in connection with Expo 67 lodging although there may be three or four similar ones annually involving other kinds of Canadian firms.

This one followed a detailed complaint confirmed by an investigation, he said. Canadiana 67 turned out to be a plywood, barracks-style building which demanded its future customers pay four weeks in advance.

When the U.S. family asked for a refund on arrival, they were laughed at, the official said. The U.S. consul at Montreal apparently advised against any other attempt to get the money back, the official said.

In Quebec City Tuesday night Premier Johnson said he has been told that the U.S. post office has ordered all U.S. mail addressed to a "motel I do not wish to name" will be stamped as fraudulent. The mail, Mr. Johnson said, "will be returned to its sender because the advertising of this motel is fraudulent and dishonest."

"It is the U.S. government which took the initiative of stopping a situation which we suspect of being wrong, but about which we could do nothing."

Mr. Johnson was speaking during debate on a bill that would create a Quebec department of financial institutions.

If the current bill were law, said the premier, there would have been an inspector to look into the motel involved in the U.S. action.

"But we now lack the right to do this. ..... It is necessary for evidence to be awaited, for there to be victims, and for these victims to make complaints".

MAN-TO-THE-MOON PROGRAM GETS FUNDS

WASHINGTON (AP)—A compromise $4,865,751,000 authorization to carry on the United States space program for this fiscal year was sent to the White House Tuesday.

More than half the total is earmarked to continue the Apollo man-to-the-moon program of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Anger Replaces Serenity Over Special Que. Status

Special to the Times

QUEBEC CITY — An angry Quebec voice cracked the diplomatic serenity Tuesday of the Progressive Conservative party 'thinker's conference at the quiet retreat of Montmorency House.

Marcel Faribault, a Montreal notary, professor and trust company president who is one of the party's rare men of stature in Quebec, fired off a blunt warning at an evening plenary session discussing constitutional change.

He warned that the country would be lost unless English Canada is willing to engage in a dialogue with Quebec.

"You cannot continue as you are doing at the present time," he said. "This is the message you must listen to."

DISGUSTED

Mr. Faribault said he was disgusted by the reaction of some English-speaking delegates to statements of Quebec's goals of constitutional change.

He said moderate statements of Quebec's position had been written off as nonsense.

Mr. Faribault, president of General Trust of Canada and co-author with industrialist Robert Fowler of a book on constitutional change, has been known in Quebec as a quiet Conservative and a moderate voice of nationalism.

He has kept his distance from the Conservative party while John Diefenbaker has been party leader.

Earlier Tuesday, as one of the special speakers of the conference, Mr. Faribault had outlined what he believed were Quebec's minimum demands for constitutional change. His statement was regarded by most observers of Quebec politics as milder than most proposals for constitutional change that have been heard recently in Quebec.

Early in the evening plenary session Gordon Fairweather, constitutional discussion group chairman and member of Parliament for Royal, N.B., said to the people in his part of the country the monarchy was not negotiable.

Shortly afterwards Marcel Lambert, former Conservative speaker and member of Parliament for Edmonton West, said that in Alberta special status for Quebec was not negotiable.

'NOT NEGOTIABLE'

Mr. Faribault's anger was set off when Miss Mary Southin, a Vancouver lawyer, said the supremacy of the federal government was not negotiable.

"I reject the statement that so many things are not negotiable that no discussion can be held," he shouted.

He said that Quebec was ready and waiting for discussion and dialogue but that there must be dialogue if the country was to survive.

"If you don't want to discern that, then the country is lost," he warned.

Mr. Faribault warned that attitudes in Quebec were hardening dangerously quickly.

He said he had written three years ago that a new constitution should not give Quebec a special status.

LACK OF DIALOGUE

"I have not changed my mind," he said. "But the people have changed its mind."

He blamed the lack of dialogue, and the fact that no constituent assembly had been set up to debate a new constitution.

"Are you unable to realize that this is what is happening to, the country?" he demanded.

Mr. Faribault said it was unacceptable to Quebec that the federal government invade "under the guise of tax law" such exclusively provincial fields as property, civil law and social legislation.

Unless English-Canada would accept that "exclusive means exclusive" and respect provincial rights he said, "there is no hope for this country."

"There is no hope if the Supreme Court is composed of judges who don't know a damn thing about civil law."

Mr. Faribault was interrupted by former Conservative citizenship minister Richard Bell when he said that the federal government had violated the rights of the codified civil law which applies in Quebec.

"It isn't true, it simply isn't true," Mr. Bell shouted.

After the meeting adjourned Mr. Bell said within Mr. Faribault's hearing that the Quebec spokesman had been talking nonsense.

Shouting between the two picked up again. It ended when Mr. Faribault said that he would not accept being interrupted while he was speaking and Mr. Bell replied, "you will be, as long as I am around, if you talk nonsense."

LANGUAGE RIGHTS

As Mr. Bell walked off Mr. Faribault said, "to be called a liar by a nincompoop is inadmissible."

Earlier the constitutional discussion group had reported to the conference that it had agreed on the principle that French-speaking minorities outside Quebec shouldh ave language rights equal to those enjoyed by the English-speaking minority in Quebec.

The committee also favored a constitutional tribunal constituted to serve as an impartial arbiter of disputes between federal and provincial governments.

123 CASES IN METRO AREA

New High Recorded in Hepatitis

Infectious hepatitis cases reached a 1967 high Tuesday with the 123rd case of the year reported to the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Health Board.

Tuesday's case was reported from Oak Bay bringing that municipality's total cases for the year to eight.

Saanich still holds the unenviable lead in the hepatitis race with 56 cases reported to date.

Esquimalt has six reported cases including a family stricken by the disease last week.

In Victoria 31 cases have been reported this year, bringing the core municipalities' total to 101.

The balance of the 123 cases are from unorganized territory or the northern end of Saanich Peninsula.

Senior metro health officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread said the latest family outbreak in Esquimalt is under control.

"We have not been able to trace the source of the infection, but it definitely was not the water supply," he said.

Contaminated water is usually the cause of the disease.

"But it can be caused by other things," Dr. Whitbread said. "Unclean hands handling food can be a cause. Or you can have the case of a boy with an extremely mild case, what we call sub-clinical, passing infectious hepatitis on to his girl friend when he kisses her goodnight.

"If there are other children in the family she could very well pass it on to them."

Intimidation Threat Denied

The honorary commandant of the Canadian Corps of Commissionaires denied charges Monday that a corps letter constitutes threat and intimidation.

The comment was made by honorary corps commandant A. C. Wurtele after reaction from another ex-servicemen's organization, the 3 Cees Association.

"We've been very generous in giving them until Aug. 17 to make up their minds (which group they want to belong to) instead of giving them the usual 48-hour deadline," he said.

"We're merely following in the footsteps of every other city in Canada. Every corps is managed in the same way.

"There was no intimidation or threat. This is a free country. If they like the corps they can stay in. If they don't they're free to leave."

26 Awards Awaiting Horsemen

Horsemen will compete for 26 awards, including three aggregate trophies Sunday, when the Colwood Trailriders hold their 18th annual gymkhana.

Events start at 12:30 p.m. at the grounds at the corner of William Head Road and Lombard Drive.

Aggregate trophies are for Colwood Trailriders only, under 18; scoring the highest number of points; horse and rider scoring the highest number of points.

In each case the rider can only claim points for one horse.

BACK ON LIST

Returning to the list of events after being dropped for two years due to lack of space are the boys' and ladies' quarter mile events and the men's half mile race.

India Wants Subs

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India announced Tuesday it expects to build up a submarine fleet. Bali Ram Bhagat, minister for defence production, told the council of state that India would obtain enough submarines for defence needs. He would not say how many or where India would obtain them. Observers here believed the Soviet Union would supply at least four submarines.

Son Kills Mother; 'End Her Suffering'

CHICAGO (UPI)—Death and pain cast a long shadow in the lives of Mrs. Alice Waskin, 52, her husband and two sons.

Tuesday Mrs. Waskin, a leukemia victim, was shot to death while she was lying in the intensive care ward at Wesley Memorial Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said Mrs. Waskin was incurably ill. "It was only a matter of weeks or perhaps even days."

Her last visitor was her younger son Robert. Police charged the 22-yar-old college senior with murder.

He was scheduled for a preliminary court appearance today.

●

"The boy loved his mother very much," said the woman's husband, Daniel, a 52-year-old insurance salesman. "I know he meant to do right."

Daniel Waskin was waiting outside the four-bed ward while his son visited Mrs. Waskins. Hospital rules allowed only one visitor at a time.

As he stood in the hallway, he said he saw his son walk calmly out of the room and approach him.

"I shot her," the boy said. "She's out of her misery now. I shot her."

Daniel Waskin said those words were the first indication he had that his wife was dead.

"She asked me several times—I don't know how many tines she pleaded with him (Robert)—to put her out of her misery," said Waskin. "She pleaded with him many times."

Mrs. Waskin, although critically ill with leukemia, was in the hospital because of an overdose of sleeping pills, said her husband. He said Robert had given his mother the pills, "a lot of them," on Sunday. He said his wife had been hospitalized five times in the last two months and "always was in great pain."

●

The Waskins' other son, Morton, 26, is a welfare worker for Cook County.

Detective Bernard Kelly said young Waskin admitted firing the bullets which struck his mother in the head. Kelly said young Waskin, who made no formal statement, was "very co-operative."

Minister Nearing 'Organizing B.C.' Goal

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell has come a long way towards his avowed goal of organizing half the province under some form of local administration.

"About 30 per cent of the province is organized now," he said in an interview."

"And about 80 per cent of our population lives in the organized areas."

Mr. Campbell took over the portfolio only 40 months ago when less than 5 per cent of the province was organized and most of that was in single-purpose water improvement districts.

He publicly declared his goal was to raise it to 50 per cent and now feels "we'll get there."

Theoretically at least, he's more than succeeded because before this year is finished, the entire province will be organized into regional hospital districts.

In practical terms, however, hospital districts cannot be classed as full-fledged civic government units and he concedes this.

But regional services boards such as the Capital Region Board, "instant towns" such as Port McNeil and "wilderness-resource" towns such as Gold River have been introduced in all parts of the province by him as genuine civic entities.

And the incorporation of straightforward municipalities such as North Saanich and numerous local improvement district boards has increased in pace during the past three years.

KING-SIZED HELP FOR NEW ZEALANDER

Caddies usually come in small packages but Boris Vezich of New Zealand team in Commonwealth golf matches got a king-sized and experienced bag-toter in Terry (Tiny) Jellis, of Edmonton. Tiny's advice may have helped as Boris won singles match Tuesday and teamed with Geoff Clark for half in foursomes as his team tied with Great Britain. (Times photos by Bill Halkett.)

Springboks Leap Ahead With Upset of Aussies

South Africa Shows Power; Britain Ties New Zealand

By ERNIE FEDORUK

South Africa's golf team got the takeoff it wanted. The Springboks vaulted to the front and the luck of the draw promptly sent Canada out to test the unexpected muscles of the early leaders in the fouth Commonwealth matches.

Canada, with the first-round bye Tuesday, went against the South Africans today for its opening licks in the five-nation tournament being staged at picturesque Victoria Golf Club.

But Tuesday was the Springboks' day.

It wasn't so much the fact that they upset Australia, but it was the manner in which South Africa manhandled last year's world champions that headlined the opening day's program.

South Africa swept all three of the morning's scotch foursomes then won four of the afternoon's six singles. One singles was halved, and Australia's lone victory came when Kevin Hartley blazed home on the back nine to clip David Symons, 2 and 1.

South Africa's two points placed them one ahead of Great Britain and New Zealand, who shared the spoils in Tuesday's other match.

New Zealand got a big jump in the foursomes but the British rallied to square accounts in singles play. The Kiwis, who are idle today, won one foursomes' match and halved two. Britain won three, lost two and tied one of the six singles.

In determining victory, two points are awarded for a win and one for a half. Only the day's overall result, however, is used in declaring the ultimate Commnwealth champions.

It was obvious, especially to the South African team leaders, that their impressive start in the foursomes was the key to Tuesday's success. That's how they felt before it started, said team manager Louis du Plessis, and that is "the key to the overall championship."

The same pairings were to go against Canada, which has never beaten the South Africans in three previous Comomnwealth meetings.

Jones Was Hasty in Conceding Hole

'At this stage,' interjected non-playing captain Brian Keartland, "there's no reason to change. We'll probably maintain this team order throughout the week."

The pairings were originally set up during practices in South Africa last month.

Playing under almost ideal weather conditions, the South Africans rarely played a loose shot. Their approximate medal scores are testimony. Two of the three pairings played sub-par golf in the morning while the third — Symons and Comrie du Toit — had a par-matching 70 in defeating Australians Phil Billings and Kevin Donohoe, one up.

Even in losing his singles to Hartley, Symons was even par for the 17 holes played. Hartley, a 33-year-old veteran of international play, was two down at the turn but was approximately four under par for the eight holes he played on the back nine!

Perhaps the poorest effort by the South Africaans was Derek Kemp's three-over 73. With that, however, he managed to trip Kevin Donohoe, one up.

PERFECT DAY

Du Toit, Hugh Baiocchi and Rodney Mullan also won their singles for a perfect day. Mullan was four down after the 10th, but won four straight holes to snatch victory away from Victor Bulgin, the 39-year-old Aussie policeman.

Two "incidents" spiced the British - New Zealand argument.

Unfortunate but hardly argumentive, the first incident came on the very first hole in foursomes play. New Zealand's Stuart Jones played a practice ball out of a trap rather than the one hit by partner Bruce Stevens.

Jones, realizing his mistake, promptly conceded the hole to his British rivals although rules do not call for a loss-of-hole penalty when such an infraction occurs in a hazard.

PUTTED FROM MARK

"We had been talking about this only last night," said Jones. "By time I had realized what I had done, I had conceded the hole."

Jones and Stevens eventually halved their foursomes match with Rodney Foster and Gordon Cosh.

The second incident occurred in singles play between New Zealand's Boris Vezich and British bank clerk Dudley Millensted.

Millensted used his putter to mark his ball out of Vezich's line. The Briton then putted from the mark, rather than the original spot, a club length's away.

The match was all square at that point, the 10th, but Vezich claimed the hole and went on to win, two up.

SPARKLING SHOT

Vezich, incidentally, was instrumental in preserving New Zealand's winning margin in the foursomes. Vezich and partner Geoff Clarke were one down to Millensted and playing-captain Michael Bonallack, playing the 18th.

Vezich spanked New Zealand's approach shot to within 15 inches of the final hole for an easy birdie that earned a half.

Bonallack, Foster and wee Sandy Saddler sparked the British comeback with victories in the singles. After Ron Shade of Britain and Ross Murray halved their match, Bonallack checked in with a one-up victory over Jones; Saddler defeated John Durry, 2 and 1, and Foster beat Clarke, 3 and 1.

Foster had perhaps the best individual round of the day. The likeable blond was three under par for the 17 holes he needed to beat Clarke.

EVEN CHAMPIONS get in trouble on golf courses and four-time Scottish amateur king Ronnie Shade came out smiling with this fine shot from trap by the 13th green Tuesday on way to half in singles with New Zealand's Ross Murray.

Decisions of Judges Malicious, Says Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Radio Havana charged Tuesday night that there were "malicious decisions of judges" at the Pan-American Games, completed Sunday in Winnipeg, in baseball, fencing, soccer and boxing.

The broadcast, monitored in Miami, said that politics were more influential than sports during the games.

"Some judges at times of crucial decisions were inclined against Cuban athletes," the broadcast said.

"Our delegation has been unlucky, but despite that, we have won because we surpassed by four times our record that we gained in Brazil."

★ ★ ★

Havana Radio said the list of injured Cuban athletes was extensive.

"No one knew anything about that because they the athletes hid it in order to play. Only Enrique Figarola (Cuban track champion) left the field because he couldn't run with a seriously injured muscle."

The broadcast said three baseball players, three boxers and one Olympic wrestler were among the injured athletes.

Americas, Europe In Track 'First'

MONTREAL (CP)—Athletes of Europe and the Americas rested or went through light workouts today in preparation for tonight's first track and field meeting between the two continents.

The weather forecast said there was a chance of a few showers or thundershowers in late afternoon or evening.

The two-day meet, to be a biennial affair, winds up Thursday night at Montreal's Expo Autostade where the all-weather track is of rubberized asphalt.

Final lists supplied by meet officials showed the Americas team with 63 athletes, 42 men and 21 women. The European team has a total of 70, made up of 47 men and 23 women.

For the Americas team the U.S., big winners at the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg, has a massive entry of 36 men and 14 women for a total of 50.

Canada follows with nine athletes—four men and five women, Mexico and Brazil have one man each and Jamaica and Venezuela one woman each.

The European squad embraces athletes from 16 countries. West Germany is the heaviest numerically with 11, six men and five women. Hungary has 10, eight men and two women; France nine, all men, and Poland also nine, four men and five women.

East Germany has four men and four women, Britain four men and two women, Italy an all-man entry of four, Czechoslovakia two men and one woman, Belgium two men only, and Sweden one man and one woman.

Games Draw Half Million

WINNIPEG (CP) — The fifth Pan-American Games, the first ever held in Canada, proved an unexpected success.

More than 550,000 people paid $1,097,000 to watch competition in 22 sports from July 23 to Aug. 6, Ken Strachan, comptroller for the Pan-American Games Society, estimated Tuesday.

Strachan said final totals will not be known for three weeks but baseball attracted an estimated 98,000 spectators, track and field, 65,000, and swimming and diving, 56,500.

ARGOS TO RIFLES

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Rifles have signed linebacker Allan Ray Aldridge, recently released by Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League.

Mullan Called the Shot In Comeback Golf Win

By ERNIE FEDORUK

If that boxer fella, Muhammad Ali Clay or whatever, decides to take up the game of golf, then I'd like to see him meet Rodney John Mullan.

What's-his-name, the boxer, is supposed to be the champeen of optimists.

Mullan has to rate as a leading contender in the confidence department, but sans the braggadocio of the boxer.

A member of the South African side playing for the Commonwealth team championship at Victoria Golf Club this week, the 31-year-old Mullan was four down to Australia's Victor Bulgin after 10 holes in Tuesday's singles play.

That was when the scholarly-looking South African declared: "I'm going to win this match."

He did.

★ ★ ★

Much has been said and written about the possible effect strong winds may have on the play at Oak Bay's favorite links. The weather has been postcard-perfect but there have been suggestions that the South Africans—the leading team going into today's round against Canada—might be the first to feel the breezes.

Same Mr. Mullan (see above) steps forward to deny it. Most South African courses, he said Tuesday, become something akin to cement roads during their winter season.

"You have to play an entirely different game," said Mullan. "Especially with the short game. Those conditions are the equivalent of a good wind."

★ ★ ★

Fretting and keeping a watchful eye on the progress of the British team is Major Keith MacKenzie. A Sandhurst graduate and winner of the Military Cross during the Italian campaign in the Second World War, MacKenzie will soon take over one of the most prestigious positions in golfdom.

He is the secretary-designate of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club.

PITCHING SHORT ONES: . . Twenty-one of the 30 players in the Commonwealth lineup will also play in the Canadian Amateur at Royal Colwood next week . . . Throw in the Willingdon Cup teams and the usually strong challengers from the U.S. and it's easy to see why officials are labelling this year's field as the strongest ever to campaign for the national title . . . More testimony on that score is supplied by the fact all three-handicapppers had to be scratched from the entry list to reduce the field to 161 . . . All members of the South African, New Zealand and Canadian teams are "In" along with Australia's Bill Britten and the British pair of Michael Bonallack and Ronnie Shade . . . A thing called work demands that other members of the Aussie and British team pass up the Canadian event. . . .

Stories on putting brillianee have been lacking and most players feel it is because Oak Bay's tricky greens are somewhat slower than they are accustomed to . . . South African Hugh Baiocchi's victory over Dennis Bell of Australia in Tuesday's singles might be attributed to the fact the 20-year-old university student found the secret of playing the par threes . . . Baiocchi, who was named to the South African team when Bobby Cole decided to turn professional, played the six par-three holes 3-2-2-3-3-3 . . . Teammate Comrie du Toit also was two under over the six shorties, 2-4-3-3-2-2. . . .

Canadian team members Gary Cowan and Johnny Johnston took advantage of their day off Tuesday to play in an East-vs.-West match at Colwood . . . Johnston and Dr. George Bigelow, the Canadian seniors champion from Victoria needed birdies on the final hole to take the measure of the East's representatives—Cowan and Phil Farley, the Canadian non-playing captain . . . Both Johnston and Cowan served up one-under-par 69s at Colwood.

TIP OF THE HAT by muscular Ross Murray of New Zealand acknowledges applause after difficult putt dropped into cup on fifth green.

Bubba's Agent Sues for Cut

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A Washington, D.C. firm has charged in federal court that Bubba Smith, giant rookie tackle for the Baltimore Colts, has not paid an agreed-to commission on an estimated $200,000 he received to sign with the National Football League team.

The suit alleges Smith violated a three-year contract with Celebrities Investment Management Co. of Washington.

Rawlings Romp Past Champions

Rawlings, third-place finishers in the regular Senior Amateur League season, started their best-of-five semi-final playoff series against league-champion Transport Workers Tuesday at Royal Athletic Park.

Rawlings were up for the contest. Transports weren't.

Rawlings outplayed the league champs in every department while drubbing the Workers 16-8.

Transports, shaky afield, committed 10 errors. They collected six hits off Doug Hill and Pete Duncan, only half as many as Rawlings tagged off Gordie Strongman and Terry Karpiuk.

TIMELY HITTING

Spirited Rawlings stung several timely hits. George Brice drove home five runs with two singles and a line double. Duncan, hitting the fastball and the change of pace, smacked three hits and scored five times. Barry Cosier and Dave Morgan hit two-run singles.

Greaves take a 1-0 lead into tonight's semi-final game against King's Hotel at 6:30.

VICTORIA PITCHER . . . . . . WINS WITH CONTROL

John Knowles Finds the Mark

John Knowles, one of the finest pitching prospects to emerge from the Greater Victoria minor baseball program, hurled the second shutout victory of this rookie season in professional baseball July 30.

The 18-year-old righthander, whose active fastball earned him a contract with the Kansas City Athletics organization last August, limited Tampa Tarpons to five hits in seven innings while receiving credit for a 3-0 victory for Leesburg Athletics of the Florida State (AA) League.

Knowles left the mound after throwing 100 pitches, the standard limit for young first-year pitchers in the Kansas City chain.

Perhaps significant is he fact that Knowles, though striking out nine, walked only two batters in the seven inning stint. During his minor baseball and Victoria Senior Amateur League career, control was the young fireballer's main pitching problem.

Knowles pitched his first shutout of the season, a 5-0 win over Sarasota Cardinals, during a brief stay with Bradenton A's of the Gulf Coast League. Knowles hurled five innings, struck out seven, walked three and gave up just three hits.

It hasn't been all roses, however, for the youthful Victorian. He had his lumps while starting for Burlington June 6. He walked the first three batters he faced, then gave up a grand-slam homer to Waterloo Hawks' cleanup batter Felix Maldonado.

Burlington, Bradenton, Leesburg And Knowles is hoping for a chance to play winter baseball in South America.

That's a lot of travelling. But the name of the game is still the same. The young righthander who has dreamed of a professional career since his Little League days is still challenging hitters with his fastball.

Mother Knows Best—Ask Phillies' Callison

Mother knows best in the John Callison household.

John's wife, Dianne, whose main duties are supposed to be taking care of their three daughters, figured the ailing Callison was well enough to move back into the Philadelphia Phillies' lineup.

She turned out to be right, too, and the Phils couldn't be happier. Callison's two-out single in the 10th inning Tuesday night scored John Briggs from third and gave the Phils their eighth straight victory, a 5-4 decision over San Francisco Giants. It's the longest Phils' winning streak since 1963.

Callison was injured on July 20 when he slid into Jim Lefebvre's knee and had cartilage torn from his rib. He missed five games but played in the next five, only to be forced out of the lineup when he aggravated the bruised ribs and the pain became too much. He'd been idle since July 31.

"My wife knew I was better," Callison smiled after the game, "she told me yesterday, 'You should be better because you're not yelling and groaning every time you bend over or turn your head now'."

VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

They've been married long enough for her to know John's aches and pains. Although Callison's just 28, they've been married 10 years—one of those rare teen-age marriages that lasted.

John took his wife's advice and tried to throw a ball from the outfield Monday for the first time in a week and decided he could try to see game action Tuesday.

Manager Gene Much put him in as a pinch-hitter in the sixth and he promptly flied out. When he hit into a double play in his second trip after staying in the game, it didn't look like his wife's advice was too sound.

But the third time up in the 10th, he did the job. Briggs opened the 10th with an infield single and was sacrificed to second. Richie Allen, who was four-for-four, was intentionally walked and both runners moved up when Gene Oliver bounced out. Callison then drilled his single off loser Frank Linzy to end the game.

CARDS NO CINCH

The victory left the surging Phils in sixth place, 10 games behind St. Louis but just two out of second. The Phils consider themselves pennant contenders and don't believe the Cardinals have the pennant wrapped up. They know so very well how a big lead can be blown since most of the were on the 1964 Phillie team that was 6½ ahead with 12 to go but lost the flag.

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati blanked Houston 5-0, Los Angeles topped St. Louis 6-2, New York nipped Atlanta 3-2 in 11 innings and Chicago beat Pittsburgh 8-4.

In the American League, Chicago beat Detroit 6-4 in 10 innings after losing the opener in 10 innings, 2-1. Boston beat Kansas City 7-5 after losing the opener 5-3, Cleveland edged Baltimore 5-3, Minnesota nipped Washington 3-2 and New York blanked California 1-0.

U.S. Stops Canada

WINNIPEG (CP) — Speedy Gary Odorowski connected for 16 points Tuesday night to lead the United States basketball team to a 28-18 victory over Canada in the opening event of the Paraplegic Pan-American Games.

LEAVING HOSPITAL today after treatment for inflammation of pancreas was Roger Crozier, goalie with Detroit Reg Wings of National Hockey League. Crozier had similar problem several years ago.

Late Rally Sends Carlings to Final

Carlings gained a berth in the Senior Men's Softball League playoff final with a come-from-behind last-inning rally Tuesday at Central Park.

Carlings scored four times in the top of the seventh to take a 6-4 victory over Molsons and win their semi-final series 3-1.

Things started quietly enough in Carlings' half of the seventh. Len Anderson walked, Bob Holness flied out.

But Harvey Stevenson doubled home Anderson, Norm Curran walked and Doug Boden plated the tying run with a single. Tom Hardy then drove home the game winner with his second run-scoring single of the game.

Darold Mills' sacrifice fly concluded Carlings' scoring.

Winning pitcher Rollie Clark, who struck out six and walked only two, mowed down Molsons in order in the seventh.

Deciding game in the Colony Inn - Luckies semi-final series will be played Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at Central Park.

McCormick Falls To Slick Bedard

MONTREAL (CP)—Seeded players proved dominant Tuesday at the Canadian open tennis championships but the two top seeds in men's singles did not play.

Australia's Roy Emerson, the competition's top seed, and second-seeded Manuel Santana of Spain are scheduled to arrive today after being unable to make it to Montreal for a scheduled Tuesday appearance in the open.

Emerson will meet Roger Alexandre of St. Johns, Que., and Santana is scheduled to take on Howie Simpson of Ottawa today.

Meanwhile sixth-seeded Mike Belkin of Vancouver, encountering trouble at first, wore out Ray Keldie of Australia in a second-round match and posted a score of 8-6, 6-2, 6-3.

TUTVIN GOES OUT

Torben Ulrich of Denmark, seeded fifth, had little trouble defeating Robert Puddicombe of Vancouver, also in the second round. The match between the two lefthanders ended 6-2, 6-2, 6-3 in favor of Ulrich.

Frank Tutvin of Toronto put up an early resistance but was finally overwhelmed by third-seeded Ronny Barnes of Brazil 7-5, 6-1, 6-2 in another second-round match.

Eighth-seeded Herb Fitzgibbons of New York eliminated Marc Blondeau of Quebec 6-1, 6-3, 6-2 to move into the third round.

In other second-round action Bob Bedard of Lennoxville, Que., rated second in Canada posted a score of 6-1, 6-2, 7-9, 6-1, to defeat Don McCormick of Victoria.

GUZMAN IN THE GLUE

Open organizers announced Tuesday that seventh-seeded Poncho Guzman of Ecuador was not going to appear in the competition.

Marcel McGarrahan of the control desk said Guzman telephoned Sunday to say that he was flying to Montreal Monday night.

"That's the last we heard of him," McGarrahan said.

He said the tournament committee would file a protest with the Ecuadorian Lawn Tennis Association which might result in Guzman's suspension from the association.

Morris Zimmerman of Toronto, scheduled to meet Guzman in a second-round match Tuesday, won by default.

Dave Can End 'Line' Game As Injured Rocks Return

Dave Unwin has been playing "What's My Line?" so long he can't remember when it started.

Tonight he can stop. When his Victoria Shamrocks host New Westminster Salmonbellies at Memorial Arena at 8, the Victoria coach will know all his lines.

Because of injuries and work commitments Unwin has had only one line intact through most of 28 Inter City Lacrosse League games.

That's the unit of Bill Munroe, Bob Harris and Nirmal Dillon.

Otherwise Unwin has had to play scrabble.

Reg Foster, Ron Jay and Billy Gray will be reunited tonight for the first time in weeks. At the start of the season they were the Rocks' glossiest trio. Foster has missed the last two games with a sore elbow.

For his third attacking unit Unwin will use Tom Collett, Jim McNeill and Charn Dillon.

POLICE UNIT

Larry Clarkson, mending gradually after torn knee ligaments, may work in on the line in the playoffs.

Unwin plans to pair league-leading scorer Ranjit Dillon and Jack Showers as one defensive set. Ted Liebich and Ray Beech form the other police unit in front of goalkeeper Barry Forbes.

Even though Rocks are assured of a playoff berth and Salmonbellies have only an extra-thin chance of making it, Unwin isn't looking for an easy contest.

"They'll come out roaring," Unwin said. "They have nothing to lose."

ONE WIN FOR SECOND

Two Westminster wins (tonight and at New Westminster Thursday) plus a Coquitlam loss to Vancouver Saturday would tie the 'Bellies with Adanacs for the third and final playoff berth.

Victoria needs one win to ensure a second place finish. This would give the Rocks home-floor advantage in the best-of-five semi-finals—and they are usually Murder Inc. at Memorial.

Vancouver kept New West hopes alive Tuesday by edging Coquitlam 8-7 at Vancouver.

A slashing third-period attack that netted five goals (while Adanacs could garner only two) accounted for the victory.

SCORING DIVIDED

The well-balanced Vancouver team split its goals between seven gunners with only Bill Robinson scoring more than once. He had two goals.

Gordy Gimple and Kev Parsons led Adanacs with two each. Gimple's last came at 19:17 of the third period after he pulled goalkeeper Joe Comeau. But Adanacs couldn't get the tying goal before the clock ran out.

'Super-Gun' is aimed by designer George Farquharson

DESIGNER CLAIMS RIFLE . . . . . . WILL IMPROVE ACCURACY

Want to Shoot Like Davey?

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — George Farquharson of this British Columbia city has come up with a super-gun that can turn the average nimrod into a squirrel-plinking Davy Crockett—or almost.

Farquharson says his specially-designed 7.62-calibre weapon is capable of consistently landing slugs within a 30-inch circle at a range of 1,000 yards, even if the shooter is mediocre.

The gun, the only one in the world, is a modified Lee-Enfield No. 4, equipped with steel side rails along the length of the barrel to lessen the whip action as the bullet is exploded.

By lessening whip action, the shooter gets a clearer shot away, allowing much-improved marksmanship. The experimental, 17½-pound gun resembles a small, square cannon, but its owner calls it a great improvement on normal weaponry.

The rifle is also mounted with a 10-power telescopic sight. Faruqharson explained the innovation this way: The side rails are drilled at intervals of one-eighth of an inch to allow full barrel adjustment.

The bearing can be adjusted so as to put pressure on any part of the barrel. A rifle barrel, even though appearing straight, is slightly bent. The bearing corrects the bend if placed in the proper spot.

Farquharson said his rifle will fire a volley within a 1.67-inch radius at 100 yards. The standard Lee-Enfield will shoot within 2.5 inches and the average sport rifle will do about two inches.

Farquharson will take the gun, designed by Fran Morse of Victoria, to this year's national shooting competitions in Ottawa.

Farquharson, who has been in every B.C. shoot since 1935, is a two-time winner of the grand aggregate and was placed second and third several times. He is also a former member of the Canadian national tem.

Liske's 'Bodyguards' Just What Doc Williams Ordered

WINNIPEG (CP)—Ron Allbright has been a Calgary Stampeder longer than anyone else.

In his 12th and likely his last Western Football Conference season he is receiving high marks from coach Jerry Williams for his performance at an important post.

As Calgary's left offensive guard, the 225-pound Canadian is an important cog in the wall of protection given quarterback Peter Liske.

That wall was impregnable eight days ago, giving Liske the precious seconds needed to throw three touchdown passes in a 20-7 season-opening triumph over British Columbia Lions.

"We didn't lose one yard passing," boasted Williams at a Tuesday night news conference as he also paid tribute to Allbright's linemates—left tackle Roger Kramer, centre Chuck Zickefoose, right guard Bob Lueck and right tackle Lanny Boleski.

'WON'T BE EASY'

But Williams thinks tonight's clash with Winnipeg Blue Bombers—who chilled Edmonton Eskimos 20-0 to open the 1967 campaign—won't be as easy.

"We'll try some passing . . . and some running . . . but I don't think we'll do as well," Williams said. "The Lions had an extremely difficult time protecting against the pass."

Liske has an obvious target in the Blue Bomber backfield—rookie safety Chip Barrett—but Williams noted the University of British Columbia graduate "didn't get burned in Edmonton."

On defence, the Calgary head man discussed the possibility of being forced to take "some of the emphasis" off Dave Raimey, Winnipeg's always dangerous halfback.

Some attention, Williams said, may be switched to fullback Butch Pressley, a half-back-sized guy who tormented his former Edmonton teammates by rushing for more than 100 yards.

The injury bug attacked both clubs in their first games, forcing roster changes for tonight's 8 p.m. kickoff.

Al Miller, Winnipeg's efficient middle linebacker, is limping on a sprained arch and rookie end Bob Howard has a swollen knee. This forces a three-way adjustment, with Phil Minnick replacing Miller, Morley Rolhiser moving into Minnick's linebacking slot and Gordie Brown taking over for Howard.

Stampeders are forced into changes because of linebacker Jerry Campbell's torn knee ligaments and halfback Len Sparks' groin injury.

NEILL GLOOMY

At Ottawa Edmonton Eskimos go for their first points of the season against Rough Riders here tonight, and Coach Neill Armstrong is anything but a picture of confidence.

"I think right now our offence is not as good as it was a year ago," he said gloomily while reporting on Esks' 20-0 loss to Winnipeg in their opener a week ago.

"Our defence is better overall than last year, but of course if you don't have the ball, the defence looks bad.

"We're going to have to start running the ball better to help our defence."

If anything, Rider coach Frank Clair suonded more optimistic than Armstrong about Edmonton's chances in the Ottawa opener, which will be televised at 5 p.m. PDT on Channel 8.

FRENCH SOCCER MEN WALKING BILLBOARDS

PARIS (Reuters)—French professional soccer players may carry advertisements for beer, ball-point pens and washing machines on the backs of their uniforms next season.

The proposal is being considered by the French Football League.

The sports daily L'Equipe says it is almost certain the league will agree to allow players to become highly-paid sandwich men.

The proposal is that the advertising rights for each Sunday's league program will be sold to a different company. French sports fans are already used to seeing cyclists carrying advertising material.

Tournament champion receives a berth in the Canadian finals at Valleyfield, Quebec.

Century Crew Needed One More Like Carl

Century Inn could have used another Carl Walker Tuesday night.

Century fell behind 6-0 in the opening frame, then came back with five runs to fall just short of King's Hotel, 6-5, in the first game of the best-of-seven Stuffy McGinnis Softball League finals.

Walker drove in all five Century runs and tagged the only three hits his team collected off winning pitcher Rick Rawnsley. Walker clubbed a three-run homer in the third inning, a two-run double in the fifth.

Al Graham sparked the winner's first inning rally with a two-run single.

Second game in the series is tonight at 6:30 at Heywood Avenue Park.

TIME OUT

"If I get a hit, swell . . . If I don't, I got a good excuse!"

Builder of Hydros Halts Production

SEATTLE (AP)—Les Staudacher, designer and builder of the two unlimited hydroplanes wrecked in the Gold Cup race here Sunday, has halted construction at his Kawkawlin, Mich., plant because of the accident.

Staudacher said before his departure Monday he would not build or deliver any more boats "until I am satisfied the tendency of some present hulls to leave the water and fly is corrected and eliminated."

He said he would hire aerodynamic experts and engineers to study these "barn-door-in-windstorm" accidents. The boats weigh around three tons each.

Staudacher said he made the decision after the Notre Dame, driven by Jack Regas, became airborne and disintegrated at the start of the race on Lake Washington. The speed boat Harrah's Club, piloted by Chuck Hickling, hit the wreckage, flipped and sank. Both drivers were thrown free and suffered rib fractures and other injuries.

Billy Schumacher drove Miss Bardahl to an easy victory in the race.

Island Team Selected For Match With MCC

Tom Brierley of Cowichan Cricket Club will captain the Vancouver Island representative side scheduled to play the touring Marylebone team Sunday at Beacon Hill Park.

Other Cowichan team members selected to the all-star squad are Peter Clarke, Peter Josselyn, John Brierley and Jim Longridge, Martin Richards, Ian Blair and John Brasier of Oak Bay Cricket Club have also been selected along with Incogs' John Wenman and John Moss of Alcos.

The 11th and 12th man will be picked from Eric Kjeksted of Incogs, Tim Brierley of Cowichan and Stan Jackson of Alcos.

Players will be presented to Major-General Pearkes immediately preceding the 2:30 p.m. contest.

Lions Down Port Alberni

Don Munroe scored four goals to lead Red Lion Inn to a 10-7 victory over Port Alberni in the first game of the best-of-three Senior B Lacrosse League semi-final Tuesday at Memorial Arena.

Al McLean scored three goals for the winners, while Jack May and Craig Booth notched one each.

Bob Jones and Steve Bishop scored twice for Port Alberni, while Brian Van Horne, Harvey Thein and Bob Thompson added singles.

INDIA'S GIFT

Mature Art Through Young Eyes

Forbes

The colors of India . . . its peoples and their lives . . . its fairs and festivals . . . its seasons and beliefs. All these are brought to life in a collection of paintings now on show in the Douglas Room at The Bay.

The paintings are the work of the children of India. And they are a birthday gift to Canada in this centennial year.

As a part of its centennial contribution, The Bay is showing the collection in major cities across the country before it goes to Expo 67 and from there to a permanent location, possibly in Ottawa.

The exhibition continues here until Aug. 19.

* * *

What makes it extremely interesting is that while the ages of the artists range from four to 15 years, the understanding of their subjects, the imaginative approach and the attention to detail reaches far beyond this age bracket and into maturity.

"Our children grow up at an early age," a sari-clad visitor to the exhibition reminded me. "The conditions in which they live bring them to a mature state of mind while they are still in what you call the childhood years."

Certainly this is evident in the paintings on display.

A child of nine has looked at a village well and in bright detail has placed on her canvas the women with their heavy waterjugs, the children playing in the dust of the road and the sacred cows foraging for food.

The youthful artist did not miss a bird's nest in a tree beside the road. Nor the fact that the well is the meeting place for the village.

A 14-year-old has created a close-up named The Gossips. Three women, heads close together and all avidly mouthing a juicy morsel of talk they are obviously enjoying.

Another in the same age group has done a study of her people scurrying along a road under a heavy rain. Every detail is crisp and clear cut. So much so that even the raindrops look real.

Birthday parties, marriage ceremonies and election day scenes have intrigued the imaginations of a number of children. In each case presentations are entirely different and yet with an underlying thread of similarity that allows the observer to learn much of the story of India.

Beggars and musicians, milk sellers and holp men, folk dances and village get-togethers, all have a place in the display.

There is a sombre toned painting by a 13-year-old titled The Dustbin. It presents a woman drooped in weary effort over a heavy barrel-shaped container on a narrow shadowed lane.

Still another by a 14-year-old artist (either with a keen sense of the ridiculous or with tongue-in-cheek) is named The Travellers.

It presents two buxom western women in shorts, sports shirts and sweaters and with bandanas on their heads, being transported along a lane in a bullock cart.

* * *

Paintings in this birthday exhibit were selected from an "On The Spot" competition in which thousands of children took part. They gathered in various cities of India on a morning in March and set to work with brushes, paints and crayons. By noon, 16,000 paintings had been completed.

The man who planned and organized the competition — Shankar Pillai, cartoonist and magazine editor — also made the selection. Two hundred paintings were chosen and sent to Canada. Half of them are now on display here.

Shankar Pillai (whose real love is children, as you can well believe) has said that — "Child art is joy. Creativity is bright and shining joy, and it is in everyone. The only problem is to give it opportunity to grow."

Certainly in this exhibition there is both creativity and joy. Also the dignity of a people old in tradition and culture, quietly going about their daily lives.

Storks Rout Eagles

ISTANBUL, Turkey (Reuters) — Hundreds of eagles flew toward Cyprus Tuesday, leaving 50 of their kind dead after losing a two-day aerial battle with storks over a valley near Tarsus. The unexpected victory of the storks followed fierce fighting in which eye-witness said many eagles were wounded.

Tucker Named To Re-Organize Health Service

The provincial government has picked Dr. Frederick Gordon Tucker to re-organize its mental health services.

Health Minister Wesley Black Tuesday announced the 51-year-old psychiatrist has been promoted from acting director of the department to the $20,000 deputy minister's post vacated four moths ago by Dr. A. B. Davidson in favor of a federal position.

Dr Tucker submitted a confidential report last month at the government's request for reorganizing the mental health department's structure and activities.

Mr. Black has not released the report but did say in his announcement that decentralization has become the key to policy and emphasis will be placed on integrating mental health facilities with general hospitals.

He also said the deputy minister's office will be moved from Vancouver to Victoria because "there has been too great a gap between the general and the soldiers."

MORE CO-OPERATION

Mr. Black said he was sure that evidence of government recognition of the need for reorganization would bring more co-operation from psychiatrists in private practice and the University of B.C.'s psychiatry department.

This should help recruitment of professional staff for the government's regional mental health centres, Mr. Black said.

Dr. Tucker said he hopes to maintain a continuing departmental study of problems at the local level such as delinquency and suicide.

"We must first know the problems . . . so local services can be based upon adequate knowledge," he said.

HOME GARDEN

Lavish Hand On Annuals Means Gaiety

By HILDA BEASTALL

Gardeners who like the brilliance of color provided by annual bedding plants are on the lookout for something new or different. Public parks have always been a source of ideas, and in these years we are blessed with many other public gardens.

Hilda

The newest of these are the extensive planting areas around Saanich Municipal Hall on Vernon Avenue, just beyond Town and Country Shopping Plaza in from Douglas Street.

Annuals have been used here with a lavish hand to fill the beds between young plantings of shrubs. They serve two purposes: one to hold the interest of visitors by their gaiety; the other in the covering of the soil surface around the growing shrubs, preventing loss of moisture and too high a soil temperature for tender roots.

The home gardener may think that the crowding of flowering plants around young shrubs would be detrimental, the competition for food and water being too great.

FERTILITY

The answer lies in the fertility of the soil—quantities of humus and any kind of rotted vegetation, plus balanced food supplies and an adequate watering schedule.

Results are justifying the work involved as any home gardener will be willing to concede.

In succeeding years, the quantity of annuals will no doubt be lessened as shrubs extend their range and take over the furnishing of the beds.

A couple of hours spent at these gardens will be rewarded with many ideas to be scaled down to the size of a single home lot.

When the bedding annuals are finished, I guarantee the interest will remain in the fine shrub plantings.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 9, 1967 --PAGE 25

Arthur Mayse

Victoria's hardy Richardson is no stranger to Arctic ice. The little hydrographic survey ship has spent four of her five winters frozen in at the mouth of the Mackenzie. But that ice is static, and this off Point Barrow was both restless and menacing.

As the rafted floes increased their pressure, the Richardson canted far over on her port side. Capt. Tom McCulloch, the vessel's master since she joined our Hydrographic Service fleet, sent out his distress call. The Camsell, Victoria-based Canadian Coastguard icebreaker, answered from 150 miles north around Point Barrow. So did her American opposite number, the Northwind, from a position east of Bering Strait on the Siberian coast.

Crew member Alan Meadows resumes his account.

"Then for two days," he writes, "we slept and ate in the galley and wheelhouse only, in full Arctic clothing. It was snowing, and the temperature was 32 degrees.

"The watch kept a hawk's eye on the ice. As soon as it was seen to move even slightly, everybody got out on deck fast. Believe me, that ship was under terrific pressure. The pressure would build up until a point was reached where whole massive sections of ice would move, and not slowly,either."

★

When the packed floes shifted, the vessel lurched with them. From 25 degrees port, she swung to 35 starboard, crushing the lifeboat in the process.

"Point Barrow called us every 30 minutes to make sure we were still there," Alan reports, "and the odd aircraft circled us occasionally. The two icebreakers got each to within 30 miles of us from opposite directions, before they became bogged down in the heavy ice, approximately six feet thick."

The Camsell fought her way to Point Barrow, where the pack forced her to a dead stop. Northwind still crept toward the Richardson, with speed reduced to a knot or two.

"Then suddenly, and I mean SUDDENLY, on July 23, the ice began to back off, and leads to form. We soon freed ourselves, and drifted and steamed to within 10 miles of Point Barrow, where we sit at present. The Northwind is still coming up from behind, the Camsell is six miles north of us, stopped and within sight."

Next day, the icebreakers reached the half-crippled Richardson, Northwind sweeping past her first, and Camsell arriving half an hour later. The trap had loosed its grip; but conditions were deteriorating, and the survey ship must be fetched out of there with all possible speed.

★

A triple towing bridle was rigged from Northwind and Camsell to Richardson. Point Barrow and the sheltered lagoon behind it were only 10 miles distant, but, as Alan notes, it was a battering daylong journey, even with Camsell's helicopter scouting the ice ahead.

Safe in the lagoon, they took on food and water from Camsell, then set about inspecting the Richardson's injuries. The battle for survival had left her with a sheared rudder, bent propeller shaft, damaged stearing gear and propeller, three lifeboat ribs smashed, a chunk out of her rail, a large dent in her port side "and other smaller items."

Wrote Alan: "You can see it has been a wild time. I have had about six hours' sleep in the past five days. Right now we are lying alongside Camsell while they try to effect temporary repairs to get us to 'Tuk'." (Tuktoyaktuk, the Richardson's winter haven.)

Seaman and apprentice hydrographer Meadows — a keen fisherman who almost took a summer job as an Up-Island salmon resort guide instead—writes his final letter home as the Richardson moves on toward the Mackenzie mouth with Camsell towing.

"You have no idea of the pounding and pressure from the ice that this little ship has taken," the young man from Victoria concludes. "All I can say is they must have put her together right."

PLACE OF THE MISSING TOTEM POLE is inspected by Victoria Tourist Bureau employee Sharon Kitto.

'The Wanderer' Leaves His Post

The legend of Kha-Ne-Ki-Laq came true Tuesday night.

A 10-foot totem carving representing this mythical figure of coast Indians disappeared from its prominent pedestal on the Causeway just outside the front door of Victoria and Vancouver Island Publicity and Visitors' Bureau.

Kha-Ne-Ki-Laq stood at his post with wings outspread for nearly 20 years, secured to the building by a piece of half-inch steel.

This morning when commissioner Mike Heppell got to work just before 9, the totem was gone, the steel bracket sawn through.

A plaque on the wall gave a brief history of the carving, whose roots go back 500 or 600 years.

Kha-Ne-Ki-Laq was known to all the bands by his acts of graciousness, a natural man who endeared himself to the whole native population.

He was the legendary son of the first man and was also known as "the Wanderer."

Tuesday night he wandered, leaving police no clue.

Expert Look Suggested On Waterway

Expert advice should be sought for Portage Inlet-Gorge Waterway and the Colquitz Creek, Saanich engineer Neville Life said Tuesday night.

He was commenting in a report on a letter from the Portage Inlet and Gorge Waterway Society which suggested dredging this area to clean it up.

"Unfortunately there are many unknowns involved in carrying out any severe course of action such as dredging," said Mr. Life.

"I would suggest we endeavor to embody their thoughts in an over-all proposal for the Colquitz.

"The association and the municipality will require expert advice in this regard. I think we can safely assume that the obtaining of expert advice is a desire common to both parties."

FALL REPORT

The means of obtaining this advice will be suggested in the engineering department's preliminary report in the fall on the Colquitz, which flows into Portage Inlet.

Earlier this year, Saanich council instructed the engineering department to survey the Colquitz to see if it could be improved.

Public works committee decided Tuesday night to inform the Portage Inlet and Gorge Waterway Society of Mr. Life's report.

Dryer on Mattress Starts House Fire

Fire destroyed a mattress and caused smoke damage to the upper floor of the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. DeGirolomo, 1012 Bewdley, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Esquimalt firemen used smoke masks to get into the house and fight the fire which started when a hair dryer was left on the mattress.

Youngsters Warned After Grass Fire

City police warned three youngsters about playing with matches after they started a grass fire in the rocky area by the Memorial Arena at about 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Fire crews spent about 90 minutes extinguishing the fire which covered an area the size of two city lots.

Bishop Calls for Action To Ease Tension in City

BISHOP DeROO
. . . concerned

Letters to Leaders Urges Open Forums

By PAUL WILLIAMSON

The head of the Roman Catholic Church in Victoria has called for immediate steps to correct what he terms a "restlessness and tension" in the city.

In a letter to eight community leaders, Bishop Remi De Roo suggests a series of "open forums in which for the first time the full extent and nature of our problems could be aired".

The letter has been sent to Mayor Hugh Stephen, Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich, Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay, Reeve Ray Bryant of Esquimalt, Garth Homer of the Community Welfare Council, school board chairman Peter Bunn, University of Victoria president Malcolm Taylor and the Victoria Youth Council.

The bishop's letter said "a number of persons whom I have asked about the local situation think it is becoming worse and I have become concerned about such matters as:

- Social welfare and housing conditions.
- Poverty, especially as it affects older persons.
- Discrimination against racial groups, particularly Indians.
- Moral and legal issues surrounding the increased use of stimulants and sedatives, particularly the psychedelic drugs.
- The alleged injustice of the vagrancy laws and their enforcement.
- Arbitrary pressures and harassment against nonconforming social groups.

Referring to recent controversies over some of these points, the bishop's letter states "accusations were made that were often poorly founded or only partially justified.

"The controversies emphasized the cleavages and did nothing to improve the situation.

"The danger is now that, unless some effort is deliberately made to remove friction and misunderstanding the bitterness and strife will become even worse."

FIND WAYS

The open forums suggested by the bishop would aim "to open communications between various groups that are now either hostile or misunderstand one another.

"With goodwill, openness to one another and straight talk, I am sure we could find a way to settle differences or at least remove serious misunderstandings."

The letter states "persons not normally represented at such get-togethers" should be included.

"By these I mean nonconformists, persons on welfare, members of minority groups and any others who are interested.

"All too often when community action is being planned the persons involved represent the middle class rather than a real cross-section of our total population."

BIG PROBLEM

"I realize the difficulties of finding articulate spokesmen for minority groups but this is one of our biggest problems and we should face up to it at the beginning."

Bishop De Roo is in Ottawa on routine business, and will return to Victoira early next week.

A spokesman for his office said the bishop is "anxiously awaiting the reaction to his suggestions.

"The next step will be decided upon when we have received those replies."

Mayor Backs Forums But Wants 'Ferment' Of Debate Avoided

Community leaders have responded with enthusiasm to Bishop Remi De Roo's call for open forums and "straight talk" about community problems.

Some of the reactions are cautious, however.

Mayor Hugh Stephen said today he is "all for" the suggested forums.

"There can be no hope of arriving at solutions to community problems unless there is a dialogue.

'There are two problems surrounding the matters raised in the bishop's letter—the practical considerations and the moral ones."

"We can come up with the answers to the practical problems if the community is willing to provide resources, but the moral questions must be decided by the people as a whole."

'Practical Action'

The mayor stressed solutions to any problem eventually require positive practical action.

Referring to the Mayor and Reeves' Committee on Youth, he said "we are moving on some of these problems and within the next six months will see the development of a positive approach.

"But I am anxious to avoid a ferment of discussion when we are on the verge of action," he cautioned.

Oak Bay Reeve Allan Cox called it a "good move." He said it indicated the church's "desire to actively participate in what apparently are community problems."

"These matters can't be solved by governments alone."

Wait and See

Skeptical of forums where "too often those who speak out are those who like to hear themselves," Reeve Cox said he would wait to see the reaction of other recipients of the letter.

"But there is a polarization of attitudes in the community and churches are an essential element in correcting this if for no other reason than they represent large numbers of people who have a common interest."

School board chairman Peter Bunn called the letter "extremely important."

"It reflects my own feelings," he said "and within an hour after receiving it copies were in the mail to every member of the board. I couldn't have moved more quickly.

"It is essential that we communicate with all groups in society, particularly those young people so difficult for many to understand.

Partly to Blame

"If there are serious problems in the community then we who educated that community are partly to blame.

"We must talk about it. When you're talking to other people, you're not hitting them."

Mr. Bunn said the board meets Thursday and will consider the bishop's letter.

The Victoria Youth Council discussed the letter at a meeting Tuesday night.

They were enthusiastic and intend to reply to Bishop De Roo today outlining some of their proposed projects and offering their co-operation.

'Time Has Come'

David McLean, president of the students' council at the University of Victoria, called the letter "a signal the time has come."

"I'm happy someone in the bishop's position has spoken up and called for this understanding.

"This isn't youth talking—it's a respected and responsible man. I hope the challenge is met by all those who receive the letter."

Mr. McLean said the students' council would be willing to act.

SIZZLER . . . OR HADN'T YOU NOTICED?

Today will probably go down as the hottest day of the year so far.

At noon, thermometers downtown were already touching 80 and still rising.

Hottest time is usually around 3 p.m. when downtown temperatures could be as high as 85.

At the exposed Gonzales weather station noon temperature was 77. Short of a sudden wind, it was expected to top 79 or 80 before the day was out.

Previous high this year at the weather office was 79 degrees on July 2.

Highest this month was 74 on Tuesday and last Thursday.

Tuna Ships Christened On Saturday

Two helicoper-carrying tuna fishing vessels will be christened Saturday at Yarrows Ltd.

First of their kind to be built in Victoria, the vessels will have the champagne splashed over their bows by the wife of Canadian Tuna Co. (1965) Ltd. president, Emerson H. Gennis.

Each of the 200 feet long ships cost $2¼ million.

The first ready, Atlantic Gairdner will start her sea trials in the next few weeks.

The Atlantic Gennis will not be ready for sea until the end of the year.

PACIFIC RUN

Before heading for the choice tuna grounds off western Africa, the Atlantic Gairdner will have a trial run in the Pacific.

The two will be part of a fleet of five serving Canada's first wholly integrated tuna cannery in St. Stephen, N.B. The other three are being built in Montreal.

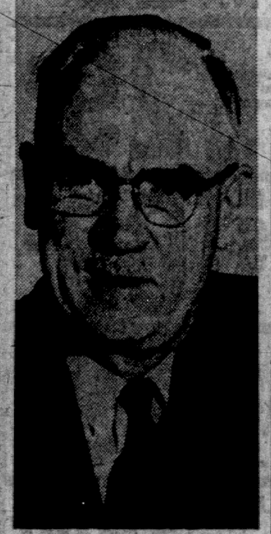
The vessels are powered by 2,400 continuous horsepower to five-bladed propellers.

Designed in Holland, they have engines aft and fish cargo holds forward.

The holds, incorporating a new fast-freezing fish storage process, can hold 1,000 tons.

The helicopter on each ship is used for spotting tuna shoals.

Christenings will take place at noon.



RETIRING for health reasons August 31 is Royal Jubilee Hospital medical superintendent, Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson. He has held the post since 1948. Prior to that he was Victoria medical health officer for three years. He received an MBE for war service. He became a doctor in 1929 and served his internship at Jubilee.

Compasses Taken From Fishboats Below Johnson

Two fish boats, tied up at the wharf below Johnson Street, were robbed early Tuesday.

Fred Sheldrake, 841 Ellery, reported a compass worth $50 taken from his boat by thieves who forced the cabin hatchway. Food supplies were also taken.

Silver Jacura, 2659 Douglas, reported the troller Jean was entered and a $20 compass and a $6 barometer are missing.

Saanich police were called to the Mayfair Lanes bowling alley this morning to investigate an overnight robbery.

Thieves smashed a window in the establishment's restaurant to gain entry. They forced open the door of the manager's office, got the keys to the vending machines and took a small amount of cash. The machines had been emptied only a few days before.

Mayor Orders Watering Ban In City Parks

30 Men Out of Work Until Crisis Eases

Mayor Hugh Stephen today ordered a total ban on all sprinkling in city parks and on city-tended boulevards.

The mayor said he hoped the city's example will encourage private citizens to follow suit and impose voluntary bans on lawn sprinkling.

Chief water commissioner Ron Upward said Tuesday one full week without sprinkling would bring water reserves back to a relatively safe level.

He said today that even with a full week's ban imposed throughout the area it is too late to save the salmon and steelhead fry in the Goldstream.

It is feared that this year's salmon hatch will be lost.

Mr. Upward had little sympathy for conservationists lamenting the loss.

PEOPLE FIRST

He repeated what he has stated publicly before: "People are more important than fish. We made a mistake when we agreed originally to release water into the Goldstream to benefit the fish."

Mr. Upward and Mayor Stephen met this morning to discuss the latest developments in the continuing drought which has forced the water district to call for water restrictions for the first time in its history.

There have been watering restrictions—in the past but all have been called for at the municipal level.

Today's ban means that 30 men in the parks department will be laid off until the water reserves are back to a safe level.

City council is expected to endorse the mayor's action Thursday afternoon and to take the matter one stage further by banning all sprinkling in the city for at least one week.

'NO CHOICE'

"As far as I am concerned the people have no choice in the matter," said Mr. Upward. "They either stop watering now or we run out of water in two weeks time."

In the meantime residents of the Saanich Peninsula continue to draw adequate water for domestic needs from Elk Lake and a variety of deep wells.

Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior metro health officer, said Tuesday a quick check of Sidney, North Saanich and Central Saanich revealed no major shortage.

"A few of the private wells are getting low, but there are no reports of anyone being actually dry," he said.

Sidney, which draws its water supply partly from a deep well and partly from the Elk Lake source, reports an adequate supply with no consideration being given to imposing restrictions.

Although Mr. Upward has set a one week period for the sprinkling ban, the seven days could stretch to two or three weeks if the hot weather continues.

Asked how the ban would affect the appearance of the city parks administrator Herb Warren answered "we shall have brown lawns I guess."

Geisha Girls, Boomerangs For Sailors

Esquimalt-based sailors will see more than their share of the sea in the next six months.

Two extended cruises are lined up for later this year and early '68.

In addition to these, local ships will be taking part in the annual Canadian-U.S. exercise Maple Spring at the beginning of next year.

Officially the navy's not saying where the ships will be going.

But the men are already saving up to buy boomerangs and take tea with Geisha girls.

In past years Operation Maple Spring has been held in the Caribbean. As yet there has been no confirmation as to whether the same locale has been picked for next year's exercise.

Youth Council Gets Office Space At University

The Victoria Youth Council, evicted from its downtown office, has been granted temporary office space in the basement of the Student Union Building at the University of Victoria.

A council spokesman said today they had been unable to find a new office downtown.

"We'll find one but it will take us two or three weeks.

"In the meantime the pressure of work on projects means we must have office space in August."

The youth council received permission to use the building from members of the university's students' council.

TWO YEARS FROM COMPLETION, the new provincial mental health facility at Lee Avenue, just east of Royal Jubilee Hospital, appears well under way. But the project, which will cost more than $6 million, is being built in six contracted steps and June, 1969, is estimated completion date. It will contain 200,000 square feet of floor area but how it will be used, whether for general mental care or for specialized groups has still not been made clear by the department. Local hospital officials are unaware whether the new building will take patients now using Royal Jubilee psychiatric wing or whether other hospital facilities will be merged. Most Island patients now go to Mainland.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Skinner, of Prince George, have announced the forthcoming marriage of their only daughter, Susan Margareat, to Mr. Lawrence Douglas McCann, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bernard McCann, 2086 Brighton Avenue, Victoria. The ceremony will take place this coming Saturday at 2:30 p.m., in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Victoria. The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. Robert Armstrong, 1126 Rockland Avenue.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Tooth-Brush Mystery Ends With This Item

By Penny Saver

In the Saver household we have learned that youngsters and toothbrushes are easily separated. Our two youngest are at an age where teeth are the least of their concerns, so constantly brushes are mysteriously transported to the sandbox in the garden, to clean dolls' teeth (which are important, I understand), and to play a strategic part in junior's latest building program. I confess that they have been known to disappear for other purposes, too—they're excellent for cleaning shoes and intricate silver polishing. We've become resigned to the constant problem of disappearing brushes, but we find it difficult to keep a supply on hand.

You can imagine my joy when I was shopping the other day and found a 10-cent toothbrush in one shop. The salesman recommended these especially for family camping trips, or for junior's session at a summer camp—a very practical idea.

Another useful and inexpensive item I found here is a space-saving egg-beater. This beater is spring-loaded for easy use in crowded kitchen quarters—great for trailer or boat living, and camping, too. It is priced at only 19 cents.

For the man of the house who takes his lunch to work, a separate box for his sandwiches will be a hit! In one store I found an unbreakable plastic box, large enough for a gigantic sandwich priced at 29 cents. This box does not leave traces of odor or taste, and is completely sanitary. Soggy sandwiches are gone forever with the great lunch-pail aid.

Please give me a call at 382-3131 if you'd like to know where I found these items.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Start Your Improvement Program in Your Home

Many women who fail to indulge in adequate hair and complexion care and figure molding, would do so if they had the time and the money to go to a wonderful beauty salon for treatment and instruction.

There is no doubt that such surroundings have great psychological value. The appointments are so beautiful, the soft pastels and the music are so relaxing, that one feels prettier just being there. The atmosphere convinces you that it will be easy to become lovely. You feel as though you are tucked away in a luxurious little cocoon, far from the tensions and obligations of everyday life, and you are, for a short time.

Lowman

Beguiling as this may be, do not let it discourage you from a self-improvement program at home. You can buy beauty with your own efforts. You can take the creams and other cosmetics home with you. You can eat the right foods at home, and you can exercise at home.

The creams will be just as effective when applied by you at home, and the exercises will be just as slimming. Massage is the only thing you cannot duplicate. A few stretching and deep breathing exercises at the end of your exercise period, followed by a warm relaxing bath will compensate for this somewhat.

I admit that it will not be as easy to keep the goal in mind, away from the luxurious surroundings and the encouragement of an instructor, but it is possible, no matter what your income, where you live, or how old you are. It will be much more difficult to carry out your routines with the stew cooking, the baby crying, the telephone ringing, and the many other interruptions you will have, but you can do it.

Actually, the essentials do not require a lot of time. The difficulty is keeping activated at home. Exercises will require only one-half hour, and hair and skin care take little time. They just have to be worked in as a regular part of your daily routine so that you do not skip them.

Try this deep breathing and stretching exercise. Stand erect with toes pointing forward and arms at sides. Rise high on the toes as you breathe in deeply. Exhale as you lower your heels to the floor and raise your arms up over your head, and touch the fingertips of the hands together above your head. Stretch upward. Breathe in deeply as you lower your arms to your sides and rise on your toes. Do this exercise slowly, taking time for the upward stretch and the deep breathing.

If you would like to have my free "Essential Daily Routine" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

PLASTIC HITS SANITATION SCENE

'Mod' Look in Garbage Disposal

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver's garbage collectors are praising the "mod look" in garbage wrapping.

During May the city sanitation department handed out large plastic bags to housewives in some areas of the city to test the reaction of the women and garbage collectors.

Garbagemen were almost unanimous in saying the use of the bags helped them keep cleaner and made the collecting faster.

Housewives were also impressed.

"It cuts down on the smell," one said. "I'm all in favor of continuing this as long as the sanitation department supplies the bags," another said.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

Dear Emily Wilkins

Short and Sweet

I'm very short and have small bones. People say I'm lucky to be petite. I always feel I look insignificant. How can I make the most of my appearance?

Grace C.

Make the most of your daintiness as many great beauties do. Do not disguise your lack of inches by huge built-up hairdos or skyscraper heels.

The main thing is to keep everything in proportion (easily assessed in a full-length mirror). Don't wear your skirts too short, either, or you'll be all leg, no girl.

Polish Policies

My nails are long and lovely ... but I really make a mess when I manicure them.

I know nail polish remover dries the cuticles, but what else can I do if my polish runs over! Is there any way to make my manicure look smooth and professional?

Janet McC.

You may be loading too much polish on your brush. Tap the brush lightly against the side of the bottle before applying. Redip after each nail.

Tilt your hand slightly downward, so that polish runs toward the tips, not the cuticles.

When you apply polish, use three long strokes on each nail: first cover the centre, then the sides.

If you err, immediately (before the polish dries) clean around the cuticle with a cotton-wrapped orangewood stick dipped in soapy water.

Access to Success

I'm so tired reading about all the exciting wonderful things people are doing all over the world that I'm discouraged about starting my own career.

Sometimes it seems that everybody else has been born lucky. What's the point of even trying, when it seems that all the odds are against you?

Jamie C.

There are days when practically everyone feels as you do. But rest assured, Jamie, that except for the lucky few who have had a "silver-spoon beginning," nobody wins laurels by luck alone.

My favorite saying is that success is usually the result of 10 per cent inspiration and 90 per cent perspiration.

Spare the Smear

How can I make sure my eye makeup doesn't smear or run? Sometimes I look as if I have a black eye.

Ellen F.

Eye makeup often looks hit-and-run when it's put on over oily eyelids.

First, coat lids lightly with powder to provide a good, dry foundation. You'll find that cake or liquid liners are less likely to "creep" around. When applying, hold your lid taut for a few seconds so that liner dries thoroughly.

Groom's Gift Accents Gown

A pearl necklace and earrings, gift of the groom, were worn by Linda May Barber when she became the bride of Gary Wayne Sinclair recently.

A street-length sheath dress in silk crepe was worn by the bride. Styled with an overlay of nylon net with scalloped detailing at the hemline, the dress featured wrist-length sleeves ending in lily points. A coronet of white satin petals held her tiny veil, and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Gordon Head United Church was the setting when the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Barber, 2929 Mount Baker View Road, and the son of Mrs. Helen Sinclair, 2886 Ilene Terrace, and Robert W. Sinclair, 634 Beaver Lake Road, exchanged wedding vows and rings. Yellow and white gladioli decorated the church for the service conducted by Rev. L. Wallwork, and Mr. Barber gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's only attendant, Mrs. Linda Monteski, chose a dress of pale blue crystal charm, styled with a fitted bodice and overblouse and sleeves of lace. Her whimsey headpiece was en tone with the outfit, and she carried white carnations centred with yellow roses.

Acting as best man was Tom Monteski, and David Dand ushered the guests.

John W. Cox proposed the toast to the bride at the reception following in the home of the bride's parents, where arrangements of pink roses with silver candelabra centred the head table.

A two-piece suit in a coral shade was the choice of the new Mrs. Sinclair for travelling on honeymoon to Parksville. White accessories and a white gardenia corsage completed the ensemble.

When they return, the newlyweds will make their home at 2310 Lee Avenue.

Travelling from Vancouver for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Barber, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Duff and family.

A Beauty Hint

Margaret Merril advises that it is quite simple for every woman to promote an English countryside complexion. Her hint to gain a peaches-and-cream loveliness is to damp a cloth with cold water from your refrigerator and press it over your face for a few minutes once or twice a day. Then, to hold the good of the complexion-beautifying cold water, smooth on tropical oil of Olay. This oil is rather scarce and expensive, but your drug store should be able to get you a supply.

Minks' Population Explosion Means More Coats for Milady

By KARIN MOSER

MONTREAL (CP) — Thanks to recent promiscuous behavior of Canadian minks, women this summer can buy luxurious coats at lower-than-ever prices.

"Ranchers have so many minks available," says Morris Reller, a fur expert for more than 41 years, "that pastel minks in particular will cost about 25 per cent less than usual."

If a woman is planning to purchase a mink coat, summer is the best time to do it, advise the experts.

"Next year, prices will rise again because ranchers will have to spend a good deal of money in feeding and caring for the increased numbers of stock," says Mr. Reller.

But he warns women not to grab the first thing they see just because it has a low price tag.

Mr Reller, president of the Reller and Goodman Fur Co., together with his partner, Herman Goodman, runs the manufacturing house. He pointed out some of the essential things to look for when buying a fur.

"If you want a good quality mink make sure the coat or jacket or stole has been fashioned from Canadian minks. Canadian minks are by far the best on the market due to the climate and condition under which they are raised. European minks are inferior in quality when judged by Canadian standards."

And "stay away from a coat whose fur has a reddish tinge to it." This indicates a sub-standard fur which is probably several years old and has begun to turn in color.

"Next, make sure you are not paying for a coat in which a minimum number of furs have been used."

One way to check this point is to tape-measure the "sweep" of the coat. "Run the tape along the hemline of the coat. A full sweep will measure about 60 inches; a skimpy item will probably measure less than 50 inches."

A good mink coat will be lustrous in appearance and silky to the touch. Male skins are superior to female skins, even though male hairs are slightly coarser than female. The male stripes are farther apart than the female stripes.

"If you blow on the hairs of the mink, they will separate but return to their original position. If the hairs remain askew, the quality of animal skin is poor."

The Supreme Queen of Egyptian Temple No. 33, Daughters of the Nile, in Honolulu, Hawaii, will make her official visit to Victoria's Miriam Temple No. 2 this week. Mrs. Edith N. Miller will be honored with a banquet on Friday evening in the Strathcona Hotel and the ceremony of initiation will follow in St. Andrew's Kirk Hall, Courtney Street. Queen of Miriam Temple, Mrs. J. K. Hilliard, will preside at the ceremony. Special guests from Hawaii and other parts of the United States and Canada will also be attending.

CHANTILLY LACE ACCENTS

Delicate Chantilly lace formed the bodice of the gown of white silk sheer over taffeta worn by Dianne Sharron Le Masurier, recently, when she became the bride of Douglas Bainbridge.

The lace was repeated in broad bands which edged the full train extending from an overdress of silk. Lace also formed the lily point sleeves of the bodice. Her veil misted from a matching headpiece and she carried a bouquet of red roses, white heather and stephanotis.

White gladioli decorated Fairfield United Church when Rev. A. G. Atkins heard vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Le Masurier, 1611 Chandler Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bainbridge, 4129 Tuxedo Drive. Mr. Le Masurier gave his daughter in marriage. Pews were decorated with gladioli and pale green ribbon, made by the groom's sister, Miss Pat Bainbridge.

Empire-line gowns of flowered silk chiffon over taffeta in tones of green, pink and yellow were worn by maid of honor Miss Lynn Small and bridesmaids the Misses Pat Bainbridge, the groom's sister; Beth Thorton and Ann Stanbridge. They carried crescent bouquets of pink carnations and heather.

Erie Heater was best man and ushering the guests were the bride's brother Wayne Le Masurier, Darrel Cairns and Jack Magi.

A tiered pink and white wedding cake centred the head table at the reception following in Holyrood House. Red roses and white gladioli completed the table decor. Len Carlton proposed the toast to the bride and the groom's sister, Dianne Bainbridge, was in charge of the guest book.

For travelling on honeymoon to California, the new Mrs. Bainbridge donned a suit of rose wool crepe which she complemented with a floral printed turban, and black accessories. She chose pink roses en corsage to complete the outfit.

MS Patients Entertained At Gala Party

The grounds of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lloyd Morgan's home on Pemberton Road was the attractive setting Saturday for the annual garden party of Victoria and Vancouver Island Multiple Sclerosis Society. This is the 16th year the Morgans have provided their home for the party.

More than 100 MS patients, their families and friends gathered for the gala event. Music for the afternoon was by the band of the 5th (British Columbia) Field Battery, Royal Regiment of Canadian Artillery, by permission of Maj. Arthur E. Sherwin, officer commanding. The band was directed by Warrant Officer E. G. Marsh.

James K. Nesbitt was master of ceremonies and Fred Dunget led community singing.

In charge of refreshments were members of the MS Golden Key Auxiliary, led by Mrs. Lorna Millard. Giving the vote of thanks for the afternoon was the Society president, W. H. Phillips.

DEAR ABBY . . .

A 'Secret Lover' Just Fantasy

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am married and have children, but if you print this, please don't say how many. I can honestly say that when it comes to being a wife and mother, I'm one of the best. My husband is sweet, loving, and devoted. What more could a wife ask for?

Well, for the last three years I have had a secret desire for another man. My husband has no idea that such a thought would ever enter my head, and if he knew he'd die.

The other man doesn't know how I feel about him. I see him all the time and the thrill I get out of just looking at him is indecent. (He manages the supermarket where I trade.) He's married and has a family, too, so nothing could ever come of this, but I can't help how I feel about him.

I can't tell anyone else about this as the Good Book says that to lust after someone is the same as committing adultery. I feel so ashamed and tormented, Abby. Is something wrong with me?

SECRET LOVE.

DEAR SECRET: There is nothing "wrong" with you that isn't wrong with the rest of humanity. You are indulging in fantasy, which is normal. And it's harmless. The guilt feelings over your day dreams are doing you more harm than the day dreams. Now, go scrub the kitchen floor and take a cold shower. You'll feel better.

DEAR ABBY: At 19 I married without my parents' consent. My husband and I then moved to another province.

At first my mother wrote to me, addressing the letters to Mary Smith, which was my maiden name.

I kept returning those letters unopened, marked "No such person here."

Finally she compromised and started addressing my letters to Mary Jones (Jones is my husband's name). Those I accepted and read, but a year has passed and she still refuses to address me as "Mrs."

This may strike you as being a trivial matter, but it is very important to me. What do you make of this?

MRS. ROBERT JONES.

DEAR MRS. JONES: Your mother is determined to remind you that she hasn't yet recognized your marriage, which doesn't make you any less married. Ignore it.

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to the woman who had a baby out of wedlock, had her maiden name on the baby's birth certificate, and later had the name changed (for only 50 cents) to her husband's name, should be clarified:

I am the mother of a child born out of wedlock. I later married the baby's father, making the child legitimate. The only thing we had to do was where my husband swore under oath that he was the father of my child. We paid 50 cents to correct the record and we didn't have to go through any adoption proceedings.

A friend of mine had a child born out of wedlock. She later married a man who was not the baby's father. She called the probate court and was told they would have to file a petition for adoption and go through the regular procedure.

I can't speak for other places, but that's the way it is in Worcester county. Thank you.

SATISFIED MOTHER.

FRENCH WRITER BACKS 'INTERFERENCE'

'Better Than Bombing'

PARIS (Reuters)—A prominent supporter of President de Gaulle, Baron Emmanuel d'Astier de la Vigerie, told a French television audience Tuesday night he prefers de Gaulle's style of interference in Canada to that of American bombs in Vietnam.

He prefers the interference "of French thought," he said. D'Asiter, a writer and commentator, referred, in his regular weekly 15-minute television talk to de Gaulle's cry of "Long live free Quebec" in Montreal last month.

D'Astier said the word "interference" was used and added: "Yes, I believe that Gen. de Gaulle did carry out an interference. But I prefer that of French thought to that of American bombs in Vietnam."

Italy Debates Quitting NATO

Membership in Alliance Becomes Election Issue

ROME (AP)—Italy's membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is developing into a major issue for the national election next spring.

The Communist party, the largest in the West, has warned Premier Aldo Moro's centre-left government that is seeking a showdown over whether Italy should quit the alliance in 1969, when the pact is 20 years old.

Some leaders of the Socialist-Christian Democratic coalition fired away at the Communists during the weekend, saying it would be "unthinkable" for Italy to invoke the treaty clause permitting a member of the alliance to break away then.

But a sizeable number of Socialists and even a few of the traditionally pro-Western Christian Democrats are calling for a re-evaluation of NATO policy and programs.

WOULD WANT CHANGE

A hard struggle over the issue would have profound effects on the centre-left government in power since 1963. Observers believe many politicians will be reluctant to see NATO continue after 1969 without significant changes in the organization's character and purpose.

There are two big dangers to the coalition:

—A bitter split in the Socialist ranks during the election campaign.

—A serious dispute in the next centre-left government that is almost sure to result from the vote.

Playing on these possibilities and appealing to coalition members who oppose the government's support of NATO, the Communist party newspaper L'Unita says in a front-page editorial: "The currents of thinking asking for the denunciation of a mechanism NATO that renders the U.S. 6th Fleet the arbiter of the politico-military situation in our seas have become gigantic.

"The political battle is destined to be opened and extended." L'Unita exhorts Socialists "who do not consider the old socialist principle of neutralism" lost to fight against the government's pro-NATO policy.

CALLS FOR DEBATE

The Socialist party's deputy secretary, Giacomo Brodolini, called Tuesday for a debate on NATO's "transformation and readjustment" in an age when the cold war no longer dominates European affairs.

Even Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani, a staunch member of Premier Moro's Christian Democratic party, has been talking of changes in NATO's role. He wants the organization to become an instrument to help close the technological gap between Western Europe and North America.

A deep rift among the Socialists before the national elections—the first such vote since the merger of Socialist militants and moderates last October—would automatically mean trouble for the government coalition, particularly if the Communists gain votes.

This could lead to a new Italian policy demanding a change in NATO's predominantly military emphasis or create enough dissension within the coalition to produce a prolonged crisis.

RUSSIAN Minister of Culture, Ekaterina Furtseva, now on a visit to Canada, said there is nothing surprising in a woman holding her position. She said she has no special training for the job but the education available to all Russians gives her enough background for it.

TOUGH WOMAN PUBLISHER REJECTS PROMISES

Hopes Dim for Greek Press Freedom

ATHENS (UPI) — Hopes have dimmed that freedom of the press, suspended since the Greek army takeover April 21, will be restored soon.

Two prime figures in the present impasse are a tough army officer, Interior Minister Brig. Gen. Sylianos Pattakos, and an equally tough woman publisher, Mrs. Helen Vlachou.

Mrs. Vlachou, whose two daily newspapers and weekly magazine made her one of the leading Greek publishers, voluntarily closed shop after the army takeover on grounds that restrictions on the press made it impossible for her to carry on.

The situation showed signs of easing two weeks ago when her chief editorial writer, Theofylaktos Papakonstantinou, agreed to take on the job of government press undersecretary. In his first statement, he promised the rapid restoration of press freedom.

However, informed sources said the regime decided to end its rigid press censorship only if Mrs. Vlachou agrees to resume publishing.

Mrs. Vlachou this week informed the government she would not go back to work until a new press law is enacted and she is satisfied that it provides real press freedom.

Observers doubt the army junta will ever accept Mrs. Vlachou's conditions. Nor do they expect any backing down by a woman whose father once closed his paper as a protest against Adolf Hitler in World War II.

The situation is complicated by the apparent opposition among some junta members to any easing of press restrictions. Some operating publishers also favor temporary continuation of censorship over what they fear will be a stiff new press law.

Some argue that a new press law may make them responsible for what the regime considers subversive reports. They run little risk of prosecution now being offending dispatches and commentaries are eliminated by the censors before publication.

Some publishers also are enjoying increased circulation without competition from the popular Vlachou papers.

Meanwhile, the Union of Journalists won a victory this week by re-electing its old executive committee in the first free trade union elections since the coup.

In other trade and professional unions the government has been dismissing elected officials and replacing them with its own appointees.

BIG MAJORITY

The executive committee of the journalists union, which had resigned last month to protest government abolition of their annual fund-raising lottery, was re-elected under President Lakis Petromaniatis, who won a ninety per cent majority.

The committee pledged itself to restoration of press freedom, the ending of censorship—and restoration of the lottery to continue financing of its health, pension and housing plans.

Possibly to lessen chances of government interference in its affairs, the union executive committee shortly before the elections dismissed about 30 journalists working for pro-Communist publications or known as members of the underground Communist party or its now-outlawed front, the United Democratic Left (EDA).

IWA Backs Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—International Woodworkers of America said Tuesday tabulation of votes by northern and southern members of the IWA indicated 97 per cent of the workers favor striking to back wage demands.

LSD, Marijuana Users Lose Driving Permits

By CARL BERNSTEIN
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The District of Columbia department of motor vehicles has indefinitely suspended the driving permits of 12 district motorists it says are users of psychedelic drugs.

The action, taken on the basis of information supplied by the narcotics squad of the metropolitan Washington police department, was ordered despite the fact that none of the 12 drivers has ever been convicted of drug charges.

"We regularly get reports from the narcotics division on people who use drugs and who could be dangerous drivers," said George England, district director of motor vehicles. "Certainly if someone was under the influence of—what do you call them—those psychedelic drugs and whatnot, he would be considered dangerous."

Under district law, the department may suspend or revoke the licence of any motorist whose physical condition it regards as dangerous to life or property. The law has been used previously to revoke licences of alleged narcotics users.

The suspensions for alleged use of such drugs as LSD and marijuana, England said, were initiated four months ago. The 12 who have lost their driving privileges for drug use were granted hearings by the department of motor vehicles. Mary Silver, the department's chief of permit control, said such persons who want to keep their licences must present physician's affidavits that they do not use psychedelic drugs. The burden of proof "lies with the motorist," she said.

Art Swindle Ring Smashed by Police

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal fraud squad detectives said Tuesday they have smashed an art swindle ring that has tormented European art dealers since 1966.

More than half of an estimated 1,200 oil paintings, purchased in Europe with worthless cheques and flown here, were recovered in a series of police raids on private homes, art stores and restaurants Monday and Tuesday.

Police said 448 were seized Monday and another 178 Tuesday. More were expected to be located shortly.

Det.-Sgt. Henryk Nowak of the fraud squad said there is no question of the paintings being forgeries.

"They're genuine, but of mediocre quality. The thing about them is that they were obtained by crime and sold under false pretences. We've been working on the advice of Interpol."

He said the gang had paid for the paintings, mostly obtained from dealers in Italy, Holland and Germany, with worthless cheques and forged bank drafts to the amount of $30,000. They had planned to sell the paintings for 10 times their value in Canada.

Sgt. Nowak said there were three principals in the gang.

"One of them, the ringleader, is serving two years in a jail in Sweden.

"The other two are at our disposal here in Montreal. That's the best way I can put it.

"We know who they are, but we're not planning any immediate arrests."

Sgt. Nowak said the paintings were flown into Montreal as a regular cargo consignment and cleared through customs.

"We believe most of the paintings are in the Montreal area and hope to trace more shortly, but a number may have been disposed of across the country by pedlars."

Son Trading Proposal Balloons

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—An effort to trade their 14-year-old son for another teenager has ballooned into a countrywide youth exchange program for Mr. and Mrs. Jules Williams of East Lansing.

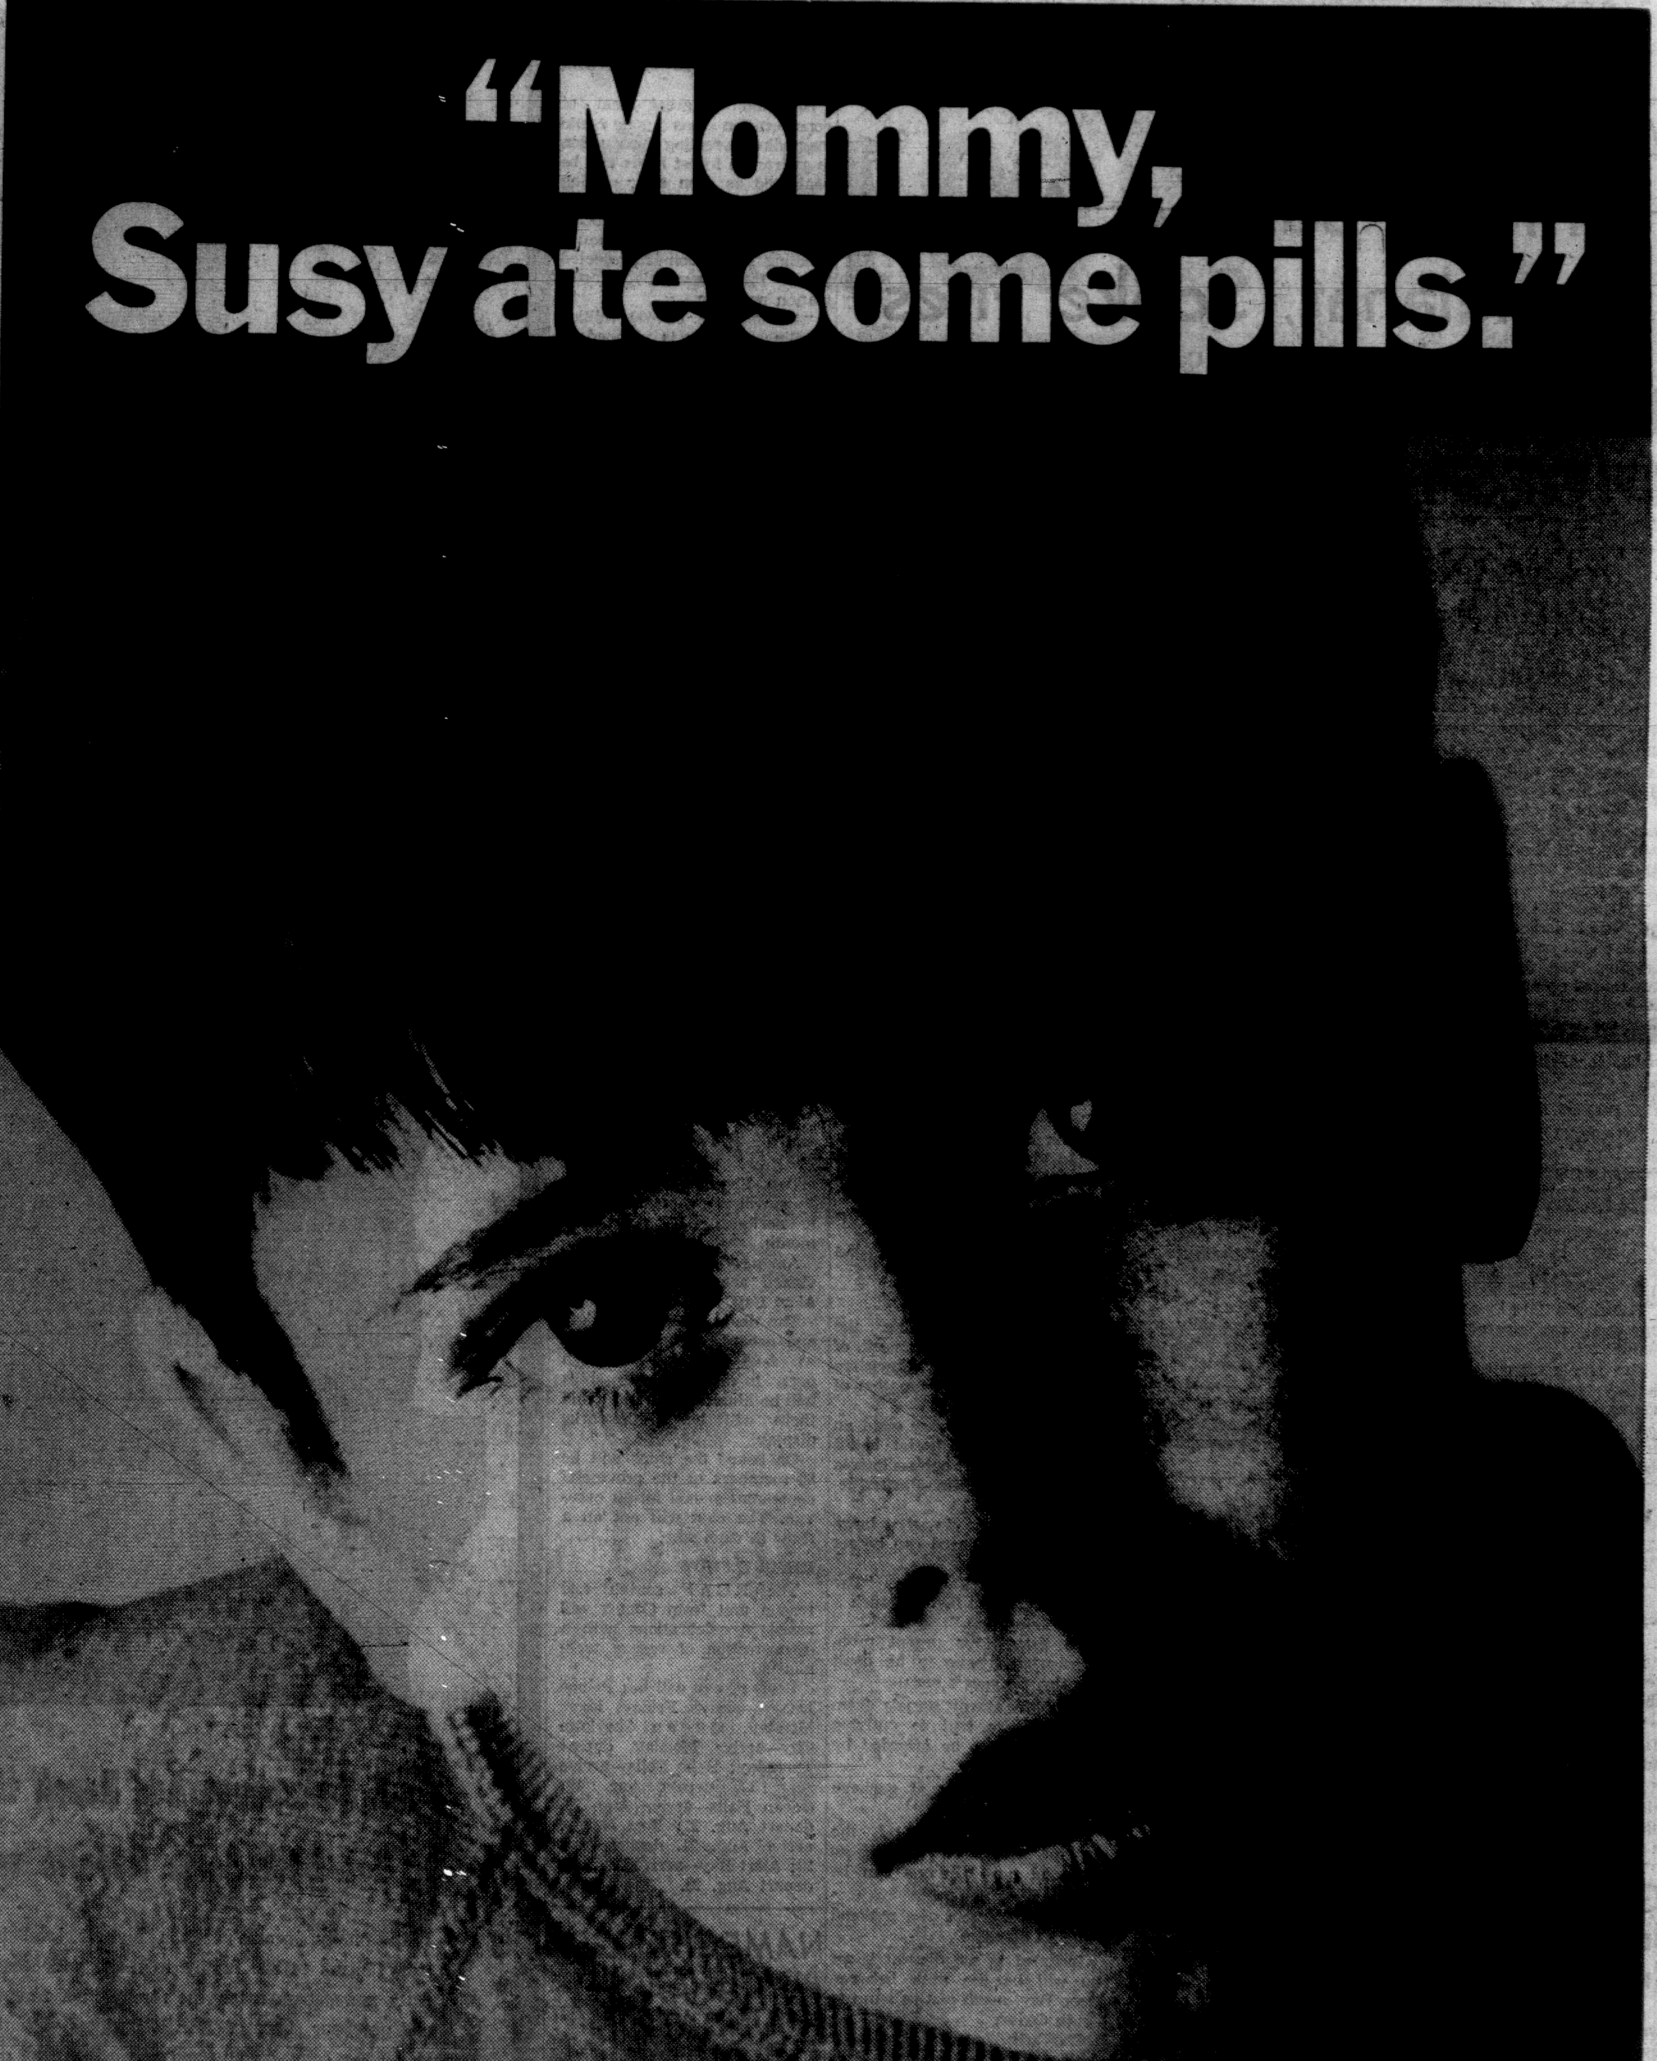
It wasn't planned that way. Mr. and Mrs. Williams merely placed a small ad in the Humanist magazine offering to swap their son Brian for another family's teen-age son or daughter for a year.

In the last week, the family has been flooded with replies to the ad. There were so many the parents decided to start a clearing agency, the American Youth Exchange, to arrange similar trades for other teenagers and their families.

"We weren't trying to get rid of Brian," said Mrs. Williams. "He's not rowdy or dissatisfied.

"He's come to take this community's advantages for granted. Having him live with another family in another community will help him become aware of the opportunities available."

Brian, a bright, six-footer who considers East Lansing "a drag," is "very enthusiastic" about being traded, said his father. Tentative arrangements for a trade have been made with a family in California.



"Mommy, Susy ate some pills."

It can't happen to you.

It can happen to someone in the newspapers, someone on TV. It can even happen to the family right across the street. But to you? Never.

Last year, in B.C. alone, it happened to over two thousand parents who said it couldn't happen to them.

Somehow their children were accidentally poisoned.

Medicines are supposed to save lives, not take them. That's why the prescriptions you receive from your Cunningham dispensaries come in special safety vials.

They're childproof.

As a matter of fact, unless you're an adult and know the combination, you can't open one either. But it's quick and simple once you know how. All it takes is some firm palm pressure on the lid, and a twist to the left. It's easy for you, but not for your child. So dangerous drugs stay locked inside. Out of harm's way.

But remember. Most accidental poisonings still occur not because the child was able to open a poison container but because it was left within his reach in the first place. Please. Store your drugs, cleaning fluids and other household chemicals where your children can't get their hands on them. And just in case, jot down the number of the Poison Control Centre near you: in Vancouver it's 876-3211, in Victoria 386-3131.

You can take the first step towards preventing an accidental poisoning in your home right here and now. Say this out loud to yourself:

"It can happen to me."

Our safety vials will save lives, but we need your help.

Do it for us.

Because we want your children to live.

Because we care.

AT CUNNINGHAMS
WE CARE

INSPECTION of tomorrow's forests was made Tuesday by Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston. He officially opened the new seedling nursery at Koksilah. Here he is shown some of the first seedlings by forester Alf Bamfield.

WOOD BONANZA ON HORIZON

KOKSILAH—The value of forest products in British Columbia will double in the next 10 to 15 years, a confident Ray Williston predicted Tuesday.

The lands and forests minister told an official gathering at opening of a new forest nursery here that forest products last year were worth more than $1 billion.

"It took us the last 100 years to build up our forest products value to that point," he said.

"I would like to predict that we will double this value in the next 10 to 15 years."

With this growth in demand will come the need for greater reforestration.

MAJOR ROLE

Said Mr. Williston: "The Koksilah nursery will be one of the major contributors of seedling production in the present and the future."

He said a great deal of consideration has gone into expanding seedling production to guarantee forest lands can be replanted as soon after cutting as possible.

"During the next 10 to 12 years a 135 per cent buildup in seedling production is projected in the forest service's reforestration program.

"An increase of 400 million seedlings a year is planned to bring annual productive capacity of forest service nurseries up from the present 32 million seedlings to 75 million by 1975.

GREATER DEMAND

Even this ambitious scheme may need revision as some forecasts indicate a still greater increase in world demand for wood products, and British Columbia can be expected to supply a major portion of this increase."

He said nearly 90 per cent of the expanded seedling production will come from four major nurseries, of which the Duncan complex, including Koksilah, will be biggest contributor.

The minister added: "It is our intention to develop additional nurseries on the coast as well as in the interior.

'MORE THAN COINCIDENCE'

Officials Suspect Arson In Malahat, Sooke Fires

The British Columbia Forest Service thinks an arsonist started two pairs of bush fires near here in the past few days.

An investigator may be brought in from Vancouver to collect evidence on recent blazes in the Malahat and Sooke areas, a departmental spokesman said Tuesday night.

"Their timing and proximity are more than a coincidence," he said. "All indications are that someone is setting them."

The latest outbreak saw two fires burn 10 acres and a quarter acre respectively Monday afternoon near Glintz Lake in the Sooke district.

A dozen water bomber "drops", four bulldozers, four tank trucks and 26 men were used in putting out the blazes.

Last Friday a pair of fires caused almost as much damage on the Malahat, requiring water bomber drops, bulldozers and a ground crew to suppress them.

Meanwhile, cooler weather has enabled the department to lift part of its southern British Columbia ban on campfires.

The prohibition was rescinded in the Kamloops Forest District.

The campfire ban, instituted Friday, remains in effect in the Vancouver Forest District—which includes all of Vancouver Island the Gulf Islands—and Nelson Forest District.

ISLAND DIGEST

WOMAN DRIVER BLAMED

PORT ALBERNI — Car driver Mrs. Sandra Vissia was blamed by a coroner's jury Tuesday for the death of Marlene MacDonald July 20.

Evidence given at the inquest indicated Mrs. Vissia turned left into the path of a motorcycle on which Miss MacDonald was a passenger.

Constable Bill Pitcher said the left hand indicator and the brake lights on the car was not working. The driver's window was wound up at the time.

He said Mrs. Vissia told him after the accident that she had pumped the brakes and didn't realize the lights weren't working.

ALL BONES BROKEN

Marlene, 19, died from fat embolism in the lugs and kidneys as a result of all the bones in her right leg, thigh and forearm being broken.

The youngster had to be taken to hospital in a delivery van as her leg was sticking almost at right angles to her body.

Motorcycle driver John Dumesnil was cleared of any blame.

The jury recommended compulsory car tests be made, adding: "The direct cause of the accident was the fact the driver of the car failed to indicate a left turn."

'WHITE ELEPHANT' FOR SALE

Nanaimo — Another attempt is being made to sell the old hospital building here.

The regional hospital board Tuesday sought permission to advertise the building for sale.

Described as a "white elephant" by engineers and planners, the hospital has been a millstone around the board's neck since it was replaced by the new hospital.

It is past renovation for hospital purposes and is too large for most other purposes.

To tear the building down would cost the board between $15,000 and $20,000.

A number of would-be buyers have turned down the chance after inspecting the rambling old building.

About its only asset is its situation on one of Nanaimo's highest hills.

Gasoline Washed Into Drains In Truck Upset

NANAIMO — Gasoline was washed into city drains Monday evening when a load of lumber slipped off a truck and ripped out a fire hydrant.

Ed Rockery was driving his flat-deck truck slowly—not more than five miles an hour, a witness said—when his load of cedar siding and plywood started to slip.

The load came to rest against a power pole which was undamaged, but the broken hydrant gushed water which washed the spilled gasoline on the troad, into a culvert and into drains.

City firemen were on the scene quickly.

Regional District Moves Made by Duncan, Nanaimo

Duncan and Nanaimo this week took steps towards forming regional districts.

At a closed council meeting Monday night, Duncan went on record as favoring a regional district to share sewage facilities with neighboring North Cowichan.

City clerk Gordon Berry said as soon as a regional district is formed it can be used to coordinate other utilities and community services.

'NO LIMIT'

"If it is economically worthwhile, there is no limit of the use of regional district.

"There will be untold benefits for the taxpayers, but we must have the full co-operation of the different communities concerned.

"A regional district could lead to a renewed vigor in planning the whole area.

"It will open a large field and I think it is obvious recreation would be one of the next important steps."

Reeve Donald Morton of North Cowichan welcomed the move.

"It is what I have advocated for some time.

TOO LONG?

"But I doubt whether the current need for sewers north of Duncan in North Cowichan could wait for the formation of a regional area."

At Nanaimo Tuesday night an interim regional district board was formed by representatives from the Nanaimo-Parksville-Qualicum area.

If ratepayers in the large area agree, a board can be set up.

Said Ald. Jack Parker: "The city has been in favor of such a move since 1965."

He listed four urgent problems whach have to be dealt with by the year's end:

- ● Fire alarm signals from the new fire hall to outlying districts cannot be afforded by some districts.
- ● Improvement of garbage collection.
- ● Discontinuation of the present transit system unless its financial problems can be solved.
- ● Appointment of a regional resident planner.

Included in the district if set up will be the area between Deep Bay, north of Qualicum to South Cedar.

The area has 40,000 persons with a combined assessment of $138 million.

The district would reduce expansion of individual utilities within separage areas, which could become a part of the larger area. This would cut out duplication.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One of the most hideous of tortures a player can inflict on his partner is to keep on repeating cue bids at him. Once in awhile an opponent is kind enough to help the victim by doubling. In that case the victim can pass and make the cue bidder get out of his own troubles. Today's case is taken from the 1964 summer nationals.

South chose to overcall with only one diamond on the theory that someone was going to bid and that he would get another chance.

Strangely enough everyone had found a bid by the time it got back to South. What's more, everyone had enough or almost enough to act.

This gave South his chance to go into cue bidding to correct his first underbid. West was kind enough to double the first cue bid and North was glad to pass. South wasn't dismayed in the slightest. He made a second cue bid. Again West was kind enough to double and again North was delighted to pass.

South could have cue bid again but he decided to give poor North a break. South jumped to six hearts. As South explained later on, "I clearly had shown seven diamonds and six hearts and it was up to North to go to seven diamonds with that king."

As North replied later, "I had bid one no-trump and that was as far as I intended to go."

It was just as well for South that North did pass. The 4-1 heart break would have led six diamonds to sure defeat. It might also have taken care of six hearts but South ruffed the spade lead and led a low heart toward dummy's jack and made the heart slam.

Strangely enough, most six diamond declarers went down when they led out the ace and king of hearts The safety play at six diamonds was to cash one high heart and then lead low.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Stephen

When ABC-TV's special two-hour color production of Robert Louis Stevenson's The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde hits the air next season it will have more than a touch of Canadian flavor.

The play, starring Jack Palance in the Jekyll-Hyde role, is being rehearsed and taped in Toronto.

Rhearsal began on Monday at CBC's Sumach Street rehearsal studios in Toronto. They will continue for three weeks followed by the taping.

The special is being produced by Dan Curtis Productions Ltd., New York through a co-production deal with the CBC. It will be shown on both ABC-TV and CBC-TV on dates still to be set.

Charles Jarrott, a former CBC-TV drama producer, returned from the United States and England to direct the drama.

Besides Palance in the title role, there will be some 250 actors including extras. Features and supporting roles will be played by such international names as Leo Genn, Sir Donald Wolfit, Oscar Homolka and Tessie O'Shea.

Canadian actors include Gillie Fenwick, Paul Harding, Elizabeth Cole and Chris Wiggins.

Following the three-week rehearsal period, exterior taping on a specially-constructed street-scene set in the St. Lawrence market area will be followed by the taping of interior scenes in CBC studios in late August and early September.

The production will then move to New York City for additional exterior sequences, to be video taped in Washington Square and Central Park.

TED BITS: Andy Griffith, Don Knotts and Juliet Prowse will star in a CBS-TV special next season.

Ben Gazzara, who has been running for his life the past several seasons, will sing and dance for a change on NBC's Jerry Lewis variety show Oct. 3. It will be his first TV attempt at the new departure.

New Rampage By Congolese Troops Charged

BUJUMBURA, Burundi (AP)—Some refugees arriving from the eastern Congo say white mercenaries and Katangan troops have occupied Bakuvu. But others report they pulled out of the provincial capital Monday and returning Congolese troops went on another rampage.

Refugees who fled to Burundi from Kivu province said hard fighting took place between Congolese troops defending Bukavu and a force of mercenaries and their Katangan allies. But on Monday the fighting subsided and the Congolese troops fled, the refugees said.

Another group of 90 refugees who escaped to Rwanda and arrived in Athens Tuesday said the mercenaries and Katangans putlled out of Bukavu Monday, leaving them at the mercy of vengeful Congolese troops.

INCLUDES NUNS

The group included plantation men, Greek merchants, nuns and priests. Their accounts were reminiscent of the reports of Congolese troops running wild in July took the city and then withdrew.

"I can't describe it, it's undescribable," said a weeping, 17-year-old Greek girl.

Another Greek refugee said about 15 mercenaries—mostly Belgians, Italians and Spaniards—entered Bukavu at 6 a.m. on Aug. 5, accompanied by 60 Katangans.

"We were working our shops," he said. "The mercenaries came and offered us guns and asked us to join them.

"We refused and two days later they left.

"A few hours after they departed the Congolese national army entered the city. They started looting and destroying everything.

"Everyone who was white was treated as if he was a mercenary."

One woman said groups of women and children have been sleeping on the floor of foreign consulates and hospitals for the last week waiting to go to the Rwanda republic.

POINTED GUNS

Another merchant said the Congolese soldiers "came to our houses with pointed guns and asked for clothes and money."

"Those who refused were beaten."

One European is reported to have offered the Congolese soldiers 1,000,000 Congolese francs to save his daughter from rape.

A merchant said the Congolese soldiers were fighting with civilians over the loot from European shops and houses.

A Belgian plantation owner said 12 persons had died in the Bukavu fighting—three mercenaries and nine civilians. Other refugees said 11 were killed.

The plantation owner said he and 25 other persons fled at night in five outboard motorboats, crossing Lake Kivu to Rwanda.

Mercenaries and Katangans rebelled aguinst the Congolese government early last month.

Vintage Gun Display Slated For August 27

Vintage guns dating back to the American War of Independence will be on display here Aug. 27.

The ancient arms will be shown at the Vancouver Island Arms Collectors Association's Centennial Gun Show in the Old Age Pensioners Number One Hall at Pandora and Government.

Guns and small military weapons of all types will be on display.

The association's president, Travers Custance, said the annual show, usually held in October, is being held in August this year to enable more tourists to attend.

"In the past there has been a tremendous interest in our collection," he said. "We would like to let more people in on it."

Mr. Custance personal collection of British and Canadian military weapons includes a 200-year-old British Brown Bess musket.

"I bought it five years ago for $85, but it's probably worth $150 now."

Special Event Field Trip To End Program

Between 50 and 60 youngsters from the Victoria playparks program went on a field trip to Thetis Lake Park today.

They hiked around the lake, had a picnic lunch and swim. This is the last special event planned in the six weeks program which ends Friday.

To wind up activities for the summer each of the 11 parks will hold a "crazy day" with fancy dress parades or contests at the end of the week.

Friday will also be the last day of the swimming program for the parks.

Saanich playparks culminate their program Wednesday with an open house from 2 to 8 p.m. at Beaver Lake Park. Articles made by the children in the crafts program will be displayed in booths. There will also be a fancy dress parade and prizes and award presentations for softball finals.

Speedway To Feature Pedal Racers

A pedal car race for youngsters will be held Saturday night at Western Speedway.

Eleven Colwood boys between 7 and 9 will stage the race with model Austins in front of the grandstand. The winner will receive a trophy.

The small cars are the property of the South Van Isle Lions Club and will be used in the fall as vehicles for teaching traffic safety to children.

A hardtop area next to the centennial pool at Colwood will be made soon.

The Lions are planning to mark out roads, with typical signs and hazards, where children can get a driver's-eye view of safety.

Businessmen will be asked to build replicas of their own stores to complete the small village-like area.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Dan Yensch, age 12, of Monroe, Michigan, for his question:

What kind of bird is the bittern?

The big brown bittern prefers a solitary life in swampy marsh regions. If you are there at the right season, you will hear his loud rusty voice cry pump-a-lunk, pump-a-lunk again and again. You may glimpse him as he flies low over the water, but chances are you will not get a close look at him.

The stately herons are wading birds and patient fishermen. The bittern is a member of the heron family, though he is not as slim or as colorful as some of his cousins. He is a big, chunky bird and his speckled brown plumage blends invisibly with the cattails and the reedy rushes of his marshy background. All the herons are very fussy about grooming and keep their graceful feathers glossy and spotlessly clean. The bittern is the fussiest of them all. He spends an hour or more preening his plumage after every meal.

The body of a big bittern may be almost a yard long and his wings are wide and strong. He flies with his thin legs held straight behind, his neck tucked under his chin and his sharp beak pointing the way ahead. The plumage of his back is speckled and freckled with chestnut and chocolate brown and dotted with black. His undersides are creamy buff and striped with tan. His subtle color scheme blends with the tufts of shadowy marsh plants that grow knee deep in the water.

This is where the bittern spends most of his time, standing with his greenish-yellow legs in the swampy water. He waits patiently for hours, stiff and still, with his bright eyes watching for passing fish, frogs and dragonflies. Then he darts his sharp beak and gobbles down a snack, alive and kicking. Marsh water tends to be muddy and oozy dribbles may soil his glossy plumage. So after dinner, the bittern cleans himself.

The well-groomed bird has a built-in pocket of oily cleanser and a built-in pocket of dusting powder. The oil is secreted by special glands at the base of his tail. The powder is gathered from patches of down feathers on his breast. One of his toes is toothed for use as a comb. The fussy fellow twists and turns his long neck to peck a dip of oil and a dab of powder again and again. After an hour or so of this grooming, every feather is thoroughly cleaned and combed, preened and polished from end to end.

Separate Lives

Parent bitterns live separate lives until nesting time. Then the pair gather roots and grasses to build a big shaggy nest on the ground. It may be in a wet, weedy meadow or at the very brink of reedy swampland. The big, buffed-toned eggs are two inches long and their nest may hold five of them. By summer's end, the young bitterns are grown and their wings are strong enough to take them on a thousand mile flight to their winter quarters.

Come fall, the big brown herons spread their wide wings and start south from the marshy patches north of the prairies, from the reedy rivers and secret swampy pockets among the western mountains from the Great Lakes and from the countless lakes and rivers of Canada. Most of them winter along the Gulf Coast and throughout Florida.

Some visit the Carolina shoreline and some go west to the coastal mountains of California. In early spring, the bitterns start north, spread out through their wide summer range and rear their young.

Andy sends a 14" World Book Globe to Sharon Morris, age 9, of Williamsport, Pennsylvania, for her question:

Why does red blood look blue inside our veins?

Inside your body, your blood flows through a branching network of tubes and tunnels. Around and around it goes on trips to visit the lungs and the heart and back on another round trip again and again. On the way it does a lot of busy work to keep the body going. It gathers a load of fresh oxygen from the lungs and delivers it to the busy cells. And this work causes the blood to change its color.

Oxygen causes the blood to blush with rosy red. When it delivers its oxygen, its color changes to bluish purple. You can see this bluish blood in your veins, dimly through your skin. Now suppose you cut or wound the skin. Some of the blood oozes out into the air. And in the air it grabs a fresh supply of oxygen — and this oxygen turns it red. Blue blood from a wound grabs oxygen from the air so fast that it changes color at once. We do not get a chance to see the blue color it had inside your veins.

Emphysema Linked To Smoking

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Half a century ago, when I was a young man in medicine, emphysema — an injury to the tiny air-spaces in the lungs — was a rare disease which we seldom saw, even at autopsies. I just read that the New York City Health Department recently reported that in the last 15 years deaths from chronic bronchitis with emphysema have increased by 700 per cent!

Alvarez

The impression of most writers is that this is due to the tremendous increase in recent years in the number of people who smoke an excessive number of cigarettes. I read that in 9 of 10 cases, the person is a heavy smoker. Usually he is a man who, around the age of 50, developed a cough, and a distressing shortness of breath.

* * *

A committee of the American Medical Association is now studying the problem, and the doctors say that although dust can have an influence in producing emphysema, it has been "amply demonstrated that large populations of men can be exposed for many years in the dusty trades without developing the disease." Also, it must be admitted, there are a few men with emphysema who never smoked.

Recently, studies published by the American Cancer Society, showed that animals that every day for 60 weeks are made to breathe tobacco smoke that is blown through their cages, will begin to develop emphysema. No changes were found in the lungs of 10 "control dogs" — animals kept in nearby cages, free from cigarette smoke. This experiment tends to confirm that impression gained from many studies of emphysema in man.

* * *

Another bit of evidence that suggests that emphysema can often be due to tobacco is that in the U.S., in 1945, there were only 2,300 deaths from bronchitis and emphysema. In 1964, there were 20,208 deaths, which is a nearly nine-fold increase. Among the 20,208 only 3,154 were women.

A while ago I told in my booklet on emphysema of the splendid work done on this disease by Dr. Alvan L. Barach, "Lung Station," 72 E. 91st St., New York, N.Y. 10028. He has many of his patients use tiny containers full of oxygen, that can be carried in a pocket. The gas can be breathed when the person is too short of breath to walk. Walking is good because exercise strengthens not only the man's legs, but also his midriff and his lungs, so that they can work better.

AT GALLERY

Something For Everyone

ACTRESS Yvette Mimieux, who was discovered 10 years ago while horseback riding in the Hollywood Hills, has completed work in the "Desperate Hours," a television adaptation of Joseph Hayes' novel for the American Broadcasting Company.

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Vested interest, if nothing else, should incite the average Victorian—unless he possesses art-negative blood—to visit the Victoria Art Gallery between now and September.

This is the season of the year when selections from the permanent collection are on display throughout the five individual galleries.

If you have any desire, therefore, to get acquainted with art objects and paintings that belong to the gallery, the city and you as a citizen, the opportunity is there for the next four weeks.

This showing represents, as assistant curator Will Hoare reminded me when I visited the gallery this week, only one-sixth of the whole permanent collection.

But it is nevertheless, impressive, and it does have a diversity that should mean pleasure and interest for everyone, regardless of his artistic viewpoint.

NEW IDEAS

Anyone, for example, who enjoys the challenge of new ideas, who likes to explore, who doesn't seek instant recognition in art, will find himself drawn back to the Canadian collection after touring all the galleries, there to spend the major portion of his time.

It is possible to be fascinated by a work without craving to own an example of the particular style.

I kept going back for another look at Brian Fisher's Maya No. 4, intrigued by the clean, delicate geometry and perspectival possibilities of the lineal design.

MOODY PAINTINGS

As many contemporary West Coast artists as possible are included in the show. Relationship of the artist and his environment and individuality of his reaction is clear in such moody paintings as John Korner's Coast Glitter, Siebner's Burden and Gordon Smith's Coast Range.

For the delight of the traditionalist, there is a whole room full of handsome 19th century oil paintings, besides such 17th century social paintings as Molenaer's Twelfth Night in the Klaverwyden Bequest. This exhibit shares the Ker Wing with some exquisite woodcut prints from the oriental collection.

The Klaverwyden showing also includes the sensitive and characterful brush and crayon drawings from the sketchbook which has been tentatively attributed to Goya.

DELICATE BEAUTY

Speaking purely personally, I found it impossible to avoid spending the rest of my morning studying the delicate beauty and subtle use of color in the series of prints that illustrate the dramatic Japanese legend of the 47 Ronin.

But there was also a two-color woodcut—Mountain Moor—by D. E. Alexander, amongst a display of Canadian and European prints and watercolors in the Spencer and Kearley galleries that roused all my possessive instincts.

Naturally every visitor to the Permanent Collection will come away remembering something, reacting differently, to the way anyone else has done.

But pride of possession, the knowledge that so many interesting and beautiful things—the show includes a few pieces of sculpture and porcelain—have found a public residence in this city, should be the dominant feeling for Victoria viewers.

Bare Bottoms Film Theme For Peace

By IAN McEWAN

LONDON (Reuters)—An avant-garde Japanese film-maker started from the bottom Tuesday night in her new campaign for world peace.

Three-hundred and sixty-five bare backsides were the only performers to appear in an 80-minute feature film called No. 4 which had its world premiere Tuesday night.

Film-maker Yoko Ono, a young artist from Tokyo, told an opening-night audience consisting mostly of hippies and "flower people" she hopes the movie would advance the cause of world peace.

"It's a very peaceful film with no violence," she said.

"People don't expose themselves naked if they think their enemies are about to attack them."

PREFERS BOTTOMS

Miss Ono chose to film bottoms because she thinks they are the most beautiful part of the human body.

Along with the bottoms—all shot walking away from the camera—was a sound track in which the owners told what they thought of having their backsides filmed.

Most London critics reacted with a barrage of yawns and said the film produced only boredom.

"When you've seen one bottom you've seen them all," was a typical comment.

But Miss Ono's American husband, Anthony Cox, who helped direct the movie, said: "If we get any reaction at all we are satisfied. Boredom is better than death or war."

Miss Ono said: "My film depicts a relaxed and peaceful world."

The British board of film censors refused to give the picture a certificate of approval, but the Greater London council permitted it to be shown to adult audiences in the capital.

Bum's Rush Given Actor Robert Wagner

By BORIS MISKEW

MONTREAL (CP)—Robert Wagner, the Hollywood movie star, winds up three days of movie-making at Expo today none the worse for the bum's rush he had been given at one of the theme pavilions at the world's fair.

Mr. Wagner, starring with Austrian-born Senta Berger in the two-hour feature film The Crooked Man, took it all in stride when an official of the pavilion of Man the Producer ordered him and his cohorts out of the structure Monday afternoon.

The movie star and Miss Berger were filming a 15-minute sequence using the fair as a backdrop to the U.S. film by writer-director Leslie Stevens when the incident occurred.

The film is scheduled for the next television season on the American Broadcasting Co. network and later will be released for general theatrical distribution.

BIG CHALLENGE

The star of the spy-thriller ran into his biggest challenge of the Expo sequence when Christian Sicard, floor manager at the pavilion and a former major in the French army, failed to recognize him during the filming of a scene at Man the Producer.

The incident began when Mr. Sicard discovered that his staff of hostesses and guides was not in the right places shortly before the scheduled tour of the pavilion by Pierre Mebaley, who represented President Leon M'Ba of Gabon, following a Gabon day flag-raising ceremony at Expo.

Wondering what had happened to the pavilion staff, Mr. Sicard eventually found the lot clustered in a group at a section of the pavilion.

"Then I found out," he said, "they are making a movie. I told the kids to get back to their jobs. I asked what was going on."

"We're making a movie," Mr. Sicard was told.

"What do you mean?" he inquired.

NEEDS PERMIT

"Don't you know this is Robert Wagner?"

"Who is this Wagner?" insisted Mr. Sicard. "I don't know him. And besides, I don't have him marked down in my book. What is he doing here?

"If he wants to be making a movie here he has to have a permit from Mr. Hutchinson," said the pavilion official, referring to John Hutchinson, manager of the pavilion.

Mr. Sicard then explained that nothing must stand in the way of visitors to the pavilion—and promptly ordered the movie-makers out of the premises. "Nothing must interfere with the visiting public."

UNION STRIKES HOSPITAL

Enough Supplies For 24 Hours

Forty-eight hours' strike notice was posted today at Nanaimo General Hospital by the International Union of Operating Engineers.

After Friday morning, the engineers will be legally able to strike this hospital, said union international representative Ed Callan.

A total of 21 hospitals are involved in the current dispute, including the six major hospitals where strike notice was served last month.

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — The International Union of Operating Engineers started a strike today against the Royal Columbian Hospital in support of wage demands, and threatened to spread the walkout to five other British Columbia hospitals.

Two union members picketed the hospital, near the area where trucks dump fuel to fire boilers used in heating the big hospital. The union provides the five men that man the boilers.

Hospital officials said supervisory personnel were maintaining the hospital's heating system, but if existing fuel supplies are used at a normal rate, it will be gone in about 24 hours.

There was no indication this morning from the union or the hospitals when strike action will start at Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's.

But a union spokesman warned there will be "quick action" unless there is a sign of settlement in New Westminster.

A spokesman said a lack of heating facilities could seriously impair hospital efficiency.

CANCEL OPERATIONS

Doctors at the Royal Columbian have been asked to cancel all elective surgery and to discharge as many patients as possible. Dr. R. G. Foulkes, the hospital's medical superintendent said not many of the 403 patients there when the strike started have been able to leave.

The warning that the strike will spread came from Henry Berger, business manager of the union Local 882, which represents about 50 stationary engineers at the six hospitals.

He said the strike will soon include Vancouver General, Burnaby General and St. Paul's hospitals on the lower mainland if wage demands are not met.

The union has served strike notice on all the hospitals involved, but no date has been set for walkouts at the others.

The union demands parity between third-class engineers rates at all six hospitals, and has rejected a conciliation board report recommending a $20 a month higher rate at the two Victoria hospitals.

The engineers seek rates of $630 a month now and $670 a month next July. The conciliation board recommended rates of $620 and $660 a month respectively at the two Victoria hospitals, and $600 and $640 a month at the others.

Rates now are $560 a month at Royal Jubilee and $540 at the others.

CRANE OPERATOR LIVES AFTER 10-STOREY FALL

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A giant crane toppled 10 storeys from the top of an unfinished building into the rush-hour traffic of a downtown Tampa street today.

Four persons were injured, including crane operator Floyd Masterson, who rode the 150-foot-high vehicle on its long fall. He was reported in fair condition.

NEW DESIGNS are rising in the background over Thunderbird Park's totem poles as workmen install exterior walls to decorate both sides of the Centennial Museum under construction at Belleville and Government. Twenty pre-cast white concrete columns, 37 feet high, are being erected on each side, bearing grey aggregate panels with white diamond-shaped centres as the wall portions for the upper and lower balconies on the east and west sides. Glass will be fitted between the columns and panels to enclose the balconies. Those on the west will be furnished as lounges and those on the east will be corridors linking huge exhibit rooms.

Soviet Policy Rapped By Radical Latin Reds

HAVANA (Reuters)—The Latin American Solidarity Organization of Revolutionary Forces meeting here today approved a controversial resolution condemning Soviet economic and technical policy in the Western Hemisphere.

Approval came after hours of acrimonious discussion in a crisis session of one of the working commissions despite threats by traditionalist Communists to walk out of the conference if the motion was approved.

But when the motion was approved 15 to 3 with nine abstentions, the traditionalists did not immediately carry out their threat.

Observers saw the resolution as underlining the split between the old line revolutionaries who look towards Havana and the orthodox Moscow-oriented Communist parties of the hemisphere.

Observers consider the traditionalists, though they did not walk out, now will leave the Latin American Solidarity Organization once they return home.

The crisis came Tuesday night after Cuba and other hardline revolutionaries sponsored a resolution denouncing the policy of certain socialist countries which gave credits and technical aid to "dictatorships" and "oligarchies" in the hemisphere.

RUSSIA INTENDED

This was an unmistakable reference to the Soviet Union, Poland and other Communist nations which recently signed agreements with Colombia, Brazil, Chile and other Latin American countries.

Main support for the motion was expounded in a two-hour speech by Armando Hart, organizing secretary of the Cuban Communist party.

Sources said Cuba and Venezuela led the voting in favor of the motion. Uruguay, Costa Rica and El Salvador voted against.

Chile, whose delegation is divided between hard-line socialists and Communists, abstained.

'Bomber' Pilot Killed Fighting Forest Fire

TRAIL (CP) — The pilot was killed when an Avenger water bomber crashed and burned Tuesday while fighting a forest fire near this eastern British Columbia city.

Witnesses said the single-seater aircraft and two other water bombers were attempting to douse a fire touched off by lightning at Kelly creek south of Fruitvale, 240 air miles east of Vancouver.

The plane was owned by Skyways Air Services of Abbotsford.

Officials later indentified the pilot as Donald Hill of White Rock, 20 miles south of Vancouver.

The fire is in the Nelson forest district, a 30,000-square-mile area hit hard by fires this summer.

A 12,000-acre blaze that had raged out of control for a week was being contained Tuesday night, but there still were 94 fires burning in the district Many were started by lightning on the weekend.

The water bomber crash was the second in B.C. in less than a month.

Pilot Alex Davidson and spotter R. T. Moore were killed July 17 when their bomber crashed while fighting a blaze on Skirt Mountain near Victoria.

Four men were killed in the crash of a Martin mars water bomber in 1961 near Parksville on Vancouver Island. Another pilot was killed in 1960 while fighting a fire near Kelowna, in the Okanagan.

7,000 RED GUARDS ATTACK IN CANTON

HONG KONG (UPI) — The anti-Communist Hong Kong Times today quoted travellers as saying that 7,000 Red Guards clashed Monday afternoon in Canton and fought a 13-hour battle with knives, spears and guns that killed "many people." Canton is the largest city in southern China.

The published report said the battle raged until 4 a.m. Tuesday when Chinese troops moved in and sealed off an area near the Pearl Bridge in Canton's Honan district.

There was no confirmation of the reported bloodshed from official Chinese sources, but the British-owned South China Morning Post published here said its mainland contacts told of anarchy in Canton.

Bomb Rocks Ship Terminal

By JOHN KIRKWOOD
Times Asia Bureau

HONG KONG — A Communist terror bomb exploded today in Hong Kong's luxurious Ocean Terminal as it was crowded with tourists and local residents.

A young English woman was injured in the blast which rocked the building's main hall and sent scores of people dashing for safety.

This was the latest in a series of bomb outrages today which injured seven people as the Red terrorists mounted a hit and run campaign in the Kowloon Peninsula across the harbor from Hong Kong Island.

I was walking only about 20 yars waay when the home made bomb exploded at the information counter.

SHOPPING COMPLEX

The explosion was heard throughout the huge shopping and shipping complex, a cloud of smoke swirled through the main hall and the young English receptionist, identified as Jacqueline Turner, 21, working at the counter was hurled from her chair.

She was rushed to hospital suffering an injured leg and hand. Tourists and residents dining in an expensive restaurant on the terminal's upper deck scrambled from their tables to seek cover and others dashed from nearby shops to see what had happened.

IN CAMERA CASE

The bomb is believed to have been concealed in a camera case planted inside the counter. The blast ripped part of the counter away and debris was scattered across the floor.

Police immediately sealed off the area when another suspected bomb was found but British army ballistics experts found it was a fake.

The Ocean Terminal, one of the most modern in the world, is in the heart of Kowloon's Tsimshatsiu tourist and shopping area. A French passenger liner was tied up at the terminal when the bomb exploded.

MONGOLIAN DRAGGED AWAY

PRAGUE (Reuters)—Chinese teen-agers in Peking today set fire to the Mongolian ambassador's car, dragged the driver out and took him away, the Czechoslovak news agency Ceteka reported.

The driver, a Mongolian, was alone in the car which was parked outside a store for diplomats, the agency said.

After burning the vehicle, the teen-agers buried it under a heap of bricks.

'Riots Lack Support Of Peking'

HONG KONG (UPI)—A former Chinese Communist official who played a leading role in mapping anti-British riots sweeping the colony has defected to Nationalist China, it was disclosed today.

The former Red Chinese official, who suddenly popped up in Tapei, Formosa, told newsmen he believed the leftist riots on Hong Kong will gradually taper off because they do not have the full support of the Peking regime.

The disclosure of the defection came amid a new burst of terrorist bombings in the colony that injured at least seven persons, including the first European to be injured by a bomb since violence erupted three months ago in the aftermath of labor unrest.

Protest Targets Placed Off-Limit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John C. Stennis, D.—Miss., called today for "increased and expanded" bombing of North Vietnam to hasten the end of the war. House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said the attacks should be stepped up even at the risk of a wider war.

Opening Senate hearings on the effectiveness of the bombing as part of a broad, new Congressional debate over air was policy Stennis said either a bombing pause or restrictions on bombing could be "a tragic and perhaps fatal mistake."

Ford triggered a new flurry of controversy between "hawks" and "doves" with an attack on the administration for putting man targets off-limits. He was asked if he favored intensified bombimg even if at the risk of bringing China or Russia into the war.

"Yes, I would," he replied. Rep. John J. Rhodes, R—Ariz., chairman of the house GOP policy committee, commented at a joint news conference with Ford, "there's always a risk involved in war."

Stennis appeared to side with Ford who said no more troops should be sent to Vietnam until restrictions are removed from the bombimg. Stennis declined to bracket himself formally with Ford when reporters question him, but he commented that he felt the air war "should be enlarged."

'NO CHOICE'

He said he felt President Johnson has "no choice but to step up the bombing" and asserted: "The question is, shall we send more troops into Vietnam if we are not going to enlarge the bombimg. It's hard to see how we can commit more men to the ground war in South Vietnam without cutting off the supply lines flowing in from North Vietnam."

Stennis' senate military preparedness subcommittee is conducting the air war hearings — with reporters barred.

Adm. Ulysses G. Grant Sharp, commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific, was quoted as saying

South Africa Takes Lead Over Canada

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Canada's golf team was doing the chasing this afternoon in the singles matches with unbeaten South Africa in the Commonwealth tournament at Victoria Golf Club.

The Canadians, who drew the first-round bye Tuesday, were beaten 2 and 1 by South Africa in this morning's Scotch foursomes.

That means Canada needs to win four of the afternoon's six singles to defeat the Springboks.

Australia, beaten convincingly by South Africa on Tuesday, rebounded to chalk up a 2-1 edge over Britain in the other foursomes this morning.

Winner of each daily match is decided by the total number of points gained in foursomes and singles.

LONE VICTORY

Canada's lone foursomes victory was scored by Gary Cowan of Ontario and Alberta's Keith Alexander, who defeated David Symons and Comrie du Toit.

Canadians Nick Weslock and John Johnston were nipped 2 and 1 by Derek Kemp and High Biaocchio while Wayne Vollmer and Doug Silverberg lost 3 and 2 to the South African pair of John Fourie and Rodney Mullan.

Results of the Australia-Great Britain foursomes (Australian players named first):

Kevin Donohoe and Kevin Hartley defeated Ronnie Shade and Sandy Sadler 6 and 5; Dennis Bell and Victor Bulgin defeated Gordon Cosh and Rodney Foster 4 and 3; Phil Billings and Bill Britten lost 5 and 4 to Mike Bonallack and Dudley Millenstead.

Professionals Ignited Ghetto Fury

The Detroit race riot, how is was fomented and kept aflame, is explored in a four-part series beginning today on page 5 by the distinguished U.S. Negro journalist and author, Louis Lomax.

The first instalment tells how professional Negro revolutionairies stirred up the people of the ghetto and drove them to fury.

CN Trains Collide

Trafficker Jailed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 30-year-old man was sentenced today to 12 years in jail for possession of drugs for the purpose of trafficking. James Donald Kripps was arrested last January in Burnaby. He appeared in Vancouver county court.

Oil Workers 'Rebel' Against Pro-Maoists

TOKYO (Reuters)—Radio Moscow said today 13,000 Chinese workers led by high-ranking military leaders rebelled against Chairman Mao Tse-tung at Taching oilfield in Manchuria.

A Moscow broadcast monitored here said the workers launched an attack on Mao's followers on instructions from the Taching party leader.

The report did not say when the uprising began and gave no further details. It did not name the military leader of the rebellion.

Taching oilfield was discovered in 1960. The official Chinese press has boasted that it is one of the most advanced in the world, making China independent of foreign oil, but the site of the field has never been disclosed except that it is in the northeast.

RARE ATTACK NEAR OKANAGAN LAKE

Black Bear Mauls Girl to Death

VERNON (CP) — A black bear Tuesday attacked and killed a 10-year-old girl on the west bank of Okanagan Lake 25 miles from here.

Dead is Susan Duckitt, who was holidaying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Duckitt, and her brother and sister. The family is from the Fraser Valley community of Haney.

Susan had been picnicking with another girl, nine-year-old Jennifer McHugh of North Vancouver when the bear attacked.

"We had walked back up into the hills," Jennifer said. "We sat down after walking for about half an hour. We were looking down over the lake when we first saw the bear standing on its hind feet.

"We both started to scream nnd run down the hill to home. Susan was right behind me.

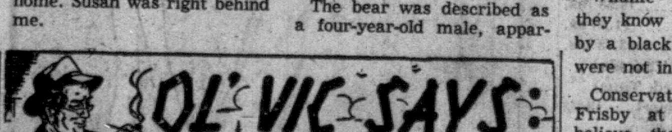
"I heard a funny scream and looked around but I didn't see anything."

The bear was described as a four-year-old male, apparently in good health and well fed.

Wildlife authorities said they know of no other attack by a black bear where cubs were not involved.

Conservation officer Alan Frisby at first refused to believe the girl had been killed by the male and set out with tracking dogs to try and find a female with cubs. But an examination of the bear, after it had been shot, proved it was the killer.

Gordon Hogue, of Edmonton, and others went to look for the girl. Six shots were fired by the searchers but just one, by Mr. Hogue, was needed to kill the bear.



We need hospital beds, but not hospital hotbeds.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures led a parade of declining prices on the board of trade today.

Wheat prices declined nearly three cents. Corn futures set seasonl lows in all five contracts and soybeans made seasonal lows in four. The selloff was influenced by good scattered rain in western Canada which improved prospects for a better Canadian wheat anr rye crop.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Flax recorded moderate advances in relatively moderate advances in Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. The increases were prompted by the sharply decreased flax acreage planted this year and the current drought which has damaged flax crops.

Rapeseed was lower and reflected losses in Chicago soybeans.

Oats and barley trade was mostly domestic. The Canadian wheat board announced a reduction of ½ cent in the prices of 2-Feed barley and lower grades. Rye was easier reflecting recessions on the Chicago rye market.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and Domestic wheat all were down ⅛.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Speculative Mines Active

Active trading in speculative mines brought heavy afternoon volume today on the Toronto stock exchange.

Consolidated Negus and Cam Mines lost 5 cents each to 89 cents and 1.10. Negus traded 237,166 shares and Cam Mines 176,941. Consolidated Mogul gained 25 cents to 3.95 on 12,240 shares.

In other mining activity, Lake Dufault lost ¾ to 10¾ and Endako ¼ to 10¾. Hudson Bay Mining rose 2 to 63 and Cassiar ¼ to 17¼.

AT TORONTO Westcoast Transmission rose 1⅞ to 30½, International Utilities 1½ to 39¾ and Tamblyn 1 to 27.

Revenue Properties lost 1⅜ to 14¾ and Jefferson Lake ½ to 52½. Jefferson reported earnings of 82 cents a share for the six-month period ended June 30 compared with 68 cents a share for the same period last year.

Among western oils, Central Del Rio lost ½ to 19¼, Banff ⅜ to 17¾ and Canadian Superior Oil ¼ to 44¾. Scurry-Rainbow rose ½ to 46.

AT NEW YORK, after an uncertain start, blue chips gathered strength. Substantial gains were made by General Motors, International Nickel, Eastman Kodak and Johns-Manville.

Xerox had a bad sinking spell. Other high-priced glamor stocks, IBM among them, wear weak.

The market was higher at the start. Initially laggard, the high quality industrials gradually picked up a following.

It was the second of four abbreviated sessions scheduled by the New York and American stock exchanges so that brokerage houses could cope with a big backlog of paperwork.

AT MONTREAL the market moved narrowly higher in brisk trading.

Falconbridge Nickel advanced ⅞ to 94⅝ and International Nickel ¾ to 111. IAC won ½ to 24 and Steel of Canada ⅜ to 24⅞. Calgary Power and Provincial Bank were each up ¼ at 24¾ and 9⅝ respectively.

Denison was off ¾ at 73 and B.C. Forest ½ at 20½, the latter in light volume. CPR, Molson A and Walker Gooderham all dipped ⅜ to 73, 22 and 35⅜ respectively.

Peace River Mining was 25 cents better at $8.75 on the Canadian exchange.

AT LONDON a general lack of confidence prevailed again in equities on the stock market and, although there were not many sellers, buyers were even more rare.

Gilts were quiet again, although the tendency to give ground was more pronounced today.

Dollar stocks were usually lower with the premium which later came off the bottom without helping the market much.

Among Canadian issues, International Nickel, Cominco, Canadian Pacific, Massey-Ferguson, Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas and Noranda were soft spots.

AT VANCOUVER trade was mixed, with gains barely exceeding losses in pre-noon activity.

Coast Copper dropped $1 to $8.50, Craigmont climbed $1 to $12 and PCE Ex added .15 for a new high of $2.30.

Atlas fell .15 to $4.10, while Dynasty rose .15 to $7.90. Highmont was off .25 to $4, Silver Titan off .10 to $1.98 and Westland up .10 to $3.20.

In industrials, Westcoast rose $1.87 to $30.50.

Foreign Capital In Healthy Jump

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's gross liabilities to other countries rose to $32,800,000,000 at the end of 1964 from $30,400,000,000 a year earlier, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday.

The increase, nearly eight per cent, was greater than any year-to-year increase in the 1960s and resulted mainly from growth of foreign long-term direct investment in Canadian industry. Foreign capital invested in Canada totalled $27,354,000,000 at the end of 1964, up five per cent in the year.

U.S. investment accounted for most of the total, rising to $21,400,000,000 from $20,500,000,000 at the end of 1963. United Kingdom investment rose to $3,463,000,000 from $3,331,000,000.

The bureau also released Tuesday a breakdown of direct investment in Canada by countries other than the U.S. and U.K., for 1963. The breakdown is made only biennially. While much smaller in totals, some of the gains were large.

LARGEST

The Netherlands, Belgium, France, Switzerland and Germany are the largest of the other foreign investors in Canada, with The Netherlands showing a 59-per-cent jump in 1963 to $224,000,000 from $141,000,000 in 1961.

Investment by Belgium rose one per cent to $199,000,000 from $197,000,000 in the two years. France's direct investment in Canada was $146,000,000 in 1963, up two per cent from 1961.

Switzerland's investment rose 11 per cent to $142,000,000 from $128,000,000 and West Germany's increased 6.8 per cent to $109,000,000.

The largest parts of Dutch and Belgian investment were in the petroleum industry. French and Swiss investments tended to be in financial enterprises and real estate. German investments were mainly in manufacturing.

Direct investment in Canada by non-residents has increased almost sixfold in the post-war period, from $2,713,000,000 at the end of 1945 to $15,889,000,000 at the end of 1964.

IN U.S.

Mutual Funds Grow In Size, Influence

NEW YORK (AP)—To some investors, they've spelled financial comfort. To others, woe.

Stock prices dip or rise on their decisions.

Whatever their faults or virtues, the country's mutual funds—sitting atop $41,000,000,000 in assets—are rapidlyg rowing in size and influence.

More than 4,000,000 Americans hold shares in almost 7,700,000 mutual fund accounts. In 1940, there were only 296,000 accounts.

With the money obtained by selling shares, the funds buy securities in a number of companies.

Rising stock prices boost the value of mutual fund shares just as falling prices lower their value. Shareholders receive the profits on stock sales. Operating costs, including management fees, are deducted from investment income, such as interest and dividends.

In pursuit of profits (and the avoidance of losses the so-called performance mutual funds and some large institutional investment groups move in and out of the stock market frequently. These operations have drawn some sharp criticism.

The Federal Reserve Board chairman, William McChesney Martin Jr., former New York Stock Exchange president, found in-and-out operations "disquieting."

CRITICISM UNJUST

Criticism of the rate at which funds buy and sell stock—portfolio turnover—is "basically unjust," said an official of a $2,000,000,000 fund. "It's our job to do the best possible job for our shareholders. We don't bomb the market."

Nonetheless, stock prices drop or climb when a large bloc hits the trading floor.

More than 25 per cent of the outstanding stock of Fairchild Camera, one of the electronics stocks, was traded in one day last year. The stock sank $19.62 to $106.75.

Market observers also cite cases in which late afternoon selling pressures by two mutual funds contributed to a decline in one stock from $134 to $119. Another example came when 100,000 shares of an office equipment maker sold, causing a monetary trading suspension and sending the stock down from $210 to 201.

There are cases where funds buy stock and the price jumps up. In one instance, a fund sought a stock selling at $91.50. It finally bought at $94.50 and sold later at well above $100.

Bishop Calls for Action To Ease Tension in City

Arthur Mayse

Victoria's hardy Richardson is no stranger to Arctic ice. The little hydrographic survey ship has spent four of her five winters frozen in at the mouth of the Mackenzie. But that ice is static, and this off Point Barrow was both restless and menacing.

As the rafted floes increased their pressure, the Richardson canted far over on her port side. Capt. Tom McCulloch, the vessel's master since she joined our Hydrographic Service fleet, sent out his distress call. The Camsell, Victoria-based Canadian Coastguard icebreaker, answered from 150 miles north around Point Barrow. So did her American opposite number, the Northwind, from a position east of Bering Strait on the Siberian coast.

Crew member Alan Meadows resumes his account.

"Then for two days," he writes, "we slept and ate in the galley and wheelhouse only, in full Arctic clothing. It was snowing, and the temperature was 32 degrees.

"The watch kept a hawk's eye on the ice. As soon as it was seen to move even slightly, everybody got out on deck fast. Believe me, that ship was under terrific pressure. The pressure would build up until a point was reached where whole massive sections of ice would move, and not slowly, either."

★

When the packed floes shifted, the vessel lurched with them. From 25 degrees port, she swung to 35 starboard, crushing the lifeboat in the process.

"Point Barrow called us every 30 minutes to make sure we were still there," Alan reports, "and the odd aircraft circled us occasionally. The two icebreakers got each to within 30 miles of us from opposite directions, before they became bogged down in the heavy ice, approximately six feet thick."

The Camsell fought her way to Point Barrow, where the pack forced her to a dead stop. Northwind still crept toward the Richardson, with speed reduced to a knot or two.

"Then suddenly, and I mean SUDDENLY, on July 23, the ice began to back off, and leads to form. We soon freed ourselves, and drifted and steamed to within 10 miles of Point Barrow, where we sit at present. The Northwind is still coming up from behind, the Camsell is six miles north of us, stopped and within sight."

Next day, the icebreakers reached the half-crippled Richardson, Northwind sweeping past her first, and Camsell arriving half an hour later. The trap had loosed its grip; but conditions were deteriorating, and the survey ship must be fetched out of there with all possible speed.

★

A triple towing bridle was rigged from Northwind and Camsell to Richardson. Point Barrow and the sheltered lagoon behind it were only 10 miles distant, but, as Alan notes, it was a battering day-long journey, even with Camsell's helicopter scouting the ice ahead.

Safe in the lagoon, they took on food and water from Camsell, then set about inspecting the Richardson's injuries. The battle for survival had left her with a sheared rudder, bent propeller shaft, damaged stearing gear and propeller, three lifeboat ribs smashed, a chunk out of her rail, a large dent in her port side "and other smaller items."

Wrote Alan: "You can see it has been a wild time. I have had about six hours' sleep in the past five days. Right now we are lying alongside Camsell while they try to effect temporary repairs to get us to 'Tuk'." (Tuktoyaktuk, the Richardson's winter haven.)

Seaman and apprentice hydrographer Meadows — a keen fisherman who almost took a summer job as an Up-Island salmon resort guide instead—writes his final letter home as the Richardson moves on toward the Mackenzie mouth with Camsell towing.

"You have no idea of the pounding and pressure from the ice that this little ship has taken," the young man from Victoria concludes. "All I can say is they must have put her together right."

PLACE OF THE MISSING TOTEM POLE is inspected by Victoria Tourist Bureau employee Sharon Kitto.

'The Wanderer' Leaves His Post

The legend of Kha-Ne-Ki-Laq came true Tuesday night.

A 10-foot totem carving representing this mythical figure of coast Indians disappeared from its prominent pedestal on the Causeway just outside the front door of Victoria and Vancouver Island Publicity and Visitors' Bureau.

Kha-Ne-Ki-Laq stood at his post with wings outspread for nearly 20 years, secured to the building by a piece of half-inch steel.

This morning when commissioner Mike Heppell got to work just before 9, the totem was gone, the steel bracket sawn through.

A plaque on the wall gave a brief history of the carving, whose roots go back 500 or 600 years.

Kha-Ne-Ki-Laq was known to all the bands by his acts of graciousness, a natural man who endeared himself to the whole native population.

He was the legendary son of the first man and was also known as "the Wanderer."

Tuesday night he wandered, leaving police no clue.

Expert Look Suggested On Waterway

Expert advice should be sought for Portage Inlet-Gorge Waterway and the Colquitz Creek, Saanich engineer Neville Life said Tuesday night.

He was commenting in a report on a letter from the Portage Inlet and Gorge Waterway Society which suggested dredging this area to clean it up.

"Unfortunately there are many unknowns involved in carrying out any severe course of action such as dredging," said Mr. Life.

"I would suggest we endeavor to embody their thoughts in an over-all proposal for the Colquitz.

"The association and the municipality will require expert advice in this regard. I think we can safely assume that the obtaining of expert advice is a desire common to both parties."

FALL REPORT

The means of obtaining this advice will be suggested in the engineering department's preliminary report in the fall on the Colquitz, which flows into Portage Inlet.

Earlier this year, Saanich council instructed the engineering department to survey the Colquitz to see if it could be improved.

Public works committee decided Tuesday night to inform the Portage Inlet and Gorge Waterway Society of Mr. Life's report.

Dryer on Mattress Starts House Fire

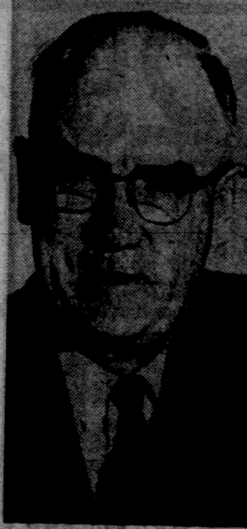
Fire destroyed a mattress and caused smoke damage to the upper floor of the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. DeGirolomo, 1012 Bewdley, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Esquimalt firemen used smoke masks to get into the house and fight the fire which started when a hair dryer was left on the mattress.

Youngsters Warned After Grass Fire

City police warned three youngsters about playing with matches after they started a grass fire in the rocky area by the Memorial Arena at about 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Fire crews spent about 90 minutes extinguishing the fire which covered an area the size of two city lots.



RETIRING for health reasons August 31 is Royal Jubilee Hospital medical superintendent, Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson. He has held the post since 1948. Prior to that he was Victoria medical health officer for three years. He received an MBE for war service. He became a doctor in 1929 and served his internship at Jubilee.

SIZZLER . . . OR HADN'T YOU NOTICED?

Today will probably go down as the hottest day of the year so far.

At noon, thermometers downtown were already touching 80 and still rising.

Hottest time is usually around 3 p.m. when downtown temperatures could be as high as 85.

At the exposed Gonzales weather station noon temperature was 77. Short of a sudden wind, it was expected to top 79 or 80 before the day was out.

Previous high this year at the weather office was 79 degrees on July 2.

Highest this month was 74 on Tuesday and on the third.

Tuna Ships Christened On Saturday

Two helicoper-carrying tuna fishing vessels will be christened Saturday at Yarrows Ltd.

First of their kind to be built in Victoria, the vessels will have the champagne splashed over their bows by the wife of Canadian Tuna Co. (1965) Ltd. president, Emerson H. Gennis.

Each of the 200 feet long ships cost $2¼ million.

The first ready, Atlantic Gairdner will start her sea trials in the next few weeks.

The Atlantic Gennis will not be ready for sea until the end of the year.

PACIFIC RUN

Before heading for the choice tuna grounds off western Africa, the Atlantic Gairdner will have a trial run in the Pacific.

The two will be part of a fleet of five serving Canada's first wholly integrated tuna cannery in St. Stephen, N.B. The other three are being built in Montreal.

The vessels are powered by 2,400 continuous horsepower to five-bladed propellers.

Designed in Holland, they have engines aft and fish cargo holds forward.

The holds, incorporating a new fast-freezing fish storage process, can hold 1,000 tons.

The helicopter on each ship is used for spotting tuna shoals.

Christenings will take place at noon.

Compasses Taken From Fishboats Below Johnson

Two fish boats, tied up at the wharf below Johnson Street, were robbed early Tuesday.

Fred Sheldrake, 841 Ellery, reported a compass worth $50 taken from his boat by thieves who forced the cabin hatchway. Food supplies were also taken.

Silver Jacura, 2659 Douglas, reported the troller Jean was entered and a $20 compass and a $6 barometer are missing.

Saanich police were called to the Mayfair Lanes bowling alley this morning to investigate an overnight robbery.

Thieves smashed a window in the establishment's restaurant to gain entry. They forced open the door of the manager's office, got the keys to the vending machines and took a small amount of cash. The machines had been emptied only a few days before.

Mayor Orders Watering Ban In City Parks

30 Men Out of Work Until Crisis Eases

Mayor Hugh Stephen today ordered a total ban on all sprinkling in city parks and on city-tended boulevards.

The mayor said he hoped the city's example will encourage private citizens to follow suit and impose voluntary bans on lawn sprinkling.

Chief water commissioner Ron Upward said Tuesday one full week without sprinkling would bring water reserves back to a relatively safe level.

He said today that even with a full week's ban imposed throughout the area it is too late to save the salmon and steelhead fry in the Goldstream.

It is feared that this year's salmon hatch will be lost.

Mr. Upward had little sympathy for conservationists lamenting the loss.

PEOPLE FIRST

He repeated what he has stated publicly before: "People are more important than fish. We made a mistake when we agreed originally to release water into the Goldstream to benefit the fish."

Mr. Upward and Mayor Stephen met this morning to discuss the latest developments in the continuing drought which has forced the water district to call for water restrictions for the first time in its history.

There have been watering restrictions—in the past but all have been called for at the municipal level.

Today's ban means that 30 men in the parks department will be laid off until the water reserves are back to a safe level.

City council is expected to endorse the mayor's action Thursday afternoon and to take the matter one stage further by banning all sprinkling in the city for at least one week.

'NO CHOICE'

"As far as I am concerned the people have no choice in the matter," said Mr. Upward. "They either stop watering now or we run out of water in two weeks time."

In the meantime residents of the Saanich Peninsula continue to draw adequate water for domestic needs from Elk Lake and a variety of deep wells.

Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior metro health officer, said Tuesday a quick check of Sidney, North Saanich and Central Saanich revealed no major shortage.

"A few of the private wells are getting low, but there are no reports of anyone being actually dry," he said.

Sidney, which draws its water supply partly from a deep well and partly from the Elk Lake source, reports an adequate supply with no consideration being given to imposing restrictions.

Although Mr. Upward has set a one week period for the sprinkling ban, the seven days could stretch to two or three weeks if the hot weather continues.

Asked how the ban would affect the appearance of the city parks administrator Herb Warren answered "we shall have brown lawns I guess."

Letters to Leaders Urges Open Forums

By PAUL WILLIAMSON

The head of the Roman Catholic Church in Victoria has called for immediate steps to correct what he terms a "restlessness and tension" in the city.

In a letter to eight community leaders, Bishop Remi De Roo suggests a series of "open forums in which for the first time the full extent and nature of our problems could be aired".

The letter has been sent to Mayor Hugh Stephen, Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich, Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay, Reeve Ray Bryant of Esquimalt, Garth Homer of the Community Welfare Council, school board chairman Peter Bunn, University of Victoria president Malcolm Taylor and the Victoria Youth Council.

The bishop's letter said "a number of persons whom I have asked about the local situation think it is becoming worse and I have become concerned about such matters as:

- Social welfare and housing conditions.
- Poverty, especially as it affects older persons.
- Discrimination against racial groups, particularly Indians.
- Moral and legal issues surrounding the increased use of stiumlants and sedatives, particularly the psychedelic drugs.
- The alleged injustice of the vagrancy laws and their enforcement.
- Arbitrary pressures and harassment against non-conforming social groups.

Referring to recent controversities over some of these points, the bishop's letter states "accusations were made that were often poorly founded or only partially justified."

"The controversies emphsized the cleavages and did nothing to improve the situation.

"The danger is now that, unless some effort is deliberately made to remove friction and misunderstanding the bitterness and strife will become even worse."

FIND WAYS

The open forums suggested by the bishop would aim "to open communications between various groups that are now either hostile or misunderstand one another.

"With goodwill, openness to one another and straight talk, I am sure we could find a way to settle differences or at least remove serious misunderstandings."

The letter states "persons not normally represented at such get-togethers" should be included.

"By these I mean nonconformists, persons on welfare, members of minority groups and any others who are interested.

"All too often when community action is being planned the persons involved represent the middle class rather than a real cross-section of our total population."

BIG PROBLEM

"I realize the difficulties of finding articulate spokesmen for minority groups but this is one of our biggest problems and we should face up to it at the beginning."

Bishop De Roo is in Ottawa on routine business, and will return to Victoira early next week.

A spokesman for his office awaiting the reaction to his said the bishop is "anxiously awaiting the reaction to his suggestions.

"The next step will be decided upon when we have received those replies."

Mayor Backs Forums But Wants 'Ferment' Of Debate Avoided

Community leaders have responded with enthusiasm to Bishop Remi De Roo's call for open forums and "straight talk" about community problems.

Some of the reactions are cautious, however.

Mayor Hugh Stephen said today he is "all for" the suggested forums.

"There can be no hope of arriving at solutions to community problems unless there is a dialogue.

'There are two problems surrounding the matters raised in the bishop's letter—the practical considerations and the moral ones."

"We can come up with the answers to the practical problems if the community is willing to provide resources, but the moral questions must be decided by the people as a whole."

'Practical Action'

The mayor stressed solutions to any problem eventually require positive practical action.

Referring to the Mayor and Reeves' Committee on Youth, he said "we are moving on some of these problems and within the next six months will see the development of a positive approach.

"But I am anxious to avoid a ferment of discussion when we are on the verge of action," he cautioned.

Oak Bay Reeve Allan Cox called it a "good move." He said it indicated the church's "desire to actively participate in what apparently are community problems."

"These matters can't be solved by governments alone."

Wait and See

Skeptical of forums where "too often those who speak out are those who like to hear themselves," Reeve Cox said he would wait to see the reaction of other recipients of the letter.

"But there is a polarization of attitudes in the community and churches are an essential element in correcting this if for no other reason than they represent large numbers of people who have a common interest."

School board chairman Peter Bunn called the letter "extremely important."

"It reflects my own feelings," he said "and within an hour after receiving it copies were in the mail to every member of the board. I couldn't have moved more quickly.

"It is essential that we communicate with all groups in society, particularly those young people so difficult for many to understand.

Partly to Blame

"If there are serious problems in the community then we who educated that community are partly to blame.

"We must talk about it. When you're talking to other people, you're not hitting them."

Mr. Bunn said the board meets Thursday and will consider the bishop's letter.

The Victoria Youth Council discussed the letter at a meeting Tuesday night.

They were enthusiastic and intend to reply to Bishop De Roo today outlining some of their proposed projects and offering their co-operation.

'Time Has Come'

David McLean, president of the students' council at the University of Victoria, called the letter "a signal the time has come."

"I'm happy someone in the bishop's position has spoken up and called for this understanding.

"This isn't youth talking—it's a respected and responsible man. I hope the challenge is met by all those who receive the letter."

Mr. McLean said the students' council would be willing to act.

Geisha Girls, Boomerangs For Sailors

Esquimalt-based sailors will see more than their share of the sea in the next six months.

Two extended cruises are lined up for later this year and early '68.

In addition to these, local ships will be taking part in the annual Canadian-U.S. exercise Maple Spring at the beginning of next year.

Officially the navy's not saying where the ships will be going.

But the men are already saving up to buy boomerangs and take tea with Geisha girls.

In past years Operation Maple Spring has been held in the Caribbean. As yet there has been no confirmation as to whether the same locale has been picked for next year's exercise.

Youth Council Gets Office Space At University

The Victoria Youth Council, evicted from its downtown office, has been granted temporary office space in the basement of the Student Union Building at the University of Victoria.

A council spokesman said today they had been unable to find a new office downtown.

"We'll find one but it will take us two or three weeks.

"In the meantime the pressure of work on projects means we must have office space in August."

The youth council received permission to use the building from members of the university's students' council.

TWO YEARS FROM COMPLETION, the new provincial mental health facility at Lee Avenue, just east of Royal Jubilee Hospital, appears well under way. But the project, which will cost more than $6 million, is being built in six contracted steps and June, 1969, is estimated completion date. It will contain 200,000 square fete of floor area but how it will be used, whether for general mental care or for specialized groups has still not been made clear by the department. Local hospital officials are unaware whether the new building will take patients now using Royal Jubilee psychiatric wing or whether other hospital facilities will be merged. Most Island patients now go to Mainland.

'BYPASS PROVINCES'

Planner Urges 'City States'

TORONTO (CP)—A report prepared at the invitation of the Toronto Municipal Research Bureau recommends the abolition of Canada's provinces and says the provincial governments "have little concern about the efficiency of local government or the effectiveness of federal grants spent at the local level."

The report, prepared by a group of Vancouver community leaders under the direction of Dr. Peter Oberlander, a nationally-known community planner, was submitted at a 10-day study and training program on world metropolitan government problems.

It bluntly suggests that provincial jurisdictions could be supplanted by increasing federal powers and creation of large city states.

UN CO-OPERATION

Dr. Oberlander, head of the University of British Columbia's school of planning, said the report was part of a study sponsored by the Toronto bureau in co-operation with the United Nations public administration branch.

The paper says present municipal relations with the two levels of senior government are "beset by friction, recrimination and interminable delays."

"Some of the group thought that as communications continue to improve, Canada might consider eliminating the provincial governments altogether.

"The federal government would then deal with all matters but those involving the major urban-centred regions, which then might become city states on their own.

"In the tug-of-war with the provinces, the federal government has found an ally in the cities.

"Not only the provinces apply the Machiavellian concept of divide and conquer—so does the federal government.

STILL SUFFER

"The municipalities may benefit—from the federal government—but they still suffer from the rural orientation of the majority of provincial legislators."

The report said local governments have little leeway in matters of raising and spending money to "meet the pressing social issues" of the day.

"Local government is caught between the forces of federal and provincial administration with no real room to act or initiate."

The paper was prepared by 26 Vancouver residents under Dr. Oberlander's direction. Vancouver is one of 40 cities represented at the Toronto conference.

LLERAS

COLOMBIA

Coalition Blocks Reforms

BOGOTA (AP) — President Carlos Lleras Restrepo of Colombia is having a hard time trying to put through his ambitious program of social and economic reforms, to accomplish what he promised would be a bloodless revolution to bring about a more equalitarian society.

Lleras has been mildly successful with some of his reforms, but most of his program, carefully detailed before he took over the presidency a year ago, is still in the making, delayed by opposition in Congress.

The opposition, a coalition of such dissimilar groups as the right-wing followers of former strongman Gustavo Rojas Pinilla, the extreme left-liberal revolutionary movement MRL, and a splinter conservative group, controls one-third of all congressional seats. It is able to block measures because the constitution stipulates that new legislation has to be enacted by a majority of two-thirds of Congress.

FISTIC DUELS

Recently in a wild brawl—revolvers were brandished by congressmen, and there were several fistic duels—the House of Representatives refused to pass a constitutional amendment giving the government special powers to deal with social and economic problems without having to seek congressional approval.

The president wanted to issue a series of decrees making it easier for the working and middle classes to acquire housing, to provide better medical services, to build more schools and train more teachers, and to give easy credit to farmers so as to increase agricultural production and lower prices of staple foods.

President Lleras was counting on these special powers to deal with many problems affecting the economy. An economic recession has been going on for the last two years. Unemployment is calculated at about 12 per cent of the labor force. And the country is short of hard currency to pay for necessary imports.

Final Concert Before Expo

The Irvin Lang Trio will appear in Centennial Square Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Vocalist Brian Anderson and comedian Reg Stoffer will also perform with them. The concert is sponsored by the Greater Victoria Centennial Society and the American Federation of Musicians.

On Friday at 8 p.m. the Thunderbird All Girls Drum Corps and singers Dinny Hicks and Jerry Pacquette will stage a performance in the Square.

This is one of the last performances of the drum corps before their appearance at Expo 67.

Navy Man Dies in Valley Car Crash

MATSQUI (CP)—A youth was killed today when a car hit an embankment near Matsqui in the Fraser Valley earlier in the day. Dead is 19-year-old Robert Livingstone of HMCS Aldergrove navy base at nearby Langley.

Critically injured in the crash was 19-year-old Barbara Butka, of Abbotsford.

Playwright Found Dead in Flat

LONDON (UPI)—British playwright Joe Orton, 34, author of the highly successful play "Loot", and the friend with whom he shared his apartment were found dead today in their home.

Detectives found a blood-stained hammer in the apartment and are treating the case as one of murder and suicide.

Jenkins Wins 15th Game

CHICAGO (AP)—Ferguson Jenkins, limiting Pittsburgh to four hits, pitched and batted Chicago Cubs to a 6-0 victory over the Pirates today in the first game of a double-header and became the first 15-game winner in the National League.

New Oil Slick Off U.K. Coast

LONDON (Reuters)—A massive oil slick said to be 10 miles long and 60 yards wide is threatening holiday beaches along England's south coast. The oil patch, of unknown origin, is about two miles off shore in the area of the south coast towns of Eastbourne, Hastings and Shoreham.

Man Run Over, Killed by CN Train

LYTTON (CP)—Roy Alphonse Williams, 24, of Lytton, was killed early today when run over by an eastbound Canadian National Railways passenger train.

Williams apparently had been lying between the rails prior to the mishap, police said.

Canada Trails In Golf Play

A charging South African team continued to display the early authority and Canada found itself in a trailing position in their Commonwealth team matches at Victoria Golf Club today.

The undefeated South Africans, who convincingly routed co-champion Australia in the opening round Tuesday, posted a 2-1 edge over Canada in this morning's Scotch foursomes.

That meant Canada went into the afternoon needing to win four of the six singles for a draw, and five for a victory.

Gary Cowan, the Ontario belter who won the U.S. Amateur championship last year, teamed up with Calgary veteran Keith Alexander to give Canada its only point this morning. They defeated South Africa's David Symons and Comrie du Toit, 4 and 3.

Canadian veterans Nick Weslock and Johnny Johnston, despite a late charge, bowed 2 and 1 to South African champion Derek Kemp and partner Hugh Baiocchi.

MISSED CHANCE

The Canucks still had a chance to win or split the final foursomes until Doug Silverberg and youthful Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver ran into trap grief or two late holes.

Silverberg and Vollmer were four down after eight holes, but won three straight — the 9th, 10th and 11th — to jump into contention.

Disaster hit the Canadian team on the 15th, however, and they lost 3 and 2. One down playing the 15th, the Canadians appeared in excellent position to pull even when John Fourie plunked South Africa's approach shot into a trap on the par-four. dogleg. Instead of being able to take advantage, Silverberg's shot to the green also dropped into a trap. Vollmer's attempted chip-out from the hazard failed and it was all over when the Canadians again caught a trap on the 16th.

GOOD START

The Aussies got a good start against the British when the first pairing of Kevin Donohoe and Kevin Hartley scored an eagle three on the par-five first hole. The Kevins also eagled the par five 11th and went on to lace the British pairing of Ronnie Shade and Sandy Saddler, 6 and 5.

Dennis Bell and Victor Bulgin gave the Aussies their second point by defeating Gordon Cosh and Rodney Foster, 4 and 3.

Brilliant putting and short-iron play by playing captain Michael Bonallack and Dudley Millensted salvaged Britain's only victory. They toured the three par-three "point" holed (7-8-9) with three successive birdies and added an eagle three on the 11th.

The British pairing was six under par for the 14 holes they needed to beat Phil Billings and Bill Britten, 5 and 4.

Black Bear Mauls B.C. Girl to Death

VERNON (CP) — A black bear Tuesday attacked and killed a 10-year-old girl on the west bank of Okanagan Lake 25 miles from here.

Dead is Susan Duckitt, who was holidaying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Duckitt, and her brother and sister. The family is from the Fraser Valley community of Haney.

Susan had been picnicking with another girl, nine-year-old Jennifer McHugh of North Vancouver when the bear attacked.

"We had walked back up into the hills," Jennifer said. "We sat down after walking for about half an hour. We were looking down over the lake when we first saw the bear standing on its hind feet.

"We both started to scream and run down the hill to home. Susan was right behind me.

"I heard a funny scream and looked around but I didn't see anything."

The bear was described as a four-year-old male, apparently in good health and well fed.

Wildlife authorities said they know of no other attack by a black bear where cubs were not involved.

Conservation officer Alan Frisby at first refused to believe the girl had been killed by the male and set out with tracking dogs to try and find a female with cubs. But an examination of the bear, after it had been shot, proved it was the killer.

Gordon Hogue, of Edmonton, and others went to look for the girl. Six shots were fired by the searchers but just one, by Mr. Hogue, was needed to kill the bear.

Bomb Rocks Ship Terminal

By JOHN KIRKWOOD
Times Asia Bureau

HONG KONG — A Communist terror bomb exploded today in Hong Kong's luxurious Ocean Terminal as it was crowded with tourists and local residents.

A young English woman was injured in the blast which rocked the building's main hall and sent scores of people dashing for safety.

This was the latest in a series of bomb outrages today which injured seven people as the Red terrorists mounted a hit and run campaign in the Kowloon Peninsula across the harbor from Hong Kong Island.

I was walking only about 20 yards away when the home-made bomb exploded at the information counter.

SHOPPING COMPLEX

The explosion was heard throughout the huge shopping and shipping complex, a cloud of smoke swirled through the main hall and the young English receptionist, identified as Jacqueline Turner, 21, working at the counter was hurled from her chair.

She was rushed to hospital suffering an injured leg and hand. Tourists and residents dining in an expensive restaurant on the terminal's upper deck scrambled from their tables to seek cover and others dashed from nearby shops to see what had happened.

IN CAMERA CASE

The bomb is believed to have been concealed in a camera case planted inside the counter. The blast ripped part of the counter away and debris was scattered across the floor.

Police immediately sealed off the area when another suspected bomb was found but British army ballistics experts found it was a fake.

The Ocean Terminal, one of the most modern in the world, is in the heart of Kowloon's Tsimshatsiu tourist and shopping area. A French passenger liner was tied up at the terminal when the bomb exploded.

BY U.S. SENATORS

'Step Up Bombing' Johnson Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John C. Stennis, D.—Miss., called today for "increased and expanded" bombing of North Vietnam to hasten the end of the war. House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said the attacks should be stepped up even at the risk of a wider war.

Opening Senate hearings on the effectiveness of the bombing as part of a broad, new Congressional debate over air war policy Stennis said either a bombing pause or restrictions on bombing could be "a tragic and perhaps fatal mistake."

Ford triggered a new flurry of controversy between "hawks" and "doves" with an attack on the administration for putting man targets off-limits. He was asked if he favored intensified bombing even if at the risk of bringing China or Russia into the war.

"Yes, I would," he replied. Rep. John J. Rhodes, R—Ariz., chairman of the house GOP policy committee, commented at a joint news conference with Ford, "there's always a risk involved in war."

Stennis appeared to side with Ford who said no more troops should be sent to Vietnam until restrictions are removed from the bombimg. Stennis declined to bracket himself formally with Ford when reporters questioned him, but he commented that he felt the air war "should be enlarged."

'NO CHOICE'

He said he felt President Johnson has "no choice but to step up the bombing" and asserted: "The question is, shall we send more troops into Vietnam if we are not going to enlarge the bombing. It's hard to see how we can commit more men to the ground war in South Vietnam without cutting off the supply lines flowing in from North Vietnam."

Stennis' Senate military preparedness subcommittee is conducting the air war hearings — with reporters barred.

Adm. Ulysses G. Grant Sharp, commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific, was quoted as saying

Soviet Policy Rapped By Radical Latin Reds

HAVANA (Reuters)—The Latin American Solidarity Organization of Revolutionary Forces meeting here today approved a controversial resolution condemning Soviet economic and technical policy in the Western Hemisphere.

Approval came after hours of acrimonious discussion in a crisis session of one of the working commissions despite threats by traditionalist Communists to walk out of the conference if the motion was approved.

But when the motion was approved 15 to 3 with nine abstentions, the traditionalists did not immediately carry out their threat.

Observers saw the resolution as underlining the split between the old-line revolutionaries who look towards Havana and the orthodox Moscow-oriented Communist parties of the hemisphere.

Observers consider the traditionalists, though they did not walk out, now will leave the Latin American Solidarity Organization once they return home.

The crisis came Tuesday night after Cuba and other hardline revolutionaries sponsored a resolution denouncing the policy of certain socialist countries which gave credits and technical aid to "dictatorships" and "oligarchies" in the hemisphere.

This was an unmistakable reference to the Soviet Union, Poland and other Communist nations which recently signed agreements with Colombia, Brazil, Chile and other Latin American countries.

Main support for the motion was expounded in a two-hour speech by Armando Hart, organizing secretary of the Cuban Communist party.

Sources said Cuba and Venezuela led the voting in favor of the motion. Uruguay, Costa Rica and El Salvador voted against.

Chile, whose delegation is divided between hard-line socialists and Communists, abstained.

'Bomber' Pilot Killed Fighting Forest Fire

TRAIL (CP) — The pilot was killed when an Avenger water bomber crashed and burned Tuesday while fighting a forest fire near this eastern British Columbia city.

Witnesses said the single-seater aircraft and two other water bombers were attempting to douse a fire touched off by lightning at Kelly creek south of Fruitvale, 240 air miles east of Vancouver.

The plane was owned by Skyways Air Services of Abbotsford.

Officials later indentified the pilot as Donald Hill of White Rock, 20 miles south of Vancouver.

The fire is in the Nelson forest district, a 30,000-square-mile area hit hard by fires this summer.

A 12,000-acre blaze that had raged out of control for a week was being contained Tuesday night, but there still were 94 fires burning in the district. Many were started by lightning on the weekend.

The water bomber crash was the second in B.C. in less than a month.

Pilot Alex Davidson and spotter R. T. Moore were killed July 17 when their bomber crashed while fighting a blaze on Skirt Mountain near Victoria.

Four men were killed in the crash of a Martin mars water bomber in 1961 near Parksville on Vancouver Island. Another pilot was killed in 1960 while fighting a fire near Kelowna, in the Okanagan.

'Riots Lack Support Of Peking'

HONG KONG (UPI)—A former Chinese Communist official who played a leading role in mapping anti-British riots sweeping the colony has defected to Nationalist China, it was disclosed today.

The former Red Chinese official who suddenly popped up in Tapei, Formosa, told newsmen he believed the leftist riots on Hong Kong will gradually taper off because they do not have the full support of the Peking regime.

The disclosure of the defection came amid a new burst of terrorist bombings in the colony that injured at least seven persons, including the first European to be injured by a bomb since violence erupted three months ago in the aftermath of labor unrest.

Supplies Short at Royal City

Forty-eight hours' strike notice was posted today at Nanaimo General Hospital by the International Union of Operating Engineers.

After Friday morning, the engineers will be legally able to strike this hospital, said union international representative Ed Callan.

A total of 21 hospitals are involved in the current dispute, including the six major hospitals where strike notice was served last month.

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — The International Union of Operating Engineers started a strike today against the Royal Columbian Hospital in support of wage demands, and threatened to spread the walkout to five other British Columbia hospitals.

Two union members picketed the hospital, near the area where trucks dump fuel to fire boilers used in heating the big hospital. The union provides the five men that man the boilers.

Hospital officials said supervisory personnel were maintaining the hospital's heating system, but if existing fuel supplies are used at a normal rate, it will be gone in about 24 hours.

There was no indication this morning from the union or the hospitals when strike action will start at Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's.

But a union spokesman warned there will be "quick action" unless there is a sign of settlement in New Westminster.

A spokesman said a lack of heating facilities could seriously impair hospital efficiency.

CANCEL OPERATIONS

Doctors at the Royal Columbian have been asked to cancel all elective surgery and to discharge as many patients as possible. Dr. R. G. Foulkes, the hospital's medical superintendent said not many of the 403 patients there when the strike started have been able to leave.

The warning that the strike will spread came from Henry Berger, business manager of the union Local 882, which represents about 50 stationary engineers at the six hospitals.

He said the strike will soon include Vancouver General, Burnaby General and St. Paul's hospitals on the lower mainland if wage demands are not met.

The union has served strike notice on all the hospitals involved, but no date has been set for walkouts at the others.

The union demands parity between third-class engineers rates at all six hospitals, and has rejected a conciliation board report recommending a $20 a month higher rate at the two Victoria hospitals.

The engineers seek rates of $630 a month now and $670 a month next July. The conciliation board recommended rates of $620 and $660 a month respectively at the two Victoria hospitals, and $600 and $640 a month at the others.

Rates now are $560 a month at Royal Jubilee and $540 at the others.

Professionals Ignited Ghetto Fury

The Detroit race riot, how it was fomented and kept aflame, is explored in a four-part series beginning today on page 5 by the distinguished U.S. Negro journalist and author, Louis Lomax.

The first instalment tells how professional Negro revolutionaries stirred up the people of the ghetto and drove them to fury.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Flax recorded moderate advances in relatively moderate advances in Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. The increases were prompted by the sharply decreased flax acreage planted this year and the current drought which has damaged flax crops.

Rapeseed was lower and reflected losses in Chicago soybeans.

Oats and barley trade was mostly domestic. The Canadian wheat board announced a reduction of ½ cent in the prices of 2-Feed barley and lower grades. Rye was easier reflecting recessions on the Chicago rye market.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and Domestic wheat all were down ⅛.

Consolidated Negus and Cam Mines lost 5 cents each to 89 cents and 1.10. Negus traded 237,166 shares and Cam Mines 176,941. Consolidated Mogul gained 25 cents to 3.95 on 12,240 shares.

In other mining activity, Lake Dufault lost ¾ to 10¾ and Endako ¼ to 10¾. Hudson Bay Mining rose 2 to 63 and Cassiar ¼ to 17¼.

AT TORONTO Westcoast Transmission rose 1⅞ to 30½, International Utilities 1½ to 39¾ and Tamblyn 1 to 27.

Revenue Properties lost 1⅜ to 14¾ and Jefferson Lake ½ to 52½. Jefferson reported earnings of 82 cents a share for the six-month period ended June 30 compared with 68 cents a share for the same period last year.

Among western oils, Central Del Rio lost ½ to 19¼, Banff ⅜ to 17¾ and Canadian Superior Oil ¼ to 44¾. Scurry-Rainbow rose ½ to 46.

AT NEW YORK, after an uncertain start, blue chips gathered strength. Substantial gains were made by General Motors, International Nickel, Eastman Kodak and Johns-Manville.

Xerox had a bad sinking spell. Other high-priced glamor stocks, IBM among them, wear weak.

The market was higher at the start. Initially laggard, the high quality industrials gradually picked up a following.

It was the second of four abbreviated sessions scheduled by the New York and American stock exchanges so that brokerage houses could cope with a big backlog of paperwork.

AT MONTREAL the market moved narrowly higher in brisk trading.

Falconbridge Nickel advanced ⅞ to 94⅝ and International Nickel ¾ to 111. IAC won ½ to 24 and Steel of Canada ⅜ to 24⅞. Calgary Power and Provincial Bank were each up ¼ at 24¾ and 9⅝ respectively.

Denison was off ¾ at 73 and B.C. Forest ½ at 20½, the latter in light volume. CPR, Molson A and Walker Gooderham all dipped ⅜ to 73, 22 and 35⅝ respectively.

Peace River Mining was 25 cents better at $8.75 on the Canadian exchange.

AT LONDON a general lack of confidence prevailed again in equities on the stock market and, although there were not many sellers, buyers were even more rare.

Gilts were quiet again, although the tendency to give ground was more pronounced today.

Dollar stocks were usually lower with the premium which later came off the bottom without helping the market much.

Among Canadian issues, International Nickel, Cominco, Canadian Pacific, Massey-Ferguson, Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas and Noranda were soft spots.

AT VANCOUVER trade was mixed, with gains barely exceeding losses in pre-noon activity.

Coast Copper dropped $1 to $8.50, Craigmont climbed $1 to $12 and PCE Ex added .15 for a new high of $2.30.

Atlas fell .15 to $4.10, while Dynasty rose .15 to $7.90. Highmont was off .25 to $4, Silver Titan off .10 to $1.98 and Westland up .10 to $3.20.

Foreign Capital In Healthy Jump

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's gross liabilities to other countries rose to $32,800,000,000 at the end of 1964 from $30,400,000,000 a year earlier, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday.

The increase, nearly eight per cent, was greater than any year-to-year increase in the 1960s and resulted mainly from growth of foreign long-term direct investment in Canadian industry. Foreign capital invested in Canada totalled $27,354,000,000 at the end of 1964, up five per cent in the year.

U.S. investment accounted for most of the total, rising to $21,400,000,000 from $20,500,000,000 at the end of 1963. United Kingdom investment rose to $3,463,000,000 from $3,331,000,000.

The bureau also released Tuesday a breakdown of direct investment in Canada by countries other than the U.S. and U.K., for 1963. The breakdown is made only biennially. While much smaller in totals, some of the gains were large.

LARGEST

The Netherlands, Belgium, France, Switzerland and Germany are the largest of the other foreign investors in Canada, with The Netherlands showing a 59-per-cent jump in 1963 to $224,000,000 from $141,000,000 in 1961.

Investment by Belgium rose one per cent to $199,000,000 from $197,000,000 in the two years. France's direct investment in Canada was $146,000,000 in 1963, up two per cent from 1961.

Switzerland's investment rose 11 per cent to $142,000,000 from $128,000,000 and West Germany's increased 6.8 per cent to $109,000,000.

The largest parts of Dutch and Belgian investment were in the petroleum industry. French and Swiss investments tended to be in financial enterprises and real estate. German investments were mainly in manufacturing.

Direct investment in Canada by non-residents has increased almost sixfold in the post-war period, from $2,713,000,000 at the end of 1945 to $15,889,000,000 at the end of 1964.

B.C. Hydro Asks Tenders On Projects

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tenders have been invited on two major new contracts for main transmission lines from the Peace River power project to southwestern B.C., the B.C. Power and Hydro Authority said today.

The first project is conductor-stringing and installation of insulators and hardware on two sections of the 500,000-volt, 574-mile transmission system.

The sections are a 108-mile stretch of line from Boston Bar to the Indlegew substation in Surrey, southern terminus of the system and a 173-mile portion of line from Portage Mountain dam to Prince George. Closing date for bids is Sept. 12.

The other contract is for supply and delivery of steel for towers on a 180-mile section of number two line between Kelly Lake, near Lillooet, via Squamish to Ingledew. Tenders will be accepted until Oct. 10.

Total cost of the two projects is estimated at more than $8,000,000.

Mutual Funds Grow In Size, Influence

NEW YORK (AP)—To some investors, they've spelled financial comfort. To others, woe.

Stock prices dip or rise on their decisions.

Whatever their faults or virtues, the country's mutual funds—sitting atop $41,000,000,000 in assets—are rapidly growing in size and influence.

More than 4,000,000 Americans hold shares in almost 7,700,000 mutual fund accounts. In 1940, there were only 296,000 accounts.

With the money obtained by selling shares, the funds buy securities in a number of companies.

Rising stock prices boost the value of mutual fund shares just as falling prices lower their value. Shareholders receive the profits on stock sales. Operating costs, including management fees, are deducted from investment income, such as interest and dividends.

In pursuit of profits (and the avoidance of losses the so-called performance mutual funds and some large institutional investment groups move in and out of the stock market frequently. These operations have drawn some sharp criticism.

The Federal Reserve Board chairman, William McChesney Martin Jr., former New York Stock Exchange president, found in-and-out operations "disquieting."

CRITICISM UNJUST

Criticism of the rate at which funds buy and sell stock—portfolio turnover—is "basically unjust," said an official of a $2,000,000,000 fund. "It's our job to do the best possible job for our shareholders. We don't bomb the market."

Nonetheless, stock prices drop or climb when a large bloc hits the trading floor.

More than 25 per cent of the outstanding stock of Fairchild Camera, one of the electronics stocks, was traded in one day last year. The stock sank $19.62 to $106.75.

Market observers also cite cases in which late afternoon selling pressures by two mutual funds contributed to a decline in one stock from $134 to $119. Another example came when 100,000 shares of an office equipment maker sold, causing a monetary trading suspension and sending the stock down from $210 to 201.

There are cases where funds buy stock and the price jumps up. In one instance, a fund sought a stock selling at $91.50. It finally bought at $94.50 and sold later at well above $100.

New Rampage By Congolese Troops Charged

BUJUMBURA, Burundi (AP)—Some refugees arriving from the eastern Congo say white mercenaries and Katangan troops have occupied Bakuvu. But others report they pulled out of the provincial capital Monday and returning Congolese troops went on another rampage.

Refugees who fled to Burundi from Kivu province said hard fighting took place between Congolese troops defending Bukavu and a force of mercenaries and their Katangan allies. But on Monday the fighting subsided and the Congolese troops fled, the refugees said.

Another group of 90 refugees who escaped to Rwanda and arrived in Athens Tuesday said the mercenaries and Katangans putlled out of Bukavu Monday, leaving them at the mercy of vengeful Congolese troops.

INCLUDES NUNS

The group included plantation men, Greek merchants, nuns and priests. Their accounts were reminiscent of the reports of Congolese troops running wild in July took the city and then withdrew.

"I can't describe it, it's undescribable," said a weeping, 17-year-old Greek girl.

Another Greek refugee said about 15 mercenaries—mostly Belgians, Italians and Spaniards—entered Bukavu at 6 a.m. on Aug. 5, accompanied by 60 Katangans.

"We were working our shops," he said. "The mercenaries came and offered us guns and asked us to join them.

"We refused and two days later they left.

"A few hours after they departed the Congolese national army entered the city. They started looting and destroying everything.

"Everyone who was white was treated as if he was a mercenary."

One woman said groups of women and children have been sleeping on the floor of foreign consulates and hospitals for the last week waiting to go to the Rwanda republic.

POINTED GUNS

Another merchant said the Congolese soldiers "came to our houses with pointed guns and asked for clothes and money."

"Those who refused were beaten."

One European is reported to have offered the Congolese soldiers 1,000,000 Congolese francs to save his daughter from rape.

A merchant said the Congolese soldiers were fighting with civilians over the loot from European shops and houses.

A Belgian plantation owner said 12 persons had died in the Bukavu fighting—three mercenaries and nine civilians. Other refugees said 11 were killed.

The plantation owner said he and 25 other persons fled at night in five outboard motorboats, crossing Lake Kivu to Rwanda.

Mercenaries and Katangans rebelled against the Congolese government early last month.

Vintage Gun Display Slated For August 27

Vintage guns dating back to the American War of Independence will be on display here Aug. 27.

The ancient arms will be shown at the Vancouver Island Arms Collectors Association's Centennial Gun Show in the Old Age Pensioners Number One Hall at Pandora and Government.

Guns and small military weapons of all types will be on display.

The association's president, Travers Custance, said the annual show, usually held in October, is being held in August this year to enable more tourists to attend.

"In the past there has been a tremendous interest in our collection," he said. "We would like to let more people in on it."

Mr. Custance personal collection of British and Canadian military weapons includes a 200-year-old British Brown Bess musket.

"I bought it five years ago for $85, but it's probably worth $150 now."

DACCA (AP) —About 5,000 persons have died of smallpox in rural areas of the Pabna district of Pakistan 90 miles northwest of Dacca, the government-controlled Morning News Despatch reports. The newspaper also reports more than 3,000 smallpox deaths in the Manikanj area, 40 miles from Dacca. The shortage of preventive medicines and medical officers is blamed for thousands of deaths annually in rural areas.
